GALES LASH ATLANTIC

Ships Battered by Waves

Keen Anxiety Felt in Marine Circles for Safety of Two Freighters

Ice-Covered Liners Creep Into Port; Crews Tell of Storm's Fury

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Gales today continued to whip the North Atlantic into mountains and canyons, arousing fears for at least two vessels, delaying scores and sending a few smaller craft crashing into the shore.

The chief anxiety was felt for the freighter Bretonia, which sailed for this port from St. Pierre on the 12th inst., and the German freighter Henrich Kaiser, which last reported when she sent out an SOS 500 miles off Cape May on the 6th inst.

In addition, a flutter ran through marine circles when the Shipping Board motorship Munmotor, bound for Norfolk from Boston, radioed for help off Five Fathom Bank Light. The Munmotor, with a crew of forty-two aboard, reported a bad list to starboard, but a later message stated she had righted a little. Meanwhile the Coast Guard cutter Kickapoo put out to her assistance from Cape May.

SCHOONER WRECKED

The most important wreck reported was that of the schooner Annie L. Spindler, out of Yarmouth, N. S., which struck near Provincetown, Mass., sending her crew of six ashore in a breeches buoy. An unconfirmed report had it that she was carrying a cargo of liquor.

Shipping offices in New York, Halifax and other ports were bombarded with wireless messages from liners reporting delays caused by midwinter storms.

The Berengaria, bearing Ambassador Harvey back to Washington from London, was one of the vessels held up. Due here today, she reported that she was still 317 miles off this port and did not expect to reach quarantine until Sunday morning.

Waves also were lashing the sides of the giant Majestic, carrying the British finance mission to the United States, and Emile Coue, proponent of autosuggestion, bound here for a lecture tour.

BEAR MUTE EVIDENCE

Nearly twenty-five steamers which crept into port today showed the effects of the battering they had received.

The Manchuria reported three of her crew in the sick bay with injuries received when smitten by a gigantic wave. Battened below decks for most of the voyage were 246 seasick passengers.

The President Monroe, snow and ice covered from stem to stern, arrived looking like an iceberg, after fighting the worst gales her skipper could remember. Once, he said, when a 100-mile-an-hour wind was blowing, she could make but four knots.

STEAMER IN DISTRESS

The Heinrich Kayser was reported in distress in a gale with her rudder chain broken, and hatches badly damaged. The report was received twenty-three days ago.

Grave doubts as to her having weathered this storm had been expressed by maritime officials. She was bound for Hamburg. A report that a coast guard cutter had been sent to her assistance is said to have been unfounded.

Her crew is believed to have numbered about thirty. The freighter was the property of Heinrich Kayser & Son, of Hamburg. She was of 4844 gross tons. On the 3rd inst. she set sail from Norfolk for Rotterdam, Bremen and Hamburg. Three days later she was in distress off Cape May and from that day no trace or word has been received from her.

A radio received tonight from the Munmotor by officials of the Munson Line, indicated she was heading south at five knots with the gale astern. One of her hatches had been smashed in by a huge wave. The cutter Mascout from Norfolk, was reported to have gone to her aid.

PROVINCETOWN (Mass.) Dec. 29.—High and dry on the rocks off the Race Point coast guard station, the two-masted British schooner Annie L. Spindler, out of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, was breaking up tonight under a fierce northeast gale, while scores of Cape Cod folk waited on shore in the hope of salvaging part of her cargo. The schooner, it was reported, has on board 600 cases of whisky. Her

MEDIEVAL TYRANNY MARKS MOB RULE IN LOUISIANA

Leaders Assumed Absolute Sway Over Parish

BY ROBERT M. LEE

MER ROUGE (La.) Dec. 29.—Capt. J. K. Spikworth hardly can escape being the big figure in the Ku Klux Klan agitation which now is moving on to the trial of those accused of the murders of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards. He has been the big figure for the last year and now it seems inevitable that he is to be regarded as the symbol of the Klan.

He must be the symbol because Gov. Parker, by enlarging the scope of his investigation to a Statewide process and by enlisting the aid of the Federal government, has surrounded his actions by all the drapery of national interest.

It is important, therefore, to analyze the Klan in Morehouse parish, from the revolutionary town called after Baron Bastrop to the swampy district called Bonne Idee Bayou; how it developed from a lodge to a political machine and then hit the rocks as a communistic tribunal.

DRUNK WITH POWER

The temperate anti-Klan people will say, "Skipworth and McKoin lost their heads. They were drunk with secret power. They had power over the lives of men and women. Skipworth could order this man or that woman to leave town and it was done. He could send for this man and instantly a squad of hooded riders went and fetched that man before him.

"Skipworth never regarded himself as a citizen. He always was the Exalted Cyclops of Klan 34, Realm of Louisiana. He never appeared in any other capacity. McKoin was his captain at Mer Rouge. The Mer Rouge people resented McKoin's presumptions."

The case against these Klan is that the members went under hood and gown; that they took the law into their hands; that they whipped men and exiled women from their homes; that they kidnaped men off the streets; that they frightened out of the country negroes peaceably employed; that they controlled the parish offices to the obstruction of justice, and that they slaughtered two reputable citizens.

CYCLOPSING HIS ONLY JOB

So far as can be learned by the Department of Justice operatives, Skipworth has had no other occupation in the last fourteen months than that of Cyclops. He has held Klan headquarters in the Parish Courthouse. He has damned the governor of Louisiana in no uncertain terms. When he was asked if he knew what had become of Daniels and Richards, he said:

"They didn't like me and they were anti-Klan. I don't give a damn where they are."

Although there was direct evidence from Klan members and from returned victims pointing to the August kidnaping and murders, and although there were constant agonizing appeals from the wife and children of Richards and the old father of Daniels and from hundreds of their friends, the parish officials never turned a hand to

BORAH PLAN SHELVED

Idahoan Induced to Yield

Lodge and Watson Tell of "Feelers" Put Out to Europe

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. — The fight over the proposal of Senator Borah that President Harding call an economic conference came to a sensational climax in the Senate today when the Idaho Senator announced that he would withhold his proposed amendment to the naval appropriation bill on administration assurances given by Senator Watson of Indiana that the President already was sounding out the situation in a way that might lead to some movement that would aid the adjustment of conditions prevailing in Europe.

Senator Borah made known his decision during the debate after Senator Watson, one of the administration spokesmen, who was instrumental in lining up the administration forces in opposition to the proposal, appealed to the Idaho Senator not to press his proposed resolution for substantially the same reasons outlined in President Harding's letter yesterday.

"FEELERS" ARE OUT

Senator Watson disclosed that administration "feelers" had been made as to European policy and referred to the statement in President Harding's letter that it was necessary first to ascertain whether overtures for a conference would be "welcome."

"And I go so far as to say," said the Indiana Senator, "that that has been done and that the things that have been undertaken may, if successfully continued, go so far as to result in the holding of a conference in the future."

Senator Watson then suggested that Senator Borah withhold his amendment on the ground that the administration's course would be embarrassed.

Senator Reed asked whether the administration's negotiations were for the purpose of calling "this conference."

NOT NEGOTIATIONS

"No, not negotiations," Senator Watson replied. "What I said was that 'feelers' had been put out; that the foreign nations were being sounded with a view to finding out whether the United States may be helpful and that, in my opinion, it might lead to a conference; that I had no authority whatever to say that. I speak purely for myself as an individual and give my personal views, representing the opinions of nobody in authority. At the same time, I am not ignorant of the fact that these feelers have been put out just as the President in his letter states."

Senator Watson admitted that the situation was not one of "negotiations," but of diplomatic "conversations." Senator Borah, pressing for more definite information, asked if the administration course might "ultimately lead to a conference covering the question of the economic conditions."

"Or, to some gathering for the purpose of determining the problem," Senator Watson replied.

"But the Senator does know that the feelers have been put out," Senator Borah pressed.

"That is my understanding," Senator Watson replied.

"And that it has for its ultimate object the adjusting of the conditions which now prevail in Europe?"

"The aiding of the adjustment," said Senator Watson, adding that "feelers have been put out for the last two or three months for the purpose of ascertaining the situation and just how far we could go."

He declared however, that he was not advised that they looked to the conference proposed by Borah and added that he did not know to what length the administration's efforts had gone.

CLUBMEN ARE INDICTED

Prominent New Yorkers Held to Answer by Grand Jury for Asserted Liquor Party

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Investigation by a Federal grand jury into a bachelors' dinner at the fashionable Racquet and Tennis Club on Park avenue, at which liquor was asserted to have flowed freely, today brought indictment of thirteen men, including four members of the La Montagne family, prominent in society.

Two indictments were returned charging conspiracy to violate the Volstead and Internal Revenue acts, through which approximately 30,000 gallons of assorted liquors were asserted to have been illegally sold. Some of those indicted also were charged with having forged liquor permits and other papers.

Federal Judge Knox received the indictments on a day in which two other juries—one in the Court of General Sessions in New York, and the other in Brooklyn—had handed up presentments urging repeal of the State Prohibition Enforcement Act on the ground that it was ineffective and wasteful of public funds.

The principal defendants, according to U. S. Attorney Hayward, were Montigue La Montagne and his three younger brothers, Rene, William and Morgan. Rene has been long in the public eye as one of the foremost American polo players, having appeared several times in international competition.

While prohibition enforcement was occupying the attention of various New York courts, prohibition agents, who were said to have given Broadway the dryest Christmas in its history, were planning to usher in the new year just as aridly.

Aided at sea by storms which have dashed several rum craft on the rocks, dry agents ashore were obtaining scores of injunctions destined to close various cabarets as public nuisances.

Director Appleby of the "dry navy" admitted several big ships were hovering off the harbor, but calculated that their chances of transferring their cargo to smaller craft in the rough sea were decidedly slim.

ROWELL TO QUIT POST JANUARY 4

Clyde L. Seavey Talked of as Successor on Railroad Commission

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Chester Rowell, State Railroad Commissioner, today sent his resignation to Gov. Stephens. The resignation is effective Thursday, January 4.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 29.—The resignation of Clyde L. Seavey, City Manager of Sacramento, to accept appointment, as a member of the State Railroad Commission is expected as the result of developments today that indicated Gov. Stephens has offered the position to him.

No definite agreement has been reached, but indications at the City Hall were that Seavey was preparing to give up his municipal office to resume service with the State.

Seavey late today declared that any statement regarding the reported offer would have to come from the Governor.

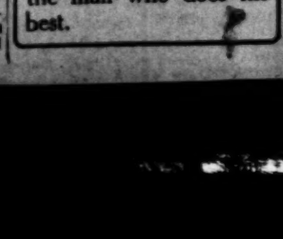
Seavey, until July, 1921, had been for several years a member of the State Board of Control, and in that capacity had a leading part in the legislative struggle over the King tax bill, which he sponsored. He is considered an authority on matters of taxation and economics.

Court Affirms Death Sentence, Twice Imposed

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.—The death sentence, twice imposed on six Italian nationals on charges of murder in connection with an attempt to rob a bank in the strawberry section of Tigopahoa Parish, was affirmed late today by the State Supreme Court.

The six men — Joseph Rini, Joseph Bocchio, Joseph Giglio, Andrea Lamantia, Rosario Leona and Natale Deamore—were convicted of the murder of Dallas L. Calmes, a restaurant proprietor of Independence, La., on May 6, 1920, when an attempt to rob a bank at that place was made.



Grape Market Unaffected by Prohibition Law

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

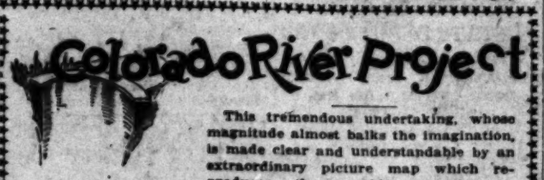
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Wine is being manufactured and consumed in the United States under the guise of a home product, in fully as great a quantity as before prohibition became effective, R. L. Nougaret, viticulturalist of the State Department of Agriculture, said in a statement today.

"The vast tonnage of grapes formerly consumed industrially is easily absorbed through quasi-lawful channels of disposal," he said. "The fresh grapes now require shipping facilities during the vintage season, or a period of three to four months, equal to the facilities used over an entire year's time to transport the manufactured grape products. This has brought about an unavoidable car shortage."

FINANCE ACTION COMPLETED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Acting Gov. Platt of the Federal Reserve Board, late today indorsed to the Comptroller of the currency the last outstanding silver certificates issued under the Pittman Act. The action marked the completion of a piece of war-time financing instituted that England might have silver to supply India.



This tremendous undertaking, whose magnitude almost balks the imagination, is made clear and understandable by an extraordinary picture map which reproduces the earth's curved surface from Wyoming to the Gulf of California. Showing reservoir sites, power stations, drainage area, etc., it gives the situation at a glance, furnishing information that otherwise could be obtained only by endless research. As a feature of the forthcoming Annual Midwinter Number, it illustrates the infinite pains put forth to encompass every phase of the Southland's progress.

Local people will reach the two hundred and forty pages of this year's edition with keener interest than ever before, but it is safe to say that on the part of eastern readers, this interest will be magnified a thousand fold.

LAW SUPERSEDES TRIPLE-K

Morehouse Parish Suspects and Their Friends Await Murder Hearings With Anxiety

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BASTROP (La.) Dec. 29.—With the date for the open hearing but one week away the heavy hand of the law, which has already struck twice, was still upraised tonight over those designated for arrest in connection with the Morehouse kidnapings and murders.

The citizens were anxiously awaiting the passing of time which would reveal the identity of those marked. The nature of confessions in which forty-five men were said to be implicated, was also the subject of much speculation.

There was no intimation as to when the arrests promised by the State would be made. Opinion was evenly divided on the theory that the arrests probably would not occur until after the open hearing had been concluded. The State wants to question some of them as witnessed, which privilege would be denied in the event they were under charges and did not care to testify, it was argued.

SEEK DEFENSE FUND

While a deputy sheriff, armed with a carefully prepared requisition was en route to Baltimore to claim Dr. B. M. McKoin, for the State of Louisiana, on a charge of murder in connection with the robed and masked activities of last August, his friends in this section of the State were putting their heads together to raise a suitable fund for his defense.

A fund of $100,000 was said by his friends to be the objective. The plea of the former Mayor at Baltimore today that he would rather die forty times than to be taken back to Morehouse struck a responsive chord here among many. Late today his friends here and in New Orleans were reported considering steps to be taken to provide him with a heavy escort after he reaches Louisiana in the event he is returned.

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Dec. 29.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, (La.,) Dec. 29. Klan chiefs of Louisiana met here today to consider action to be taken in regard to reports that klansmen were responsible for the Morehouse kidnaping and murders.

A reporter of a New Orleans newspaper was permitted to be present and at the conclusion of the conference he was authorized to announce that agents of the Klan would be sent to Morehouse to investigate what had occurred on August 24, the date of the kidnaping.

"If the Klan of Morehouse parish is in any way responsible for the murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards, the charter of that Klan will be lifted and the Klan outlawed," it was announced.

"If any individual members of the Klan are found guilty of those murders, not only will they be outlawed from the Klan, but every bit

HUGHES PLAN EXPLAINED

Members of Proposed Commission Would be Nominated by Government, Says Secretary

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

[A resume of the first public pronouncement of Secretary of State Hughes on the foreign politics of America, made last night at New Haven, Ct., will be found on Page 2.—Ed.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Appointment of American financiers to sit on a commission such as suggested tonight by Secretary Hughes in his address at New Haven, would be on nomination of the government, if the proposal for this method of adjusting the reparations dispute was accepted abroad. This was the view expressed authoritatively in White House circles in connection with Hughes's remarks.

It was pointed out that any body of an advisory character to deal with the question of the amount of reparations Germany could and should pay must meet under the sanction of all governments involved, if its work was to bear fruit.

EUROPE NOT OPPOSED

While no light was thrown on preliminary conversations that may have been held between the Washington and the Allied governments relative to the plan of operation Hughes has disclosed, the impression given in White House circles was that such conversations had taken place and that there was reason to believe the Allied premiers would not be found opposed to the suggestion.

If a commission of financiers appointed by the countries involved, but freed of political or other obligations in their discussion, was to have much weight, it was said, there must be of necessity previous agreement among the powers as to the agenda of the discussions and a preliminary understanding which would insure sympathetic considrelieve the tensity of the situation. The only word from the headquarters of Klandom was "Shut up!"

McKoin has many friends. He was once the most popular man in Mer Rouge—"until he went crazy over this Klan business," his friends say, and they say it with a note of pathos. The attitude is not of hatred, but of sorrow for a friend gone wrong.

BEFRIENDED BY VICTIMS

McKoin came to Mer Rouge as a stripling. He was given a place as clerk in the Davenport drug store. The Davenports, the Daniels and the Andrews are the oldest families in Northern Louisiana. The Davenports own land and stores. McKoin won their confidence. They helped him to a medical education. They advanced him politically and socially. He was elected Mayor.

"He never could have been all those things without he was a popular man," they will tell you in Mer Rouge. He has friends here who would stand by him because he is in trouble. "We hate the kind of trouble he is into, but we don't like to forget a friend," they say.

The case in behalf of the Klan is that its energies were initiated in a desire to accomplish some good, but that these energies were misdirected and became engines of evil. Even the most persistent of Mer Rouge anti-Klan citizens who have been intimidated and beaten, will declare that the better class of Klansmen are respectable and deserving citizens who are shamed by the wrong headedness of leaders who acted without advice.

These reputable Klansmen repudiate utterly the lawless deeds of the organization. They did not complain so long as the Klan worked as a vigilance society for the suppression of moonshining and bootlegging, but they began to complain when the Klan became the instrument of political oppression.

KLANSMAN TALKS

Last night an admitted member of the Klan said this:

"We never set out to do the things that happened. There will be plenty of us to see that justice is done. Nobody in this parish wants an anti-Klan jury. We want just plain fair play and I'll guarantee that plenty of Klux will back up whatever the court says. Many of us belong to the Klan, but we are decent and law-abiding citizens of Morehouse parish first."

Sitting in the group of men of which this Klansman was a member were two of the victims of the kidnaping of August 24, one who had been selected for, but escaped a beating on that date, and two men who have been notified to leave the parish. One of these anti-Klan said:

"My father is on the jury list. He is an honest man. I think he is the squarest man I know, but he couldn't be fair on that jury. I wouldn't see him on that jury. What we want is honest dealing. My Daddy would hang every damn one of the Klux. Maybe they should be hung, but it has got to be done square."

JUSTICE DEMANDED

Thus the attitude is not that of revenge or desire for extermination of Klan members. The good citizens, Klan and anti-Klan alike, completely eliminate Klanism from their calculations. They are guided solely by the rule of citizens. They think as citizens, demand justice and ask no favor.

Senator J. W. Stuckey, a fine old type of Louisiana judge and legislator, has fought the Klan for years. Some time ago the marshal, Walter Campbell told him this:

"A man came to me yesterday and told me he felt sorry for you, Senator. He said the Klan had passed sentence on you. He said he liked you and thought you were square."

Said the Senator yesterday:

"No reputable citizen of Morehouse parish ever sat in a Klan meeting where such a sentence as that was passed. But they did send me that word in a roundabout way, and there is no doubt where it came from. The word came from one man, and that man controls the sluggers."

In this way the Klan may be analyzed in Morehouse parish. Skipworth is the head of an organization which sought to accomplish social benefits. Whether the activities of the mob of sluggers operating as Klansmen can be laid at his door will be determined in the trials.

The Klan has its moral side. In Mer Rouge this is represented, in a manner of speaking, by the Rev. James Roy, pastor of the Methodist Church. The Klan presented him with a sum of money for chuch purposes. This sort of thing has been done repeatedly all over the United States.

After the Klan had presented $25 to Mr. Roy—and this was subsequent to the murder—the choir sang the national anthem and the pastor offered a prayer for the success of the Klan's work.

Obviously, say the Mer Rouge people where the pastor is moved by such evidence of godliness, there is likely to be a responsive note in the congregation.

SCORES QUIT ORDER

Two things are spoken in favor of the Klansmen. Scores of them are resigning. Fifty resigned in a body at Monroe, a small city south of here. The other is that while many are remaining in the order, they are doing so out of a determination to see the slate cleaned. If the Klan has done wrong they want it punished, if they must do it themselves. And after that they are going to quit.

"Old Skipworth isn't so cocky now," said a Mer Rouge Klansman last night. He is one of those determined to see that the Klan gets justice.

Skipworth is what fiction terms "the cynosure of all eyes." Not so conspicuous is old Mr. Daniels, tired to death, as he shuffles about the streets of Mer Rouge. Now and again he says:

"Wait would have fought it out with them if he could have had half a chance—and you can bet for one of him he would have got plenty of them."

Acme Oil Well Comes in With Steady Flow

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 29.—Damron well No. 1, of the Acme Petroleum Corporation, came in in the Signal Hill field this morning with a flow reported at 3500 barrels a day. Attempts were made at 10 o'clock to shut the well off in order that a string of wash pipe might be removed. Heavy gas pressure prevented the pipe being taken out, however, and the flow was permitted to continue uninterrupted.

The well is the second of the Blue Tank group to be completed in the local field within ten days. It was drilled to 4380 feet, with 420 feet of oil sand exposed, it is said.

Woman Said to Have Forfeited Bail Object of Search

Two hundred and twenty pounds of femininity, six feet tall, is being sought by Constables Adams and McCollum on bad-check charges.

They describe the object of their search as Miss Jessie Barzen, alias Mrs. H. S. Well, alias Miss Margaret Allen, a nurse. She was arrested May 5, last, on a bad-check charge, gave $1500 cash bail and failed to appear, it is said, when her case was called November 28. Since that time, the officers say, two more bad checks passed by her have turned up. Their hope is that she does not resist arrest.

of power the Klan has will be used to help obtain their convictions before the criminal courts of the State.

DENIALS ISSUED

"The story told by United States Department of Justice agents that members of the Klan, in black hoods, formed the 'wrecking crew' for the kidnaping and murder of Daniels and Richards, is absurd. There is no such report in any part of the Ku Klux Klan or in any of its degrees."

The chief scouted the tale that Clarence Darrow, "or any other prominent lawyer," had been retained by the Klan to fight in the defense of the men who might be charged with the murders.

The Klan raised no defense fund, nor has it made any defense appropriations, it was stated.

A signed statement issued to the press several days ago by an unofficial spokesman of the Morehouse Klan declared it had offered the services of its 100 members to the State in solving the mystery and punishing the guilty.

GOVERNOR ACCUSES McKOIN

Gov. Parker has charged that Dr. M. B. McKoin, under arrest at Baltimore on a murder charge, was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. Atty.-Gen. Coco today said he had been implicated in many mob activities, according to evidence. McKoin has denied he was a Klansman. Former Deputy Sheriff T. J. Burnett, the first to be arrested in the case, has also denied he was a Klansman.

Gov. Parker is an open opponent of the Ku Klux Klan, denouncing the order as the stamp and in the press. He has been quoted as saying he was determined to tear the mask off the Klan. He has directed the Morehouse investigations, and is said to have drawn heavily on his private funds to defray much of the expense.

URGES SONS RETURN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29.—According to a telegram received here today from Monroe, La., the father of B. M. McKoin, has urged the latter not to fight extradition and return to Louisiana. The message stated numerous persons were ready to testify in Dr. McKoin's behalf and that a detailed alibi would be established. It also said proper precautions for the safeguarding of Dr. McKoin's life, against possible mob violence, would be provided for.

Attorney Robert R. Carman, counsel for Dr. McKoin, predicted no action would be taken on the requisition for the doctor, until Tuesday, on account of Sunday and New Year's Day being holidays.

Dr. McKoin declared today that "there will be more bloodshed in Louisiana than ever if I put my foot on Mer Rouge soil again." He stated that he "would rather die forty times than be taken back," and charged Gov. Parker with being behind the plot to force his extradition.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

The doctor developed a cold after been sent to the City Jail and was removed to a hospital. In an interview with newspapermen at the hospital Dr. McKoin said: "It is the blood-thirsty crowd that want me, not the authorities of Louisiana." The presence of troops about the jail at Mer Rouge, he said, would not safeguard his life. "The sight of me would be the signal for the beginning of the greatest slaughter of human life this country has ever known," he declared. "I wouldn't live long enough to smell the smoke."

The doctor declared further that the respectable and law-abiding element would battle to the last man to save him.

JAP PRIVY COUNCIL HITS CHINESE POLICY

ADVISORY BODY DENOUNCES WEAK ATTITUDE OF CABINET

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Dec. 29.—The Privy Council's action today in adopting a resolution for presentation to the Prince Regent condemning "the weak policy of the Cabinet toward China" amounts to impeachment of the Kato Ministry, in the view of the Tokio newspapers.

The press expresses the opinion that the resolution is a stronger instrument than the more grazing which the Privy Council added to the ratification of the Washington agreements, when it suggested that the Takahashi Cabinet should guard Japanese interests more closely.

The Cabinet, on the other hand, is said to hold the view that the Privy Council, being only an advisory body, has no power to interfere with the administration.

The Privy Council's action was the result of a recommendation by its special committee considering the Sino-Japanese postal agreement. It was decided to carry out this agreement in the spirit of the Washington Conference, but as an expression of the Privy Council's opinion of the Cabinet's attitude toward Chinese affairs. The resolution of censure also was passed.

Hearing was set for January 8 and both were released on bond.

BORAH PLAN IS WITHDRAWN

further emphasized by Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and McCormick of Illinois. The former declared that American ambassadors and ministers for months had been inquiring as to the possibility of American action and contended that Senator Borah's amendment, if adopted, would be "harmful" to the administration's efforts. Senator McCormick referred to negotiations for the Brussels conference but remained silent when Senator Borah pressed for information as to whether the United States proposed to participate in that conference.

"On the statement by the Senator from Illinois (McCormick) and the statement made by the Senator from Indiana (Watson) and the statement made by the Senator from Massachusetts (Lodge) I am perfectly willing to decline to offer the amendment," said Senator Borah, who soon thereafter picked up his papers and left the chamber.

At the White House it was said the President regarded Senator Borah's action as a "wise move." High officials also said the President was not now contemplating the calling of a general economic conference but at present proposed American participation in an economic conference on reparations. Adjustment of this and of the Allied debts question, the President was said to feel, are necessary before the administration can proceed with further steps in Europe's behalf.

FINAL DISPOSAL

Senator Borah said privately that he was prepared to offer his amendment to some later bill if the necessity should arise, but his action today was considered as finally disposing of the amendment, although it did not stop the flood of oratory on European questions.

Tempestuous debate preceded Senator Borah's action. Two Republican irreconcilables, Senator Johnson of California and Senator Moses of New Hampshire, flayed the proposal of their colleague on the League of Nations fight and declared it would lead to European entanglements. The Borah amendment also was attacked by Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, who declared, however, that he was willing for the United States to use its good offices, in an economic conference of experts, but without bringing obligations upon the nation.

The Senate late in the day turned to other provisions of the naval bill, including an amendment by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, to cut the Navy's enlisted personnel from 86,000 to 67,000 men. This went over until tomorrow, together with the House provision asking the President to start negotiations for further naval limitations, affecting vessels under 10,000 tons and aircraft.

Also pending is an amendment by Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, requesting the President to recall the American troops on the Rhine, and an amendment by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, proposing a wider naval arms limitation.

eration at least of the commission's findings.

EXPECTS INVITATION

There is no question that the United States expects to be invited to nominate members to sit on the financiers' commission, should there be the course adopted by the Allied governments toward settlement. The American members and those of other countries, it was indicated would, of necessity, represent their governments in whatever steps might be necessary to make sure that purely nonpolitical consideration was given by them to the problem and that it was viewed from the economic standpoint.

NEW ATTACK OPENED ON DRY-SEA RULING

AMERICAN STEAMSHIP FIRMS ASSERT TRAFFIC DIVERSION WILL DAMAGE THEM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Declaring "irreparable damage" will be done "through diversion of passenger traffic to foreign lines" unless the ruling of the Attorney-General that ships of American registry, wherever they may be, are subject to the prohibition amendment and enforcement act, be overruled, the United American Lines and others, filed in the Supreme Court today a brief in their case which will be reached for argument next week.

The steamship companies in the brief claimed the right "to dispense intoxicating beverages to passengers on the high seas and in foreign ports, independently of the question whether these may be brought lawfully within the three-mile limit," and also "the incidental right to keep such beverages in reasonable quantity as seastores on board their ships, under the regulations of the treasury department, while within the ports and harbors of the United States."

COUNCIL IS GIVEN NEW DRAIN PLAN

Proposed Improvement in Secatela Section Approved by Public Board

Revised plans for a comprehensive storm-drainage system for the Arroyo de la Secatela district, embracing Hollywood and Wilshire sections, have been approved by the Board of Public Works and received by the City Council. City Attorney Stephens has been ordered to prepare an ordinance of intention for the improvement.

The former plans, which called for a storm drainage system embracing twenty-seven square miles of territory and for the assessing of 16,000 property owners for a $3,000,000 storm-drain system, were discarded almost a year ago because of technical defects.

President Treat of the Board of Public Works said yesterday that an estimated saving to property owners of at least $675,000 would be accomplished by the new plans, as it was found in many cases that storm drains need not be built, as the pavements would carry off the waters. Another saving will be made under the new plans, as the work will be done under the 1913 act, which provides for installment payments to contractors on completion of units of the work, whereas under the old ordinance no payments could be made until the entire system was finished. Contractors would have been forced, under this plan, to borrow money to construct the work, and the interest charges on this money would have been included in the contractors' bids.

Public hearings will be held by the Council before action is taken on the proposed ordinance, and on the assessment map which will be presented.

NEW APPLE RECEIPTS RECORD SET

West Coast Shipment of Nearly 85,000 Boxes is Received in New York

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The largest single shipment of apples this season from the Pacific Coast has just reached New York, it was announced today by the State Department of Farmers and Markets.

It came by way of the Panama Canal in a ship equipped with cooling-rooms.

The cargo of 84,714 boxes was shipped from Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and other west coast points. Had the consignment been shipped by rail it would have required 113 freight cars. Some of the fruit evidently is intended for reshipment to foreign countries, the market department reported, but much of it will be sold in New York.

The total exportation of apples from the United States and Canada this season up to December 16 was 1,000,000 barrels and 1,302,300 boxes, the announcement said.

Lawyer Leaves Large Sum to United States

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BALTIMORE (Md.) Dec. 29.—Provisions for the erection of a summer White House for the use of the President, and for a public park in Baltimore are made in the will of J. Wilson Leakin, lawyer. The will was probated here today.

If the legacy is not accepted by Congress within eighteen months after Mr. Leakin's death, the $200,000 is to become part of the residue of the estate.

COUNCIL IS VICTOR IN TRUCK ROW

Long-Drawn-Out Squabble Ends; Immediate Delivery to be Made

Final action in the long drawn out "truck deal" fight was taken by the City Council yesterday when it instructed the Board of Public Works to accept delivery on the contract for the purchase of sixty motor trucks for the engineering department.

The contract, which had been the subject of numerous bitter debates in the Council Chamber, and the legality of which had been attacked in the courts, is divided equally between the Moreland and Garford truck companies and the General Motors Corporation. It provides for the expenditure of $307,331.17, to be paid to the three truck companies in three annual installments. Delivery of the trucks will begin at once, it was announced.

Only one dissenting vote against the purchase was cast, that of Councilman Mallard, who has opposed the contract since it was first drawn. The contract was approved on motion of Councilman Sparks, who declared that the engineering department needed the trucks at once and that further delay would serve no purpose.

Execution on the contract was halted for a time when it was attacked in court. The court, however, held the contract valid and final action by the Council followed yesterday.

The preliminary drawings have been made by Curlett & Beelman, architects. The building will represent an investment of more than $1,000,000.

Head of Famous Brewery Ends Life in Office

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—Wesley Lemp, head of the famous brewery and a prominent financial figure, was found dead at his desk in the office of the brewery this morning. He had been dead for several hours, according to Coroner Richter, who said he was convinced that Lemp, who was the third and last president of the brewery, which, before prohibition, was considered one of the largest in the world, had committed suicide, the third suicide in the family of brewers, his father and sister having taken their own lives, but that he would hold an inquest tomorrow as a matter of form.

Friends and members of his family declared he had been despondent since last June when the brewery plant here, which was valued at $7,000,000, was auctioned off for approximately $4,000,000, although, they stated, his financial affairs were in good shape.

COURT LENIENT WITH FAKE HARDING COUSIN

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Everett Harding, who once said he was a "cousin of President Harding," although there is no relationship between his family and that of the President, and actually chartered a car and invited a party of friends to the inauguration in Washington, and later served a term in Leavenworth Federal prison for issuing worthless checks, found clemency today in the Municipal Court. He had been arrested while practicing for an organ recital on a charge of issuing a valueless check for printing a program for the recital, which, however, had been postponed, he said. The court today gave him time to meet payment of the check.

TURKS DEFIANT ON MOSUL

Refuse to Admit British Arguments on Fuel Field; Allies Make Concessions on League

BY CLARENCE K. STREET

[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

LAUSANNE, Dec. 29.—The Turkish reply to the Allied memorandum given out tonight is a refusal to admit the British arguments, but the letter significantly suggests an appeal to reason in the matter.

The Turks base their claim to Mosul on nationality and deny the British by military force conquered the Mosul territory, saying it was gained by abuse of the armistice terms. They invoke the Wilsonian principles against "Curzon's thesis that conquest justifies annexation."

The Near East conference, though apparently only marking time today in discussing yesterday's crisis, really took one of the most significant steps. The Allies very quietly gave in on one of the greatest stumbling blocks of the minority question, refusing the plea for a League of Nations commissioner to supervise carrying out the minority guarantees in Turkey.

The concession on this point, which they had so strongly demanded formerly, if it does not show the way the wind is blowing, seems at least to be a British blunder, for it ruins one of the chances for a conference break-up favorable to them and hence is considered a big victory for the Turks. The Turks paid for it by renouncing their claim for reciprocal guarantees to Moslem minorities in other states save in Greece, which exception has been accepted.

INDEPENDENT COMMISSION FOR REPARATIONS URGED

Secretary Hughes in First Public Pronouncement Outlines Stand Toward Europe

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 29.—A suggestion that an independent commission of men competent in financial affairs could accomplish more than a general international conference to the solution of the European reparations tangle, was put forward by Secretary Hughes here tonight in the first public pronouncement on the economic crisis to come from responsible officials of the administration at Washington.

Mr. Hughes, who spoke before the American Historical Association, said that he had no doubt that the United Americans would be willing to serve on such a commission which he said might well be free from any responsibilities of offices or any duty to political instructions. Once this had been taken of the service thus afforded, he said, the part of American helpfulness would fail to open hopefully.

MUST HAVE CONSENT

"They are European problems in the sense that they cannot be solved without the consent of European governments. We cannot consent for them. The key to the settlement is in their hands, not in ours.

"The crux of the European situation lies in the settlement of reparations. There will be no adjustment of other needs, however pressing, until a definite and accepted basis for the discharge of reparations claims has been fixed. It is futile attempt to erect any economic structure in Europe until the foundation is laid.

"How can the United States help in this matter? We are not seeking reparations. We are indeed asking for the reimbursement of the costs of our army of occupation; and, with good reason, for we have maintained our Army in Europe at the requests of the Allies and of Germany and under an agreement that it costs with like Army costs should be a first charge upon the amounts paid by Germany. Others have been paid and we have not been paid. But we are not seeking general reparations. We are bearing our own burden and through our loans a large part of Europe's burden in addition. No demands of ours stand in the way of a proper settlement of the reparations question.

EUROPE'S OBLIGATIONS

Of course we hold the obligations of European governments and there has been much discussion abroad and here with respect to them. There has been a persistent attempt ever since the Armistice to link up the debts owing to our government with reparations or with projects of cancellation. This attempt was resisted in a determined manner under the former administration and under the present administration.

"The matter is plain enough from our standpoint. The capacity of Germany to pay is not at all affected by any indebtedness of any of the Allies to us. That indebtedness does not diminish Germany's capacity and its removal would not increase her capacity. For example, if France had been able to finance her part in the war without borrowing at all from us, that is, by taxation and internal loans the problem of what Germany could pay would be exactly the same. Moreover, so far as the debtors to the United States are concerned, they have unsettled credit balances, and their condition and capacity to pay cannot be properly determined until the amount that can be realized on these credits for reparations has been determined.

LIMITED BY CONGRESS

"The administration must also consider the difficulty arising from the fact that the question of these obligations which we hold, and what shall be done with them, is not a question within the province of the Executive. Not only may Congress deal with public property of this sort, but it has dealt with it. It has created a commission and instead of giving that commission broad powers such as the administration proposed, which quite apart from cancellation might permit a sound discretion to be exercised in accordance with the facts elicited, Congress has placed definite restrictions upon the power of the commission in providing for the refunding of these debts.

"But what is our attitude toward the question of reparations, standing as it does as a distinct question and as one which cannot be settled, unless the European governments concerned are able to agree?

"We have no desire to see Germany relieved of her responsibility for the war or of her just obligations to make reparations for the injures due to her aggression. There is not the slightest desire that France shall lose any part of her just claims. On the other hand, we do not wish to see a prostrate Germany. There can be no economic recuperation in Europe unless Germany recuperates. There will be no permanent peace unless economic satisfactions are enjoyed. There must be hope and industry must have promise of reward if there is to be prosperity. We should view with disfavor measures, which instead of producing reparations would threaten disaster.

"Some of our own people have suggested that the United States should assume the role of arbiter. There is one sufficient answer to this suggestion and that is that we have not been asked to assume the role of arbiter. There could be no such abritrament, unless it were invited and it would be an extraordinary and unprecedented thing for us to ask for such an invitation.

"I do not think that we should endeavor to take such a burden of responsibility. We have quite enough to bear without drawing to ourselves all the ill-feeling which would result from disappointed hopes and a settlement which was viewed as forced upon nations by this country which at the same time is demanding the payment of its debts.

"But the situation does call for a settlement upon its merits. The first condition of a satisfactory settlement is that the question should be taken out of politics. Statesmen have their difficulties, their public opinion, the exigencies which they must face. It is devoutly to be hoped that they will effect a settlement among themselves and that the coming meeting at Paris will find a solution. But if it does not, what should be done. The alternative of forcible measures to obtain reparations is not an attractive one. No one can foretell the extent of the serious consequencies which might ensue from such a course. Apart from political results, I believe that the opinion of experts is that such measures will not produce reparations payments, but might tend to destroy the basis of those payments which must be found in economic recuperation.

"If, however, statesmen cannot agree and such an alternative is faced, what can be done? Is there not another way out? The fundamental condition is that in this critical moment the merits of the question, as an economic one, must alone be regarded. Sentiment, however natural, must be disregarded; mutual recriminations are of no avail; reviews of the past, whether accurate or inaccurate, promise nothing; assertions of blame on the one hand and excuses on the other come to naught.

"There ought to be a way for statesmen to agree upon what Germany can pay, for no matter what claims may be made against her, that is the limit of satisfaction.

"There ought to be a way to determine that limit and to provide a financial plan by which immediate results can be obtained and the European nations can feel that the foundation has been laid for their mutual and earnest endeavors to bring about the utmost prosperity to which the industry of their people entitle them.

"If statesmen cannot agree and exigencies of public opinion make their course difficult, then there should be called to their aid those who can point the way to a solution.

"Why should they not invite men of the highest authority in finance in their respective countries—men of such prestige, experience and honor that their agreement upon the amount to be paid, and upon a financial plan for working out the payments, would be accepted throughout the world as the most authoritative expression obtainable?

"Governments need not bind themselves in advance to accept the recommendations, but they can at least make possible such an inquiry with their approval and free the men who may represent their country in such a commission from any responsibility to foreign offices and from any duty to obey political instructions. In other words, they may invite an answer to this difficult and pressing question from men of such standing and in such circumstances of freedom as will insure a reply prompted only by knowledge and conscience.

"I have no doubt that distinguished Americans would be willing to serve in such a commission. If governments saw fit to reject the recommendation upon which such a body agrees, they would be free to do so, but they would have the advantage of impartial advice and of an enlightened public opinion. Peoples would be informed, the question would be rescued from assertion and counter-assertion and the problem put upon its way to solution.

"I do not believe that any general conference would answer the purpose better, much less that any political conference would achieve a result which premiers find it impossible to reach. But I do believe that a small group given proper freedom of action would be able soon to devise a proper plan."

WRIGHT ACT TO PROFIT FRESNO

City Will Collect All Fines for Offenses

Double Prosecution Planned by Authorities

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FRESNO, Dec. 29.—City Commissioner of Finance Dillon, who yesterday issued a statement that enforcement of the Wright Act would cost the city of Fresno $50,000 yearly in loss of liquor fines, today retracted the whole statement, saying it was his understanding that the police authorities had planned to throw all Wright Act prosecutions into the Superior Court.

Following a conference attended by Chief of Police Truax, Dist.-Atty. Gearhart and Police Judge Crichton, it was announced that liquor offenders will be prosecuted here under both the city ordinance and the Wright Act, in separate actions, so that minor misdemeanor cases arising in the Police Court will be settled there and the fines will accrue to the city. Offenders also are to be prosecuted under high misdemeanor provisions of the Wright Act, when possible, in order to lay the ground for second-offense prosecutions should they be caught dabbling with liquor again.

ROAD PROJECT PUSHED

The central coast counties of California will co-operate with those of the lower San Joaquin Valley in pushing the Sierra-to-the-sea highway project, according to a letter received by Assemblyman Herbert McDowell from A. J. Shaw, secretary of the Coalinga Chamber of Commerce. The latter tells of a meeting to be held January 2 in Salinas in the interests of the project.

San Luis Obispo county people, says the letter, are planning to drop the San Simeon highway plan if they can obtain the support of San Joaquin Valley in their efforts to prevent the abolishing of the California Polytechnic School at San Luis Obispo.

The State Department of Education has formulated recommendations that the school be enlarged to serve all the State or that its doors be closed.

Supervisors of Fresno, Monterey, Tulare and Kings counties will attend the Salinas meeting.

SEEK FIRE PREVENTION

Decision to hold a public fire-prevention mass meeting in the civic auditorium on January 24 was reached at a meeting today of the joint citizens' committee recently named to represent various civic bodies in a campaign to lower the city's insurance rates. Gov. Richardson is to be asked to speak at the meeting.

POLICEMAN IN CALEXICO JAIL FREED

Charges of Accepting Bribe Found Groundless; Officer Released

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Dec. 29. — D. P. Bates, Fresno officer, was released from custody at the County Jail here this morning at the instance of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Frank Erzinger who investigated the charges against him and after a talk with a Fresno police lieutenant who arrived here this morning.

Erzinger stated that Bates's assertion that he had received a wire from Fresno asking him to bring back the stolen car along with Daniel Polin, wanted in Fresno on a charge of bigamy was correct, but the officer had shown indiscretion in crossing the Mexican line again with the prisoner after the car, because when he did it, he automatically released the prisoner from the custody of the United States officers and only the co-operation of the Mexicali police with the Calexico police saved the situation.

It was intimated when Bates was arrested that he had accepted a bribe from Polin, which caused him to leave the train at Banning and retrace his steps to the border. Investigation showed that Bates had been on the Fresno police force for the past four years and had a sterling record.

ROAD MEN FACE CONTEMPT

Charge Filed by Marblehead Land Company to Halt State from Building Highway

In an attempt to halt the State's construction of a portion of the coast highway through lands of the Malibu ranch recently condemned, under authority of a constitutional amendment, for public roadway attorneys for the Marblehead Land Company, the name of the principal corporation under which the Rindge heirs, owners of the Malibu tract, operate, have filed a request for an order in the Second District Court of Appeals to cite members of the State Highway Commission to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court.

The action cites A. B. Fletcher, chief highway engineer, and his associates on the State Commission, H. D. Darlington, C. A. Whitmore and G. A. Mansfield. Judge Willis, in whose division of the Superior Court the order of condemnation was filed by the State Attorney-General also is made a party to the action.

HEARING NEXT TUESDAY

Date of hearing is set for January 2, in the Appellate Court. Newby & Jackson, attorneys, represent the Rindge interests, and the case of the Highway Commission, it is understod, will be handled by Lorrin Andrews, Deputy Attorney-General.

In addition to opposing linking up of the coast highway by peaceful grant to the required strip of land through the Malibu properties, which border the Pacific for twenty-one miles north of Santa Monica, attorneys for the Rindge estate yesterday opened war on the county's right to maintain a road through the land in question by filing in the State Supreme Court of the transcript embracing five notices of appeal from the judgment of the lower court, which permitted construction of a county road.

Evidence in the transcript shows that the county began action in 1916 to obtain right of way through the ranch. The final order of condemnation was made in April 1919, by the Superior Court, and allowed the taking over of a strip of land forty feet in width and twenty-one miles long, through which the road, stipulated to be twenty-two feet in width, was to run. The Board of Supervisors declared the road open to travel in November of last year.

It is complained by the Rindge heirs, protesting the maintenance by the county of this road, that the building agreements have not been carried out, inasmuch as the width is not twenty-two feet; that the stipulated number of bridges across canyons on the property have not been constructed and that the use of the ranch as a sheep and cattle range has been nullified.

EVANGELIST COMING BACK

"It's Wonderful Here," Opines ex-Baseballer at Station as He Leaves to Start New Drive for Souls

In a happy mood after spending Christmas here with their children, Rev. W. A. "Billy" Sunday, noted evangelist, and his wife, "Ma" Sunday, left Los Angeles yesterday for Knoxville, Tenn., where a series of meetings are to be held.

George, Paul and "Billy," Jr., accompanied their parents to the station to bid them good-by.

"We are going back to the land of snow, but we certainly have made our plans to return here as soon as possible," the nationally-known evangelist declared.

"IT'S WONDERFUL HERE"

"I have a number of engagements, but mother is coming back to Los Angeles in March. It is wonderful here. I will be back as soon as my work will permit."

Suddenly Sunday stepped to the tracks at the side of the waiting train and, with coat flying, took impromptu "setting up" exercises by leaping from one rail to the other.

"Jump from one rail to the other and keep your balance," Sunday called to his son, Paul.

The son tried it, but missed. Then, with the remark that "this is the way to do it," Sunday made the jump. It required fast arm work, but Sunday kept his balance after landing on the second rail.

The Sundays will go direct to Chicago on the Golden State Limited, and from that city continue their journey to Knoxville. They were the central figures on the observation platform as the train left the Arcade station, and both continued waving to their sons until they almost were out of sight.

The Christmas reunion of the Sunday family was held at the home of George Sunday in Los Angeles.

DEFERS PROBATION ACTION

Court Has Problem to Solve in Case of Man Who Admits Guilt on Embezzlement Charge

Because of unusual circumstances surrounding the case of Theodore Repay, former musician who pleaded guilty to one of several counts of embezzlement, and because of a mass of correspondence to be read, Judge Shenk yesterday continued a hearing on probation until January 5.

Repay, who organized and was head of the Foreign Service Company, engaged in arranging passage to this country of persons in Europe. It was charged that he had accepted sums ranging from $500 to $1000 and had not provided the relatives of persons here with the promised tickets and passports.

DEFICIT $18,000

Max Wasmer, formerly a bookkeeper for the defendant, stated that Repay had handled from $80,000 to $100,000. He left the company, he said, when he realized the large sums involved. The report of Probation Officer May stated that about 170 cases had been handled by Repay, but that twenty-two of them had been unaccounted for to the persons putting up the money. It was said the deficit would reach about $18,000.

It was stated to the court by Mrs. Margaret Repay, wife of the defendant, that her husband was a clean, home-loving man, and had not taken any of the money for himself. Other witnesses stated that Repay had used the money in overhead expenses for his business.

Joe Schultz, a janitor, stated that he had given Repay $600 to bring a relative to this country and that no arrangements were made for the passage. Frank Schultz, a grave digger, testified that he had paid out a like amount and obtained no results.

Another witness stated that the deficit was due to the fact that Repay was more of a musician than a business man.

RENO BANKER GIVEN TITLE TO GOLD MINES

BRITISH COLUMBIA PROPERTY WON BY FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 29.—Title to the Dolly Varden gold mines on Alice Arm, B. C., passed today to George Wingfield, a banker of Reno, Nev., following default in payment of $202,836 by the Taylor Engineering Company of British Columbia, and co-defendants. Wingfield instituted foreclosure proceedings in July, 1921, which culminated today with the expiration of a six months' redemption period.

The mines originally were owned by the Dolly Varden Mine Company of Delaware. The Taylor Engineering Company was given a contract for the construction of an eighteen-mile railroad along the Kutzault river, and the Dolly Varden Company defaulted payment, although it already had invested more than $600,000 in the property. The mines were awarded to the engineering company in a court action.

Wingfield advanced funds to the Taylor Engineering Company, taking rights as mortgage. Default in payment resulted in title passing to the Nevada banker.

CAPITAL STOCK INCREASES MADE

California Corporations Rush Against Time

Filings Must be Made Before January First

Reason is to Avoid Federal Income Tax

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 29.—California corporations are making an eleventh hour rush to avoid payment of the Federal income tax on dividends for 1922 by increasing the capital stock and applying to the State Corporation Department for permission to declare stock instead of cash dividends, according to information obtained at the office of Secreatry of State Jordan.

Within the last few days more than a score of corporations have filed notices with Jordan increasing their capital stock, and the corporation department is flooded with applications for permission to issue stock dividends.

The United States Supreme Court ruled two years ago that dividends in the form of stock are not taxable under the income tax law, and the corporations take advantage of this ruling by turning their surplus earnings into stock, it was stated at the office of the Secretary of State.

It is declared by State officials that the reason for the rush is that the increase must be made and permission to issue the stock obtained before Jan. 1, 1923.

LOS ANGELES FIRMS, TOO

Among the corporations that filed notices of increase in capital stock with Secretary of State Jordan late yesterday and today are

Pacific Wire Pipe Company, Los Angeles, from $25,000 to $500,000; A Block Fruit Company, Santa Clara, $100,000 to $150,000; W. P. Fuller Company, San Francisco, $2,000,000 to $15,000,000; Pacific Box Factory, San Francisco, $50,000 to $200,000; Haas Brothers, San Francisco, $750,000 to $2,000,000; Eschen & Minor Co., San Francisco, $100,000 to $1,000,000; Columbia Box and Lumber Company, San Francisco, $100,000 to $250,0000; A. Block Realty Company; Santa Clara, $35,000 to $105,000; Welch & Co., San Francisco, $100,000 to $500,000; Pacific Coast Steel Company, San Francisco, $1,000,000 to $6,000,000; Loop Lumber Company, San Francisco, $100,00 to $500,000; Pacific Pipe and Steel Company, Los Angeles, $250,000 to $1,000,000; Los Angeles Brick Company; $500,000 to $1,000,000; Robert Dollar Steamship Company, San Francisco, $50,000 to $5,000,000; Hawaii Plantation Company, San Francisco, $1,000,000 to $3,000,000.

About a month ago the Standard Oil Company of California increased its capital stock from $115,000,000 to $350,000,000. This was one of the largest increases ever made by a California corporation.

Millionaire Pays Fortune for Gland Operation

The Chicago surgeon who operated on Harold F. McCormick, the Chicago multi-millionaire, is reputed to have received as high as $100,000 for his few minutes of surgical skill. At the recent medical convention in Chicago, Dr. Roy Upham, President of the American Institute of Homeopathy, claimed that better results could be obtained by simply having the patient eat glands. Dr. Upham explained that the glands of young, healthy animals can be prepared so that they can be taken by mouth.

Such a preparation is now obtainable in the form of Glandogen, a compound of the vital glands of young, healthy animals conveniently prepared in capsule form. Glandogen is procurable at the Henderson-Chambers Drug Co., 3rd and Main; Chambers Drug Co., 1st and Broadway, and the Blaney-Chambers Drug Stores, 5th and Los Angeles and 9th and Spring.

THE MISTAKES OF THE KAISER

AN ANSWER TO THE KAISER'S MEMOIRS

BY RENE VIVIANI
Premier of France When the War Broke Out
[Copyright, 1922, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

CLOUDS OF WAR THICKEN

M. Poincare and I left our country on the morning of July 16, 1914. Rocked lightly between the blue skies and the blue waters, in that isolation which, for a man in public office, is the reward of action, the President of the French Republic and I sat chatting with each other.

We were journeying, with heads held high and clean of heart, toward peace, toward the strengthening of our alliance with Russia, toward the establishment of friendly relations with other lands, toward that fusion of general sympathies wherein the privileged friendship caused by the existence of an alliance does not preclude additional knitting together of thoughts and interests. Nor does that friendship destroy independence, since, otherwise, an alliance would degenerate into servitude. M. Poincare had informed me, in my capacity of responsible head of the government, of the speech which he was to make at the imperial banquet, and I had asked to have the speech to be made by the Czar communicated to me, which request had been granted. These two speeches both paid honor, in strong and clear words, to peace.

What were we going to say to the Czar, to the Russian government? Of course, we were going to talk about the state of Europe, about the interests of the alliance between our two countries. We also intended (nor did M. Poincare and I omit this) to ask for the establishment of more cordial relations between Russia and Sweden, the latter having complained about isolated acts by a Russian naval attache. Finally, we were going to give expression to English grievances with regard to the actions of certain Russian consuls. An alliance requires that a certain degree of consideration, compatible with its maintenance, be shown to other nations.

We talked of these subjects and of others also, outside the province of our duties, drawing often upon our professional and political memories for the material of our friendly conversations.

THEY MEET CZAR

When we arrived in the roadstead, of Cronstadt on Monday July 20, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a murderous heat was pouring from the heavens upon the gorgeous spectacle before us, a heat of such intensity that, far up there in the north of Europe, I almost yearned to exchange it for the heat of my beloved Africa. Czar Nicholas, as dapper as a cavalry officer, came forth to meet us, and we departed together with his suite of dignitaries and ministers. The touching modesty of the Czar, as excessive as his timidity, his contempt for the magnificence of palaces, his liking for a quiet life, were clearly shown by his attitude and his remarks, expressed in the purest French. He upheld the alliance with France because of his political honesty, to be sure, but also because of a kind of religious mysticism, which caused him to look upon it as a legacy from his beloved father. Never was he insensible to the influence of those two considerations. This I was to learn later, in 1916, at the General Headquarters of his army, when an imperial sign from him, for which I asked in the course of a mission on which I had been sent, sufficed for me to obtain what France desired.

CONVERSATION WITH CZAR

What can I say of our conversations? The head of the French Republic spoke alone for almost an hour with the Czar, as was proper. I, too, conversed with the Czar: also, naturally, with the Premier, and, above all with M. Sazonoff. We were in agreement, as other ministers had been before me, in 1912, and at all times, regarding the necessity for maintaining the alliance in dignity and peace. Also—as I have noted above—we transmitted the grievances of England and Sweden. All the arrangements of difficulties requested by us were granted.

Shall I speak of the celebrations, reviews, parades, of the reception by the Empress, so magnificent in her beauty, with her blue eyes as piercing as sapphire? How long ago it all is! The soil of Russia, a shroud that is always frozen, hides the horrors of hecatombs, to escape from which neither rank, age nor sex availed. The Emperor William, in August, 1914, called for solidarity among the regicides! His government defrayed the expenses of Lenin's journey to Russia!

And now we are drawing close to the drama. We shall set forth its plot and after that it will be easy to untangle its threads.

DEPARTURE DESCRIBED

On July 23, 1914, we left the Russian shore and started for Sweden, as had been officially and publicly decided upon a long time before. I wish it clearly understood that the smallest details of the trip, even the dinners, and, above all, the date of departure, were known to all the European chancelleries. The press in every country was full of the matter. We left at about 10 o'clock in the evening.

In the meantime, the murderers of right, who had kept silent until that moment, were stealing upon their first victim: the ultimatum to Serbia was handed to the Serbian government on July 23, the very day of our departure, by the Austrian Minister at Belgrade, the worst "agent-provocateur" whom a government bent on provocative measures ever had stationed in a foreign country under the lying disguise of an official costume.

Allowing for the necessary lapse of time, we calculated that the ultimatum, having been delivered at Belgrade at 5 in the afternoon noon, had not become known in St. Petersburg until after our departure.

VON JAGOW'S SECRET SPYING

Our journey had been spied upon by Von Jagow. Let readers form their own opinion as to the extent of this spying! This Minister of Foreign Affairs who (as will be shown in the course of a few later chapters) has denied all knowledge of the ultimatum at the end of July, having learned that we, on July 23, were delaying our departure by two hours, telegraphed to Vienna to the German Ambassador for the purpose of acquainting him with this, and with the request that he cause the ultimatum to be delivered two hours later.

This shows how everything had been prearranged in such a way that the blow should not fall until after we had departed. It shows how an attempt was made to disconcert the Entente in the face of the cleverly united combination of the Central Powers.

ANXIETY INCREASES

Nevertheless, the attitude of the Austrian Ambassador to the Court of Russia, which, though certainly polite, was more than reserved, combined with warning forebodings, led me, at about 1 o'clock in the morning of the night between the 23d and 24th, to telegraph to Paris, in accordance with an agreement which I had made to that effect with M. Sazonoff. To obviate all danger, even remote, I informed the government of the French Republic at Paris that if Austria should make a demand upon Serbia, M. Dumaine was to be requested in advance to endeavor to have it couched in a more acceptable form. On the next day, July 24, while we were steaming toward Sweden, amid heavy weather and upon a rough sea, some shreds of messages, badly joined together, were brought to us by the invisible aerial waves. From that moment the shrill sound of the wireless, piercing the harmony of our solitude, made known to us, bit by bit, in separate fragments, the ultimatum to Serbia, the terms in which it was couched, its threats, the undeserved accusations which Austria, basing herself upon the official report of one of her agents, had brought against Serbia.

EVENTS QUICKEN

I made an effort to reassume my official duties and, from far out on the sea, in the solitude of my cabin, I telegraphed to London (Yellow Book, No. 22,) for the purpose of requesting that joint action be taken for the purpose of lengthening the altogether too short time allowance granted to Serbia, counseling Serbia to show the greatest prudence, and seeking to institute an international investigation.

On July 25, at 5 o'clock in the morning, we arrived at Stockholm, where M. Thiebault, our Minister there, at last handed us the exact text of the ultimatum. And thus we received confirmation of the severity of its conditions, more insolent than all the rest, constituting a veritable declaration of war in themselves, giving Serbia only forty-eight hours in which to reply, refusing her even the right to discuss the decision, and robbing Europe of the chance to give helpful advice.

SITUATION BLACK

Everything looked dark. Yet we were compelled throughout the day to reciprocate the exquisite politeness of the King of Sweden, to look on at externals, without succeeding in freeing ourselves from the internal torture of our thoughts. That evening at 7 our Minister at Christiania, pursuant to orders which I had given him over the telephone, informed me that the German Emperor had left Bergen for an unknown destination. The comedy was drawing to an end. The real drama was to be hurried onward by the return of that innocent and naive traveler!

We left Stockholm at 11 o'clock that night. Never did I see such a contrast between nature and the painful feelings of all those present. The heavens had gathered over our heads all their splendors; the white wake of our majestic ship was bathed in light. In our minds, however, the shadows were beginning to deepen.

ONLY MEAGER NEWS

We tried constantly to get news. A piercing whistling sound would cut through the air! What did it bring?—Nothing but an unintelligible message on a sheet of paper! Another!—only a sentence bearing no relation whatever to anything else! And all the time we were waiting to learn what the Serbian answer was. Convinced that counsels of moderation and prudence had been given by France and Russia, convinced of the sense of duty of the noble little Serbian nation, we felt sure in advance that its answer would be conciliatory and of a nature making possible an honorable settlement.

The 26th and 27th were without news. Each hour that passed, we felt, undoubtedly marked some grave event, but we were unaware what it might be.

We could not know it. The German government—as was learned later from documents found at Metz—had given orders to disturb wireless communications.

WIRELESS CRIPPLED

Here is what was found in the files of the German wireless station at Metz:

July 27th. 2 o'clock. "The governor orders that French wireless communications be disturbed in such a way as not to constitute a violation of peace." (Gouv. befiehlt Stoerung franzoesischen Funkenverkehrs in einer den Frieden nicht verletzenden Form.)

Three o'clock. "The communication engineer of the wireless orders that Franco-Russian wireless communications be disturbed."

July 28. 4 o'clock. "The Eiffel Tower has understood our intention of disturbing its communications and is evidently trying to deceive us by transmitting with great energy to Dunkirk news for the steamship 'France,' which does not answer. In view of the possible importance to Russia of the contents of the dispatches, this transmission is also blocked (unterbunden.")

And here is why we knew nothing of what was going on.

Surrounded by the solitude of the sea, far from all men, it is impossible to know what is going on in the world. Responsibility, no matter how crushing it may be is assumed proudly when the will to assume it is based on reality. Out there on the sea, though, we had nothing on which to shape our actions. How thought is strengthened when it illuminates the inner world which man carries within himself! But what agony one suffers, on the other hand, when one is confronted with the necessity of acting upon the outer world and is deprived of every means of doing so!

TENSENESS GROWS

On the morning of the 27th we received the following: "Satisfactory reply from Serbia; admirable in its moderation." And yet, in spite of this, the Austrian Minister had taken his departure from Belgrade two hours after he had received the reply. What did this mean?

As we drew nearer to France, we guessed the nature of the somber imbroglio which, engineered cleverly and violently, served as the framework for the situation. Germany, hailing joyfully the return of her Emperor, refused to intercede with Austria, and, at the same time, arrogantly demanded that we seek to influence Russia. She even offered to appear our friend in this task, acting conjointly with us, her purpose being to denounce Russia, with backing from us, as the guilty party.

Refusal of further delay; no interference from the rest of Europe; England pushed aside; the conflict localized, which meant the strangling of Serbia out of our sight; Serbia invaded; Belgrade bombarded; war begun—these were the successive stages of the drama.

DECISION TO RETURN

On the preceding day we had decided to return directly to France. Up to then the route toward our country coincided with that toward Denmark, consequently we had not lost a moment. Again I telegraphed (Yellow Book, No. 76) to M. Bienvenu-Martin, who so ably acted in my place, giving my approval of his firm and prudent conduct, and for the purpose of protecting him.

On the morning of the 29th, by the first light of the dawn, we sighted the coast of France.

At last! A twinkling light beneath a roof, a house, dockyards, masts, a gradually emerging skyline—Dunkirk! And now we are piloted into port, and men versed in politics, deeply moved but firm, bring us information, and colleagues of ours give us the news, and workmen pause in their work to greet us!

Then—Paris! A sea of human beings overwhelming us. Hosts of Frenchmen, already united to meet the danger threatening France, their grave faces shining with the century-old idealism of France and her lofty pride.

Hail, land of independence and valor! The reception given us by thee helped our souls to rise superior to Fate!

Harding to Free Dozen Political Prisoners Today

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—It was stated at the White House today that "about a dozen" political prisoners will be released tomorrow as a result of clemency exercised by President Harding.

Nearly all, if not all, prisoners to be released, it is understood, are members of the I.W.W., convicted in Chicago of obstruction of war measures.

The prisoners will not be pardoned, but their sentences will be commuted to expire at once if they accept the conditions of clemency. In commuting sentences of political prisoners recently, the President made release conditional upon a promise to obey the laws in the future.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

En obsequio a nuestros numerosos amigos de habla española, y para beneficio de los lectores americanos del Times que estudien esa lengua, publicamos diariamente esta columna en castellano, con un extracto de las más importantes noticias de última hora.

Un conocimiento práctico del español es de grandísima utilidad en este país, especialmente en el suroeste; como lo demuestra el hecho de que en Los Angeles solamente hay más de 15,000 personas que estudian ese idioma con profesores oficiales o particulares. Para esos estudiantes será un buen ejercicio leer todos los días esta sección, donde encontrarán las palabras y frases más usuales del lenguaje español.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Noticias de Washington

WASHINGTON, dbre. 29.—El Presidente Harding ve con favor un arreglo de las reparaciones alemanas mediante una comisión de peritos desinteresados, para la que este gobierno podría nombrar un delegado, si tal se le pidiera. A esto se aplaria, por supuesto, en el caso de que fracasara la conferencia de los Primeros Ministros. En vista de ello, y de los pasos que la Administración está dando en tal sentido, según se dice, ha sido retirada la enmienda Borah del proyecto de ley naval, que recomendaba la convocación de una conferencia económica.

El Senador Bursum, republicano de Nuevo México, ha introducido un proyecto de ley por el que se otorga a Alemania un crédito de $1,000,000,000 para la compra de productos americanos.

La Comisión de Banca y Moneda del Senado, en la discusión sobre legislación de créditos rurales, ha apoyado los proyectos de ley Capper y Lenroot.

Mañana va a dar libertad el Presidente Harding a una docena, más o menos, de los "presos políticos" convictos en Chicago.

Mujer de Illinois que Va a Tratar de Ser Reelecta

CHICAGO, dbre. 29.—Winifred Mason Huck, señora congresista de Illinois, anunció que va a presentarse candidata a la reelección, a fin de cubrir la vacante creada por el reciente fallecimiento de James R. Mann, diputado por el octavo distrito de Illinois.

Aprehensión en el Misterioso Asunto de la Bomba

MARSHFIELD (Wisconsin) dbre. 29.—Como resultado de la averiguación instituida por las autoridades postales y los funcionarios del estado, prédicese que esta noche se hará una aprehensión relacionada con el misterio de la bomba, que costó la vida de una señora y serias lesiones de su marido. La Sra. Chapman resultó mortalmente herida cuando ella, su marido, miembro del Consejo de Valuadores del Condado, y un comisionado del ferrocarril, abrieron el miércoles en la tarde un paquete que contenía una bomba.

LUSANNE, dbre. 29.—La conferencia de paz del Cercano Oriente estuvo hoy a punto de fracasar, habiendo habido varias causas de ruptura, sobre todo la relacionada con la propiedad de los yacimientos petrolíferos de Mosul. También la que se refiere a la cuestión de capitulación.

Los aliados están haciendo gran presión en el asunto de la capitulación, oponiéndose firmemente a que estén sujetos los extranjeros de Turquía a la jurisdicción de los tribunales turcos, insistiendo en que sólo tribunales especiales con jueces extranjeros podrán ventilar las cuestiones en que figuren extranjeros. Los turcos se oponen a esta invasión de su soberanía, pero sus delegados repiten que no estriba en las capitulaciones el más grave peligro de la conferencia. Dicen que la cuestión para la que los aliados están preparados a resistir de veras es la relativa al petróleo.

NOTAS LOCALES

Se Busca una Nueva Pista en el Asunto Phillips

Después de haber interrogado ayer más de tres horas a la Sra. Peggy Buxton, ex-presa de la Cárcel del Condado, que salió libre unos días antes de la fuga de Clara Phillips, dió orden el sub-sheriff Biscailuz de que se le detuviera para posterior averiguación. Está en la creencia de que, por medio de ella, puedan obtenerse valiosos informes sobre el paradero de la asesina del martillo.

La noche del jueves fué arrestada en Long Beach la Sra. Buxton, a quien se buscaba desde la aprehensión en Casper, Wyoming, de la Sra. Beatrice Craig, pocos días después de la evasión de Clara. La Sra. Craig fué cacada de un tren en el lugar citado, creyéndola Mrs. Phillips. Supóse en esa vez que la Sra. Buxton y su marido eran conocidos del Sr. y la Sra. Craig de Long Beach, y los empleados del sheriff decidieron interrogar a la Sra. Buxton sobre estas relaciones.

Arde una Rápida Embarcación de Carrera

La Miss Cecilia, embarcación del Sr. Cecil de Mille, que iba a correr en las carreras de autocancas en que se disputaba el campeonato de Gar Wood, ardió ayer en el Puerto de Los Angeles, al estar en la línea de partida. La causa del incendio fué un fuego de rechazo que inflamó la gasolina en el casco de la Miss Cecilia. Al estar los botes alineados para correr el primer tramo del campeonato Gar Wood, la Miss Cecilia dió unas cuantas vueltas alrededor de los yates anclados. Al irse aproximando al partidero, saltó una gran llamarada del interior de la embarcación, y en unos cuantos segundos era toda ella una masa de llamas. De Mille que, en persona, patroneaba el barco, y Feer, su mecánico, saltaron al mar, sin recibir sino ligeras quemaduras en los brazos y en la cara. Feer llevaba muy ajustado el salvavidas y no podía moverse bien para nadar. Fué recogido por un yate cercano, y llevado enteramente agotado, al Club de Yates de California.

Transplantación de la Colonia Japonesa

Toda la colonia agrícola japonesa de California va ser transplantada a la costa occidental de México, según planes que se dieron a conocer ayer. El Times puede asegurar que ya comensaron las negociaciones con el gobierno mexicano, y que se escogerá entre dos sitios para la ubicación de la colonia, que resultará ser la mayor colonia extranjera de México. Uno de los lugares es Sinaloa, y el otro es el Estado de Nayarit, antiguo Territorio de Tepic. La ley de tierras de California, contra extranjeros, que ha sido confirmada por la Suprema Corte de los EE.UU., va a echar de sus terrenos, para el primero del año, a millares de japoneses, y este es el motivo de la proyectada transplantación.

DEPORTES

Balompié

Hoy se enzarzarán en un partido de Este contra Oeste, la Universidad de Pittsburg y la Universidad de Stanford, en Palo Alto. Los momios de las apuestas están en favor de Pittsburg, pero no sería difícil que los belicosos Cards lleven a cabo una gran victoria y sorprendan a los muchachos de oriente. Hewitt, as del equipo de las Panteras, va a hacer seguramente grandes cosas en el juego de hoy.

Los preparativos del equipo de balompié de la Universidad de Sudcalifornia están para terminarse. Ya nos separan pocas horas del día de año nuevo, y cada vez están nuestros muchachos más resueltos a llevarse los laureos en su lucha con los del Estado de Penn. Hugo Bezdek, por otra parte, conduce a sus muchachos a toda velocidad, para que estén en la mejor forma posible durante el gran partido. Está confiado en una gran victoria, pero espera que la lucha sea dura.

Autocanoas

La Miss América ganó ayer en el puerto el primer tramo del campeonato Gar Wood. Antes de la carrera, en un recorrido de práctica, la Miss Cecilia, del Sr. Cecil de Mille, comenzó a arder y se quemó por completo. El Sr. De Mille no salió muy dañado, pero su mecánico casi se ahogó. Mañana a las once se correrá otro tramo.

Baseball

Se ha anunciado una serie de juegos rápidos en la Triple Liga A. El principal de ellos es el de los Bailarines del Rose Room contra los de la Shell Oil. El equipo de ésta se halla en el primer lugar de la liga con Sawtelle, pero necesita ganar este partido para afianzar su lugar. Aunque el equipo de los Bailarines del Rose Room es el más fuerte, le temen mucho los otros miembros de la liga, porque tiene la costumbre de dar sorpresas en el momento más inoportuno.

Basketball

Tan pronto como se abran las escuelas, los instructores de basketball organizarán sus equipos para entrenamiento intensivo. Varias de las escuelas de aquí han estado trabajando todas las vacaciones, de manera informal, pero, desde el día 2, en que se abran de nuevo los establecimientos, los muchachos van a comenzar a practicar de veras.

REDLANDS MAN IS BACK FROM HAWAII

FORMERLY RESIDENT THERE, HE IS ASTOUNDED BY ADVANCES

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 29.—H. H. Garstin, manager of the Bear Valley Mutual Water Company, owning the Big Bear Lake, has returned from the Hawaiian Islands where he has been with Mrs. Garstin for several months. Eighteen years ago the Garstins came to Redlands from Hawaii where they lived for a number of years and his comments on the changes there are interesting.

He says that the growth of the pineapple industry has been one of the most remarkable features of the development of the Islands. When he lived there pineapples were grown for private use alone, now there is a vast acreage, great packing plants and an industry of much value. He says that the packing-houses are models of cleanliness and that the fruit is handled "with gloves" until placed in the cans.

Mr. Garstin also spoke of the wonderful system of fine lava roads that has been built since he lived there. These roads are to be found on all the islands and automobile trips over them now are one of the chief attractions for tourists.

BANK BLOCK REBUILT

Redlands Institute to Open Doors for Business Soon

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 29.—The remodeling of the Hubbard Block, the future home of the new First National Bank, is being rushed and it is expected the bank will be opened soon after the first of the year.

Austin T. Park, in charge of the organization of the bank, says that just as soon as quarters can be arranged the bank will be ready for business.

The bank is in the same location as the Citizens National Bank which some years ago was merged with the First National Bank, now a branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings.

OIL STATION HELD UP

Two bandits, shabbily dressed and afoot, held up the Union Oil station at San Fernando last night, taking $40. The men were believed to have been on their way to Los Angeles and officers along the way were notified to be on the watch for them.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

EASTERN TRADE REACHES PEAK

Intercoastal Freighters Not Fully Loaded

Drop From Capacity Ends Record Period

Tonnage Nearly Doubled in Six Months

Freight steamers will sail from Los Angeles Harbor for Atlantic ports next week for the first time in many months with less than full cargoes. The condition bears out the prediction that the peak of the increase in intercoastal traffic had been reached. Coast-to-coast tonnage increased in six months from 600,000 deadweight tons to more than 1,000,000 tons.

A tabulation of all companies and ships in intercoastal trade reveals that thirteen companies are operating 138 vessels in regular service from Atlantic to Pacific ports.

THREE LINES LEAD

The United American Lines lead all operators with thirty-two vessels; the Luckenbach Steamship Company comes second with twenty-two steamers, while the Isthmian Line is third with thirty cargo carriers, which are shifted about, not more than half being in intercoastal trade at one time.

Other lines, with their present fleet strength, are: Pacific Mail, eight ships; Crowell & Thurlow, eight; Dollar Line, six; Nawsco Lines, six; Williams Line, six; Moore & McCormack, six; Munson Line, four; Garland, four; Argonaut, four, and A. E. Mittnacht, two.

MOVEMENT GROWING

The cargo movement has grown tremendously in the last six months, first, as a result of the rate war—attracting freight that formerly moved by rail across the continent—and later as a result of the active state of business on the Pacific Coast and throughout the Southwest. The trade was stimulated throughout by the car shortage on the transcontinental railroads.

More ships went into service as the traffic increased and shipping men predict that the figure will shortly reach 1,200,000 deadweight tons unless a slump in cargoes disarranges the announced plans of the operators.

PORT NOTES

Five tank steamers were loading at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday in the close of the year's activity in the port. Four of the vessels, the motorship Charlie Watson, and the steamers A. T. Hance, R. R. Kingsbury and Capt. A. F. Lucas, were of the Standard Oil fleet, while the Union Oil tanker Los Angeles sailed for Martinez with 80,000 barrels. The Norwegian tanker Bataviagen, on her first trip here, is being equipped with a new propeller at a local shipyard.

The fortnightly service of the Garland Steamship Company from the East Coast to Los Angeles will be inaugurated January 6 with the sailing of the steamer James H. Duke from New York. She will be followed by the steamer William Perkins, which will leave the eastern terminal January 14.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—More than 200 small craft that usually make daily or semi-weekly trips outside of the Golden Gate have been tied up in the bay for the past two days because of the rough weather beyond the heads. Steam schooners and auxiliary power boats that sail out of this port to ports north and south report that the sea is running heavier than at any time last year.

The steamer Northland arrived in port today, nine days from Seattle via Port Angeles, six days and two hours with its entire cluster missing as the result of encountering a terrific southerly gale off North Humboldt Wednesday night. It was said the waves swept over the vessel with such force that she was on her beam's end for more than half an hour before the crew, lashed to the deck, cut adrift seventy-five tons of hog chunks, a carload of structural iron and seventy-five empty oil drums. The steamer Homestead of the North Atlantic and Western Steamship Company arrived here today on her maiden trip for the concern. She is a United States Shipping Board vessel and formerly operated between Baltimore and Rotterdam in the grain-carrying trade for the Black Diamond Steamship Company.

COOS BAY (Or.) Dec. 29.—The steamer Admiral Goodrich, which arrived this morning from Portland and Astoria, will not sail south before tomorrow because of loading 300,000 feet of lumber before departure.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 29.—A compilation from records of steamship operators at Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles and in British Columbia, made here today, showed 345 vessels due at Pacific ports in January and February. According to shipping men, this is showing breaks all records.

The James H. Duke, which will be the first vessel to visit the Pacific in an intercoastal service being established by the Garland Steamship Company, started loading at New York today, according to advices received here, and will reach Seattle about February 15.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 29.—In 2922 729 deep-sea vessels, of a total tonnage of 4,190,999 net, cleared, as compared with 676 in 1921. The gross tonnage for 1922 will exceed 4,190,999 and the net will approximate 2,000,000 as against 1,921,213 net in 1921. The gross tonnage entering the harbor was 3,944,455 and the net 1,353,944. Increased lumber, grain and general export and import business are credited.

Coastwise sailings for the port averaged over 1200 a month, the total for the year being 13,500 vessels.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha Line Africa Maru was to have touched for Seattle after leaving 3000 tons of oriental-bound general freight here.

TACOMA, Dec. 29.—The Floridian was docking up at the Baker dock today and will have cargoes, decks and cities area from here for New York.

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 29.—Four cargoes, aggregating more than 12,000,000 feet of lumber, left the Columbia River today for California. The Frank D. Stout, Wapama, Daisy Putnam and Daisy Gaddis were the vessels which loaded the lumber and part of it having been hauled here and part on the lower river.

The steamer Northland, which put in at San Francisco yesterday, battered and leaking, after having buffeted storm while en route from Seattle to the South for a full cargo of lumber for this port, and is to load lumber here, after it is discharged, reports from San Francisco to the local agents today say that the Gray Shell Line will be repaired there before proceeding north.

ASTORIA (Or.) Dec. 29.—The Standard motorship Linaa, which left Astoria last night for Scandinavian ports, via San Francisco.

HE'S POPULAR ACTOR

GASTON GLASS SIGNS WITH B. P. SCHULBERG

By Grace Kingsley

The dashing Gaston Glass has won a popularity contest and a long-term contract. B. P. Schulberg took no chances when he made up his mind to sign some well-known masculine star to add to his aggregation of clever people, but when he decided on the move he sent out by telegraph and mail inquiries to theater owners to the following effect: "What type of male player is most in demand by your patrons? Whom would you suggest as best fitted to play this type?"

The result shows the five most popular male players in America are Rodolph Valentino, Gaston Glass, Kenneth Harlan, Wallie Reid and Thomas Meighan. And so Gaston's Christmas stocking contained what is probably one of the most desirable pictures contracts signed in years.

Glass was first won to the stage by Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, in whose company he remained two years. At the conclusion of that period, Mme. Bernhardt, preparing to return home, gave one bit of advice to her promising player:

"Stay in America," she said. "Make the most of your talents by working for the screen. These Americans appreciate art."

The actor made his first sensational success on the screen as the wistful young hero of "Humoresque."

Edwin Carew Productions

Edwin Carew has just signed up a contract to make a series of productions to be known as the Edwin Carew Productions, and to be released through First National.

He will work at United Studios, and he announced yesterday that his first picture will be a version of the play, "The Girl of the Golden West." So far no cast is announced.

Tom Gallery in It

Tom Gallery has been added to the cast of Marshall Neilan's current picture, "The Ingrate."

You Can Never Tell

Down at the Morosco, yesterday afternoon a tinkling feminine voice came over the phone, asking what the new show would be.

"'Three Live Ghosts,'" explained Mr. Neill.

"All right," said the feminine voice. "Please save me two."

Shortly afterward into the office tripped a little old lady, who glanced about at the lobby display, looked puzzled, went to the window to get her tickets, and asked:

"What did you say the name of this new show is?"

"'Three Live Ghosts,'" said Mr. Neill.

"Oh, I thought you said 'Three Large Goats,'" explained the old lady.

"Well," smilingly admitted Neill, "you never can tell what a show will turn out to be, but so far it isn't 'Three Large Goats.'"

Lefty Flynn in East

Maurice (Lefty) Flynn, former Yale athlete and well-known leading man in motion pictures, has has been engaged to play the leading role in Alice Brady's newest picture, "The Snow Bride," which is being made in New York.

Buster Brown in Films

Century Comedies are coming right along. The brothers Stern announce the purchase of the right to adopt Outcault's Buster Brown cartoons to the screen. Tige will be played by Brownie, the Century comic canine. The Sterns have not yet signed up a boy to play Buster, but are on the lookout for one back in New York.

Larry Semon, Aviator

Larry Semon was all up in the air a great part of the time during Christmas and New Year week. The comedian has been filming the scenes involving an exciting airplane chase for his latest picture and has succeeded in recording several hair-raising stunts above terra firma.

Cast for "Little Girl"

When "The Little Girl Next Door" by Blair Cohan is made it will have in its leading roles Carmel Myers, Pauline Starke, Mitchell Lewis and Creighton Hale. The picture is to be filmed in Chicago.

Claire Windsor Smashes Car

Claire Windsor smashed her brand new car yesterday at the Selznick studio. She crashed in the back of a truck. It was the first time she had driven the machine. The star herself was much shaken up, but her principal moan was over her wrecked car.

Oh, yes, and Miss Windsor is playing a leading role in "The Stranger's Banquet," which opens its second week at the California tomorrow.

MISSION OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Next week is anniversary week at the Mission Theater.

The playhouse is preparing for the gala event with several unique atmosphere embellishments which are to be added to the presentation of Mack Bennett's production of "Susanna," in which Mabel Normand is starred.

With the beginning of the second week of the Mabel Normand production a number of innovations are to be included in the program. Souvenirs are to be distributed to several lucky patrons. On the screen will be shown the opening night festivities of the Mission two years ago, and during the special New Year's Eve performance tomorrow night several historical films are to be included in the presentation.

PICTURE VERSION OF "PEG" DUE TOMORROW

Laurette Taylor will make her film debut before Los Angeles theater fans tomorrow when she will be seen in the title role of "Peg O' My Heart" at Loew's State Theater.

Perhaps no star is as well known to local theaterdom as is Miss Taylor, who created the role of Peg at the Burbank Theater at Sixth and Main streets.

The film version follows closely the original play though somewhat elaborated. In the supporting cast are Russell Simpson, Mahlon Hamilton, Nigel Barrie, Ethel Grey Terry, Lionel Belmore, Vera Lewis and D. R. O. Hatswell.

On the same bill next week will be Bessie Clayton and her dance revue, which has been held over for the showing of "Peg O' My Heart."

RAPID-FIRE ACTION IN CAREY PICTURE

Five cowboys on horseback, dashing madly through a saloon in pursuit of a man who tried to "down" one of their friends is one of the many exciting scenes in Harry Carey's latest F. B. O. release, "Good Men and True," which comes to the Symphony Theater next week.

The scene is an actual occurrence in the action of a story in which love, romance, plot, counterplot, intrigue, and tense drama are so closely blended as to make it truly a rapid-fire action picture.

HACKETT SOLOIST

ORCHESTRA PLAYS "SCOTCH" SYMPHONY

By Edwin Schallert

If applause be the criterion the most popular offerings on the program of the Philharmonic Orchestra yesterday afternoon at the auditorium were the "Recit and Air d'Azael" from "L'Enfant Prodigue," by Debussy, sung by Charles Hackett, and "The Don Juan" tone poem by Richard Strauss. The symphony for this, the sixth concert of the season, was the conventionally appealing No. 3 in A minor by Mendelssohn. The orchestra also played the picturesque and semicomical Swedish Rhapsody, "Midsommarvaka," by Alven, and Mr. Hackett sang for his first number "Il Mio Tesoro," from "Don Giovanni."

Any estimate of the concert must, of course, take into account the approval manifested for the "Don Juan." This work has, however, already been heard and reviewed this season. There was nothing to chronicle of newness. The composition suggests the same wild distaste on the part of its hero for anything lasting in romance, and in the character one discerns something of the Flying Dutchman. The reception for the tone poem provided further evidence of the taste of audiences here for the new. This was demonstrated again in the instance of "L'Enfant Prodigue" air.

Rich in tonal beauty and color was Mr. Hackett's singing of this selection. It represents Debussy at his mildest. The spirit of the thing is a la Massenet. At least it is not far removed. Mr. Hackett's phrasing of the vocal passages, which are exquisitely supported by the orchestra, was particularly splendid. There was both distinction and fervor in his rendition, and above all, it pleased by its intelligence.

"Il Mio Tesoro" was well phrased but one missed the sustained character later evident in the Debussy air, and that gave the singer's voice a larger play.

The Mendelssohn symphony, called the "Scotch," sketches in one or two of its movements the landscape of that bonnie land. Mostly though it is as much Italian as Scotch. I don't wonder that Schumann made the mistake of thinking that it depicted the southern land, as he is said to have done. Scotch the scherzo, to be sure, but the Adagio cantabile sounds like bel canto opera, and the final movement is also idealized Donizetti. As a whole, the work is a little cloying, except for its very brisk scherzo, and parts of the opening and final allegro.

The Swedish Rhapsody mingles romance with humor. The bassoon notes are particularly worth observing for their grotesque spirit. The romantic portion touches the garments of real beauty.

Mr. Rothwell was seated while directing the concert, contrary to the usual precedent. His health has not been of the best this winter, it is understood, but his interpretations throughout showed a very appreciable esprit and a broad force and conviction in the climaxes.

The concert will be repeated tonight.

HILLSTREET STAGES MIDNIGHT MATINEE

Tomorrow at 10:30 p.m. at the Hillstreet Theater a midnight performance will be started to greet the incoming New Year. No set program has been arranged but a gala time is promised with the different acts participating including Little Billy, Bill Robinson, Harry and Anna Seymour, J. D. H. and others.

New Year's Day will bring an entire change of entertainment headed by "The Letter Writer," a new one-act playlet by Edwin Burke and S. Jay Kaufman and the Love Twins, who were featured recently with the Harry Carroll production. The entire program will offer a variety of entertainment, with the screen portion having for its feature Dustin Farnum in "Yosemite Trails."

TAX ON STREET SHOWS

Uncle Sam Wants Revenue on Rose Tournament and Game

Persons or organizations selling admissions to vantage points from which to view the Pasadena Rose Tournament on New Year's Day, must collect tax on such admissions, or be subject to a penalty of $1000, Collector Goodcell said yesterday.

This includes seats in stands, on porches, in windows, on trucks, in automobiles or any other place, where an admission fee is charged. This tax must be collected from the person paying the admission charge. It cannot be paid out of the gross proceeds of the sales of admission.

Persons who expect to speculate in tickets to the football game at Pasadena on New Year's Day, should call immediately at the office of the Collector and register that fact. Such persons are "ticket brokers" under the Revenue Act of 1921, and are liable to a fine of $1000 if they fail to register and pay the tax. The tax is 5 per cent of the excess charge if that does not exceed 50 cents. If the ticket is sold for more than 50 cents more than the established price, the broker must pay a tax of 50 per cent of such excess. Records of all such sales must be kept.

INTERRUPTED JOURNEY

Three Adults, Baby and Baggage Held in Pasadena Jail

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Joseph Simons, their 2-year-old daughter, their friend, John Marcus, their automobile truck, their trunks, their satchels, their phonograph and their three saxophones were interrupted today en route to Barstow by Detectives Cropsey and Davis, who lodged the adults in jail on bad-check charges.

The trio are said by the police to have passed worthless checks in a number of Southern California cities, including this one. The police also say Simons admits the charges, and admits having been known under the various aliases of Tommy Ferguson, Alex Graham, Roy Cummings, John Ferguson, John McPherson and Harry R. Wilson.

FINDS HUSBAND, THEN GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Ella May Allen, who was granted a divorce from David R. Allen by Judge Summerfield in Superior Court yesterday, said her husband told her he went to Arizona where he had interests.

She heard nothing from him for two years she said and could not find him. She received a letter from him through his sister, who would not tell where he was, Mrs. Allen declared.

Finally Mrs. Allen came here from the East and accidentally met her husband on the street. She said he told her he did not care for her any more and asked her to permit him to get a divorce.

A Voice in the Fog

By Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Returning from the opera one night in a heavy London fog, Kitty Killigrew, daughter of Daniel Killigrew, an American coffee king, overhears the voice of a man promising to keep a six months' wager. Her car is stalled in a traffic jam and while she muses over the eager incident a thief removes her sapphire necklace and is gone before she detects the loss. Another car in the same line of traffic containing Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, American friends of the Killigrews, is also visited by an unseen vandal, who snatches an invaluable ruby from Mrs. Crawford's neck and escapes under cover of the fog. The following morning the Crawford ruby is mysteriously returned. That same morning a certain young Englishman, Thomas Webb by name, forsakes the life of a haberdashery clerk and embarks for America in the capacity of cabin steward. About his neck he carries a chamois bag, containing a number of brilliant, unset sapphires. The Killigrews and the Crawfords take passage on the same ship and Thomas meets Kitty.

At sea Daniel Killigrew and Crawford discuss the return of the stolen ruby. Crawford believes the jewel had been stolen by Mason, formerly a valet in his service, and had been returned for sentimental reasons. Kitty and her mother plan a charity organization and consider Thomas as a possible secretary in the work. In New York, Haggerty, an American detective, is looking for the Killigrew sapphires.

"Molly, how long have we been married?"

"Thirty years, Daniel."

"How old is Kitty?"

"Mother!"

"Twenty-two," answered Mrs. Killigrew relentlessly.

"Well, I was going to say that I've learned more about the Killigrew family in these four months of travel than in all those years together."

"Something more than ornaments," suggested Kitty dryly.

"Yes, indeed," replied her father amiably.

And when he returned to the boat deck that afternoon for tea (which, by the way, he never drank, being a thorough-going coffee merchant,) he said to Kitty: "You win on points. If Webb doesn't pan out, why, we can discharge him. I'll take a chance at a man who isn't afraid to look you squarely in the eyes."

At the precise time when Kitty retired and Thomas went aft for his good-night pipe—11 o'clock at sea and 9 in New York—Haggerty found himself staring across the street at an old-fashioned house. Like the fisherman who always returns to the spot where he lost the big one, the detective felt himself drawn toward this particular dwelling. Crawford did not live there any more; since his marriage he had converted it into a private museum. It was filled with mummies and cartonnages, ancient pottery and trinkets.

What a game it had been! A hundred thousand in precious gems, all neatly packed away in the heels of Crawford's old shoes! And where was that man Mason? Would he ever return? Oh, well; he, Haggerty, had got his seven thousand in rewards; he was living now like a nabob up in the Bronx. He had no real cause to regret Mason's advent or his escape. Yet, deep in his heart burned the chagrin of defeat; his man had got away and half the game (if you're a true hunter) was in putting your hand on a man's shoulder and telling him to "Come along."

He crossed the street and entered the alley and gazed up at the fire-escape down which Mason had made his escape. What impelled the detective to leap up and catch the lower bars of the ground-ladder he could not have told you. He pulled himself up and climbed to the window.

Open!

Haggerty had nerves like steel wires, but a slight shiver ran down his spine. Open, and Crawford yet on the high seas. He waited, listening intently. Not a sound of any sort came to his ears. He stepped inside courageously and slipped with his back to the wall, where he waited, holding his breath.

Click! It seemed to come from his right.

"Come out o' that!" he snarled. "No monkey-business, or I'll shoot."

He flashed his pocket-lamp toward the sound, and aimed.

A blow on the side of the head sent the detective crashing against a cartonnage, and together the quick and the dead rolled to the floor. Instinctively Haggerty turned on his back, aimed at the window and fired.

Too late!

Haggerty sat up and rubbed the swelling over his ear, tenderly yet grimly. Next, he felt about the floor for his pocket-lamp. A strange spicy dust drifted into his nose and throat, making him sneeze and cough. A mummy had reposed in the overturned cartonnage and the brittle bindings had crumbled into powder. He soon found the lamp, and sent its point of vivid white light here and there about the large room.

Pursuit of his assailant was out of the question. Haggerty was not only hard of head, but shrewd. So he set about the accomplishment of the second best course, that of minute and particular investigation. Some one had entered this deserted house; for what? This Haggerty must find out. He was fairly confident that the intruder did not know who had challenged him: on the other hand, there might be lying around some clew to the stranger's identity.

Was there light in the house, fluid in the wires? If so, he would be saved the annoyance of exploring the house by the rather futile aid of the pocket lamp, which stood in need of a fresh battery. He searched for the light button and pressed it, hopefully. The room, with all its brilliantly decorated antiquities, older than Rome, older than Greece, blinded Haggerty for a space.

"Ain't that like these book chaps?" Haggerty murmured. "They go away without turning off th' meter!"

The first thing Haggerty did was to scrutinize the desk which stood near the center of the room. A film of dust lay upon it. Not a mark anywhere. In fact, a quarter of an hour's examination proved to Haggerty's mind that nothing in this room had been disturbed except the poor old mummy. He concluded to leave that gruesome object where it lay, obody but Crawford would know how to put him back in his box, poor devil. Haggerty wondered if, after a thousand years, some one would dig him up.

Through all the rooms on this floor he prowled, but found nothing. He then turned his attention to the flight of stairs which led to the servants' quarters. Upon the newel post lay the fresh imprint of a hand. Haggerty went up the stairs in bounds. There were nine rooms on this floor, two connecting with baths. In one of these latter rooms he saw a trunk, opened, its contents carelessly scattered about the floor. One by one he examined the garments, his heart beating quickly. Not a particle of dust on them; plenty of fingerprints on the trunk. It had been opened this very night—by one familiar, either at first hand or by instruction. He had come for something in that trunk. What?

From garret to cellar, thirty rooms in all; nothing but the hand print on the newel post and the opened trunk. Haggerty returned to the museum, turned out all the lights except that on the desk, and sat down on a rug so as not to disturb the dust on the chairs. The man might return. It was certain that he, Haggerty, would come back on the morrow. He was anxious to compare the thumb print with the one he had in his collection.

For what had the man come? Keepsakes? Haggerty dearly wanted to believe that the intruder was the man he desired in his net; but he refused to listen to the insidious whisperings; he must have proof, positive, absolute, incontestable. If it was Crawford's man Mason, it was almost too good to be true; and he did not care to court ultimate disappointment.

Proof, proof; but where? Why had the man not returned the clothes to the trunk and shut it? What had alarmed him? Everything else indicated the utmost caution. . . . A glint of light flashing and winking from steel. Haggerty rose and went over to the window. He picked up a bunch of keys, thirty or forty in all, on a ring, weighing a good pound. The detective touched the throbbing bump and sensed a moisture: blood.

LUBITSCH SOON TO START WORK

Douglas Fairbanks Nails Tale of Changed Plans

Actors, War Veterans Take Strong Stand on Matter

Denials of Gadski Backwash Denied on All Sides

A report that Mary Pickford had decided to secure another director for her next picture, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," because she feared Ernest Lubitsch's German birth might arouse hostility among ex-service men was conclusively laid last night by Douglas Fairbanks, speaking for his wife. "Such a thing never has thought of by my wife," Mr. Fairbanks declared. "She never has contemplated such action.

"There is no parallel between Lubitsch's case and that of Mme. Gadski, and I do not believe any of the artists against the celebrated German director. He never was in the German army and took no active part in the World War," Mr. Fairbanks stated.

"I JUST B'ORROWED"

Mr. Fairbanks also disclosed that Ernest Lubitsch will not direct Mary Pickford in her next picture under any contract with her. Through an arrangement with Famous Players-Lasky Lubitsch simply has been "borrowed" for "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," he stated. At the time of Mr. Lubitsch's recent arrival here The Times set out the sentiment prevailing among the men prominent in affairs of the local war veterans' organizations.

Sympathy toward Lubitsch was disclosed, though there had been rumors of opposition. In fact, ex-service men's leaders declared there was no valid reason why Lubitsch should not be allowed to take pictures in this country.

VETERANS FRIENDLY

"Any attempt to foster hostility against Mr. Lubitsch among the members of the war veterans by any of the directors would not be given official support, it was stated from the responsible heads of the service men's organizations.

"The war veterans' leaders emphatically stated at the time they believed there is no similarity in the circumstances surrounding the cases of Lubitsch and Mme. Gadski. They pointed out that at the time of America's participation in the World War, Johanna Gadski was in America and the recipient of public support from American citizens. In the face of this, Mme. Gadski was pro-German.

"Lubitsch, on the other hand, was born in Germany and during the war a resident of that country and never set foot in the United States until within the past few years, it was pointed out.

"Any feeling against Mr. Lubitsch possibly should be focused on the service men's leaders as deplorable and unjust."

NOT TO BE HOSTESS

Legion heads demonstrated that instead of any intolerance prevailing between the veteran's organizations and

JAP COLONY TO LEAVE STATE

Nipponese Farmers Going to Mexico

Community to be Formed on West Coast

Department Organized to Handle Affairs

The entire Japanese agricultural colony in California is to be transplanted to the West Coast of Mexico, according to plans made known yesterday. The Times is able to announce that the negotiations already have been taken up with the Mexican government, and that two alternate locations for the colony, which would be the largest foreign one in Mexico, have been selected. One is in Sinaloa and the other in the State of Nayarit (formerly Tepic.)

The antialien land law of California, recently confirmed by the United States Supreme Court, throws thousands of Japanese farmers out of their land with the first of the year. What these farmers would do has been a question until now unanswered. It had been supposed that they would scatter to other States where the laws were less stringent, or to other countries. But the Japanese feel that the colony in California has become established as a unit, with its social and other organizations, and that an entire transplantation would be desirable.

LEADER SELECTED

N. Kobayshi, prominent among his countrymen in this country and in Mexico, has been selected to head a new department of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce. This department will handle all Japanese-Mexican relations, and arrange the new colony if the Mexican government grants the necessary permission. Mr Kobayshi speaks Spanish fluently. He lived many years in Mexico, and his wife is a Mexican, a native of Guadalajara.

The west coast has been selected because it undoubtedly presents the richest field for agricultural development in the republic, and because the task of transplanting the Japanese farmers there from California would be relatively easy. The attractions of the undeveloped tablelands about Tepic City and the Sinaloa River Valley of Sinaloa are being weighed. An extensive irrigation project is in progress in the latter district. The territory affords an agricultural production similar to California, with several tropical fruits added.

TO AVOID CLASHES

So as to avoid racial difficulties, it is proposed not to transplant Japanese laborers in any large number. The recent movement against the Chinese on the West Coast of Mexico has proved a warning in this regard. The Chinese were small truck gardeners, storekeepers and in some towns controlled everything, agriculture, hotels, stores and banks. Racial antagonisms developed, and many of the Chinese were deported.

The Japanese, on the contrary, propose to send down men of means, who will conduct agricul-

M'NAB BACKING ARBUCKLE FILM

New Picture to be Made in Local Studio

Comedian at Work on Story for Production

Roscoe Chosen as Active Head of Company

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, in the face of the tidal wave of criticism directed at his proposed return to the motion-picture screen, has gone to work for the lawyer who freed him of the charge of manslaughter for which he was tried three times in San Francisco.

Arbuckle at present is at work on a motion-picture story, according to Joseph Schenck. Schenck was Arbuckle's producer at the time of his arrest more than a year ago in San Francisco in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe.

Gavin McNab, one of the leading attorneys of the Western States, defended Arbuckle in the three San Francisco trials. He has gathered together a group of San Francisco financiers, who have organized a motion-picture producing corporation to be capitalized at $100,000.

The new film producing organization, which probably will seek a location in Los Angeles for production purposes, will be directed by Attorney McNab, but it will be Arbuckle's company and the corpulent comedian will be its active head.

Contrary to a rumor emanating from New York yesterday that Arbuckle was to enter the directing field instead of appearing on the screen in the role of an actor, it was learned by The Times last night that Arbuckle is to be the star in the pictures to be produced by Gavin McNab's company.

These facts were revealed last night by Mr. Schenk, who aside from being Arbuckle's closest friend also is the husband of Norma Talmadge and the producer of her pictures, as well as those of Constance Talmadge and Buster Keaton.

"I had a long discussion with Roscoe yesterday," said Mr. Schenck. "He has returned from San Francisco where he conferred with Gavin McNab and the San Francisco financiers. Roscoe told me Mr. McNab had organized a $100,000 film company, which will produce Roscoe's future pictures.

"Roscoe already is working on his first picture. The production will start immediately. My conference with Roscoe was relative to the leasing of studio space at our studios. We have not enough room for our own productions, so Roscoe is arranging to lease studio space from the United Studios."

While Arbuckle was buckling down to work, criticisms of his return to the profession dwindled down to one yesterday. In Portland a resolution was adopted by the Oregon State Teachers' Association, stating:

"The time has come in view of the rising tide of juvenile crime in America when the educated world must denounce with alarm the questionable moral life of those who are participating in the motion-picture industry and continued exploitation on the screen before the immature youth of our land the most debasing exaggeration of sex regulations and general criminal achievements."

Other sectors along the Arbuckle war front were quiet.

NEW MARSHAL SWORN IN

Richard Gusweiler, the new deputy United States Marshal at San Diego, was sworn into office here yesterday, and will begin the discharge of his duties on January 1. He succeeds George Cooley, who will embark in business in San Francisco.

REALTORS ELECT NEW EXECUTIVES

Edwin G. Hart is Named President of Board for Coming Year

Edwin G. Hart was elected president of the Los Angeles Realty Board to serve during 1923 at a meeting of the governing committee of the organization yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hart, who will assume office on January 1, will succeed Frank Ryan, who is closing his second term as chief executive of the organization.

Mr. Hart has been a member of the board, and has actively participated in its affairs, since 1905. For two years he served as a member of the governing committee. He is one of the best-known operators in citrus lands in Southern California, and is considered an authority on the value of agricultural lands.

He will be officially introduced to the board membership as its new president on Thursday evening, January 18, at the annual banquet of the Realty Board at the Ambassador Hotel.

Charles B. Hopper, subdivider and an official of the Home Building Company, was elected first vice-president to succeed L. J. Durnerin. W. L. Brent, specialist in industrial property, succeeds Gilbert S. Wright as second vice-president.

Hervey M. Porter, well-known operator, and a close student of realty development, was elected treasurer, to succeed Richard C. Willis. Mr. Porter, who has been active in the organization as a member of the governing committee, is also giving a series of lectures to the realty classes of the University of Southern California.

NEW YEAR'S GRID PASSES END STRIFE

City Council, Amply Provided, to Join Joyously in Rose Tournament

The great war, brief but fiery while it lasted, between the Los Angeles City Council and the Pasadena Tournament of Roses organization, was ended yesterday, when the Council received twenty-eight passes to the New Year's Day football game.

The Pasadena organization first sent to the Council ten tickets for the football game. There are nine City Councilmen. This was one ticket for each Councilman, and then a toss up for the odd one.

"Nothing doing," said the Los Angeles city fathers, who promptly returned the ten tickets to Pasadena, and, furthermore, pigeonholed the necessary $500 appropriation to decorate two automobiles in which the Councilmen had planned to ride in the Tournament of Roses floral parade.

Yesterday's mail brought the twenty-eight tickets, which the Councilmen divided according to their needs. The money for decorating the automobiles was voted, and everyone was happy. The fire department will decorate Mayor Cryer's automobile and the police department will dress the machine in which Chief Oaks will ride in the parade.

Autoist Fatally Injures Man and Then Drives on

Struck by an automobile that increased its speed and disappeared, M. Castiano, 35 years old, of 430 North Main street, was taken to the County Hospital last night in a dying condition.

Castiano was walking on the Valley Boulevard toward Pomona when hit. A passing motorist picked him up and took him to the hospital. His skull was fractured.

FAST RACING BOAT BURNS

Pilot De Mille and Mechanic in Championship Event Forced to Swim for Lives

The Miss Cecilia, Cecil De Mille's entry in the Gar Wood championship motorboat races, burned at the starting line yesterday afternoon at Los Angeles Harbor. The cause of the fire was a backfire which exploded the tanks under the seat. De Mille and his mechanician, Al Fear literally were blasted out of the boat.

De Mille kept Fear, who was unconscious, afloat until both were rescued by the crew of Nat Walsh's boat and taken to the California Yacht Club.

Just as the boats were lined up for the first heat of the Gar Wood championship races and Miss Cecila took a few spins around the anchored yachts. As she approached the starting line a great flame shot from the cockpit of the craft, an explosion followed and in a few seconds the boat was a mass of flames.

De Mille, who was piloting the boat and Fear, received slight burns about the arms and face.

The gasoline from the burning boat spread on the water and kept other boats from rendering assistance to the two racers. The Cecelia sank in a few minutes after taking fire.

Mr. De Mille estimated the loss to be about $14,000. The motor, he said, may be salvaged and used again but the hull is a complete loss.

The Miss Cecelia was a new boat and was to enter this race as her maiden trip. She was considered a fast craft and close contender for first honors in today's races.

POLA FREE TO MARRY ANY TIME

"No One Can Keep Me From Doing So if I Choose," Says Star

Pola Negri insists she can be married if she chooses. She thus announced yesterday when questioned relative to the presence of an antimatrimony clause in the contract under which she is appearing at present in Famous Players-Lasky features.

"You can tell the world for me that I would not be so foolish as to sign any contract which would forbid my marrying if I wished," was the Polish tragédienne's emphatic statement.

"My present contract is for business purely, and in no way can keep me from marrying if I choose," she concluded.

When asked if Charlie Chaplin was her choice as Count Domska's successor, Pola tossed her head and stalked to her dressing-room in silence.

SUSPENDED BUT MUST KEEP ON

Texas Plan Loan Company's Permit Revoked

Law Requires Continuance; No New Business

Profits Too Small; Contract Holders Protected

The California Convertible Interest Company, one of three so-called 3 per cent or "Texas plan" loan companies operating under regulations fixed by Corporation Commissioner Daugherty six months ago, has been ordered to cease writing loan contracts and the company's permit to do business has been revoked, it was learned yesterday. Rumors of the impending suspension have been current in financial circles for several weeks.

Under rules fixed by the State Corporation Department when the "3 per cent" companies were authorized to operate in this State, all contract holders are amply protected and company officials are required to live up to all contract provisions, including the retention of sufficient administrative machinery and financial surplus to remain in operation until all contracts have been completed—a provision which may, it is said, force the suspended company to maintain offices and at least one individual under $50,000 bond for ten years.

The order of Commissioner Daugherty affects only new business, he explained yesterday when confirming reports that the Convertible Interest Company had been instructed to cease its operations. Revocation of the company's permit was ordered as a result of voluntary petition from officials of the institution, he said.

This voluntary action, according to officials of the State, came as a result of failure of the low-rate interest loan organization to earn sufficient profits to pay necessary overhead expenses.

The California Convertible Interest Company, which has maintained offices at 704 Pacific Finance Building, wrote approximately $1,200,000 worth of contracts since starting loan operations last spring, it is said, approximately $850,000 worth of outstanding contracts remaining on the company's books.

Two other loan companies are operating in Los Angeles under the "Texas plan." The California Finance and Housing Company, of which Attorney Joe Crail is one of the founders, and the Western Mutual Finance Company.

"Purchasers of contracts in the California Convertible Interest Company will realize 100 cents on the dollar of money invested if they stand on their contract right," said Commissioner Daugherty yesterday, adding, "I would strongly advise contract holders against hasty action, as the contract provides for a cash surrender value, or a paid-up certificate.

"This company has ceased to write business, but is solvent, so far as contract holders are concerned. The regulations outlined by the State insure this. So far as this department has been able to ascertain, co-operative loan companies operating without regulation have proved insolvent when they ceased to do business. This is not the case with the California Convertible Interest Company.

"By exercising options provided in the contract, the holders of these contracts will not be forced to pay excessive interest. The contract holder will receive a full return of his money, plus interest compounded semi-annually at 4 per cent per annum, less a flat charge of $25 per thousand as contract fee."

State officials and financial experts who have studied the "Texas loan plan" generally were of the opinion yesterday that those holding contracts of the suspended companies will agree upon an equitable form of liquidation at an early date in preference to continuing contracts in force as those who might desire to observe contract provisions would be required to pay prohibitive interest rates

CHAMBER HEAD RADIOES PLEA

Aid for "Times" Charities Fund is Urged

Radioland Hears Needy Will Get Every Dollar

Speaker Says Purpose is to Continue Holiday Spirit

Declaring that if prosperous citizens fail to give adequate aid to the poverty-stricken people of Los Angeles "the stream of our prosperity will be clogged and we shall fail to reach the bright goal of our dreams," Capt. John D. Fredericks, president of the Chamber of Commerce, made a stirring appeal to KHJ listeners-in yesterday at noon, on behalf of The Times Charities Fund.

"An address on the subject of charity usually is an appeal entirely on behalf of the destitute, but there is another standpoint from which it behooves us to view this matter of relieving distress," said Capt. Fredericks. "We would do well to remember that to the extent that poverty and disease exist in any city or section, the entire membership of the community is affected adversely."

Appealing to his hearers not only in the name of the men, women and children who have been brought to misery through misfortune, not of their own making, but pleading also for the best moral, physical, and financial interests of the entire municipality, the speaker said that the rendering of assistance to those in need is not only a privilege, but a duty, which the prosperous citizen owes to himself and his family. Continuing, Capt. Fredericks said:

WILL PERPETUATE SPIRIT

"The Times idea of raising a charities fund at this time is to provide a continuation of the Christmas spirit indefinitely. It is a matter of record that the worthy charitable institutions of the community have been handicapped by lack of funds. Their immediate and pressing needs must be met with money in hand and various worthy cases cannot be aided unless these organizations have more substantial financial backing.

"There are 175 accredited social service bodies in the city that continuously are performing services for humanity. Those who have been less fortunate in the battle of life than their fellow-humans are the concern of these organizations and the ones who are aided. It is the hope that all of the deserving poor can be helped.

"In appealing to the public, generally, for contributions to this charity fund, The Times is acting only as the medium for publicity. The dispensing of the funds will be in the hands of a committee composed of officials in the various larger civic organizations, which, in turn, are representative of the citizenship of the city and State.

MANY REPRESENTED

"The organizations represented in the community for the distribution of the funds include the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Los Angeles Church Federation, the Hebrew churches, the Shriners, the Rotary Club, the Advertising Club, the Elks' Club, the Optimists' Club, the Knights of Columbus, the Kiwannis Club, and The Times. The committee guarantees to all donors to the fund that every penny donated will be devoted to relief work. It is a fact that many persons are generously inclined and able to give, but do not care to dissipate their funds in contributing to causes that are merely promotions under the guise of an appealing charity. The Times hopes to reach these, especially, and to assure them at this time that they may give to the limit, in the assurance that their gift will be devoted entirely to making brighter those lives that have been overwhelmed by misfortune and which will be dark indeed unless their fellow-beings come to their assistance.

"The charity fund is not a

Riot Guns Given to Police Squad on Night Patrol

The night flying squadron of the police department will take no more chances with bandits or prowlers.

As a result of orders issued by Chief of Police Oaks, a sawed-off shotgun was issued to each member of the squad last night by Lieut. Slaten, in charge of the squad on duty between midnight and morning. The weapons will be a part of the officers' equipment and must be carried on every call which the squad answers.

The new guns are modeled especially for police work and are known as riot guns. In addition to carrying ammunition for his revolver, each officer will carry several rounds of buckshot for use in the shotguns.

WEATHER FREAKS NOTED

December Wet, but Neither Hottest nor Coldest Records of Forty-four Years Show

Search of the records kept at the Los Angeles office of the United States Weather Bureau for the last forty-four years reveals freakish combinations for the month of December, this year.

Although the temperature of 80 degrees on both the 20th and 21st inst. was nine degrees lower than the highest recorded for the month during the past forty-four years, the coldest day of the month, 44 on the 9th inst., was fourteen degrees warmer than the lowest on record, which was 30 degrees on Dec. 21, 1897.

MONTH ABOVE NORMAL

With the coldest day of the month much warmer than the recorded coldest day and the hottest day much cooler than the previous high mark, other days in the calendar struggled hard to maintain the general average. As against a normal temperature of 56.5 for 44 years, the mean for the month was 59.

The highest mean temperature of record for December was in 1917, when an average of 63 was maintained. The previous year the lowest mean for the 44-year period was reached at 53 degrees.

With a rainfall mark of 9.16 inches to shoot at to equal last year's record by the end of December, 1922, was far behind with but 4.77 inches, although the average seasonal rainfall to this date for forty-four years, 4.83 inches, was approximated closely.

The wind Dec. 3, 1921, reached a velocity of forty-three miles an hour. The maximum velocity for December of this year was but twenty-one miles on the 10th inst.

THE WINDOWS OF HEAVEN:—Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it.—Malachi 3: 10.

OWSLEY TO ACT IN FILM

Legion Chief to Co-Star With Mary and Doug During Visit to Cinema Studios

In order to complete the Los Angeles visit of Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, who arrives here at 9:30 tonight, plans are being made now to show him the most interesting and unusual side of this city's industrial life—the motion pictures.

Following a motor tour of the city, which starts from the Alexandria Hotel tomorrow at 10 a.m., the Legion commander will be taken to Pickford-Fairbanks studios, 7100 Santa Monica Boulevard, where he will be extended the official welcome of the film capital by the king and queen of cinemaland, who will escort his party through the plant, showing them how pictures are made.

In addition to welcoming the commander to Hollywood and showing him the studio, "Mary and Doug" will enact a short movie in which Owsley will co-star, with other important Legion officials appearing as the supporting cast. This film will be presented to the Legion and will be released to all posts through their own exchange.

LUNCHEON AT LEVY'S

After the welcoming ceremony and picture-taking, the party will proceed to Hollywood for a luncheon at Levy's, one of the famous cafes of the film Mecca. Arrangements for this luncheon have been made under direction of W. J. Shackleton, adjutant of one of the Los Angeles posts, with E. T. Ferguson, adjutant of Hollywood Post, co-operating.

Following the luncheon the Commander will be taken to American Legion Stadium, 1634 El Centro street, Hollywood, to be welcomed by city officials and Southern California Legion officers. Mary Pickford and Douglas Fair-

OLD ORCHESTRA IS KHJ FEATURE

Bible School Musicians Give Pleasing Program

Members' Solo Numbers Are Added Attraction

Pianist Are Prominent in Afternoon Broadcast

Orchestra music occupied the major portion of the concert program given by KHJ last night. Not only did the music assume major proportions, but the orchestra itself was major, compared with any orchestra The Times has broadcast so far. The First Methodist Bible School Orchestra was organized thirty years ago under H. W. Brodbeck and Rev. Hugh Smith, then chorister, was the first director. Mr. Carter, president of the orchestra, is one of the original members.

Twenty-two years ago Harry Sherman had charge of the musical organization. He was succeeded sixteen years ago by Earle B. Valentine when it was reorganized. Arthur M. Perry, violinist, now business manager of the College of Music, University of Southern California, directed for six years, and three years ago the orchestra moved to the Trinity Auditorium and Irving G. Ulmer, the present leader, took charge.

QUALITY MUSIC

With Arthur Blakely at the piano and with Irving G. Ulmer directing, the orchestra—not the full membership since the KHJ studio would not permit of such a group—favored with numerous selections, giving to listeners music of high quality, the kind that lives with the listeners long after the final echoing note is gone.

This orchestra is heard annually in the Easter sunrise service at the Santa Monica palisades. It gives one concert monthly at Trinity Auditorium, and plays concert engagements in outlying towns and cities of the Southland.

Some members of the orchestra favored as soloists last night. Richard Webster, 15-year-old violinist, did Borowski's "Adoration," with all the artistry expected of one twice his years. James Ulmer, gave a charming violin interpretation of "Andante," from the "Sistz Concerto," Irving G. Ulmer favored with Saint-Saens's "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," as a cornet solo, and Mildred, Marguerite and Leland Auer, as a violin, cornet and piano trio, executed Lange's "Flower Song," in a not-soon-to-be-forgotten way.

TEX ROGERS SINGS

The vocal selections on last night's concert bill were all by Tex Rogers, basso profundo, accompanied by Male Schaffer Ryland. Mr. Rogers has a rich and resonant voice that is strong and powerful in the lower registers and has earned an enviable reputation in musical circles not only in the Southland, but in eastern States as well. All of his selections last night were old-time favorites—the kind one usually brings to mind when thinking of a deep bass voice. His songs were "The Big Bass Viol," by Bohannon; "O'er the Billowy Sea," by Smith; "When Big Profundo Sang Low C," by Botsford, and "When the Bells in the Lighthouse Ring Ding Dong," by Sloman. To this number a bell accompaniment was given which lent added realism to the score. Mr. Rogers, who in private life is Phillip T. Hillman, sang through the courtesy of the Los Angeles Ellis Club.

Miss Ryland, who accompanied Mr. Rogers, was formerly with the Chicago Choral Art Society, where she established a reputation as a pianist and accompanist.

ENTERTAINS CHILDREN

Beatrice Fenton, for whom the light of day has been forever taken, showed her versatility last night, when she entertained the kiddies of Radioland with piano solos and a reading of one of her own compositions, "The Question." She gave to MacDowell's "To a Water Lily" and Scariatti's "The Pastoral" interpretation that was delicate in shading, yet firm in expression, showing her artistic achievements in music have marked advancement.

Piano solos occupied all of the musical part of the afternoon broadcast yesterday from KHJ. Alberta Boyer, whose ability as a pianist is well recognized, was proxy for Ruth Chambers, who was unable to appear. Miss Boyer came in Miss Chamber's place, playing the same numbers as were scheduled, "At an Old Trysting Place" and "A Deserted Farm," by MacDowell, and "The Tango in D," by Albeniz.

Capt. John D. Fredericks, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly on The Times Charities Fund, stating that unless assistance is given to those who are worthy and require it, they will clog the freedom of the social lanes. His plea for the fund will be found in another section of this issue of The Times.

RADIOLAND WILL SPEED DYING YEAR

KHJ to Ring Out the Old, Ring in the New, With Special Program

Old Father Time will be assisted royally from his throne tomorrow night by radio.

KHJ has planned one of its now famous special evenings, and even in the death throes marking the end of his usefulness the white-bearded patriarch of fancy, who on the stroke of 12 tomorrow night will give way to a youthful cherubic successor, will find that his actual passing will be made pleasurable to the last breath.

A program par excellence has been arranged, in which spirited music and song will go into the homes of radioland to bid them cheer.

RING IN THE NEW!

Nor would it be appropriate for the little newcomer to be neglected on his arrival, so the celebration of the passing of the old will carry on as a welcome to the coming of the new. Informality again will be king in the KHJ studio. Just as the annual celebration of this event is marked by joy and revelry, so will tomorrow night's concert. Several times KHJ concerts have lasted two days, or rather parts of two days. Tomorrow night's will begin four hours before the end of 1922 and carry on into 1923—just how far will be known only to those who listen in.

The usual Sunday morning service will be given at 10 o'clock, Rev. Bruce Brown, pastor of the South Park Christian Church, presenting one of his discourses.

This afternoon KHJ will broadcast a play-by-play story of the Pittsburg-Stanford football game in the Stanford stadium.

KHJ Speaker Is Applauded for Progress Talk

There is some disadvantage to the speaker in addressing an audience by radio—he gets his applause, or vote of thanks, second hand. Thursday evening Capt. John D. Fredericks, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, broadcast from KHJ a message of greeting to the Nogales (Ariz.) Chamber of Commerce gathered for its annual meeting.

Capt. Fredericks prefaced his talk by saying that hearing a speaker by radio had its advantages in that the listener could "cut him off at will." It appears that the Nogales business men listened to the finish of Capt. Fredericks's graphic resume of western progress—a word picture he spoke into the air lanes that offered an incentive to everyone in the Southwest to do their utmost toward keeping this progress continuous. Following the greeting this message came:

"A resolution of thanks was extended to you last evening in the annual meeting of this chamber for your address over the radio, which we all enjoyed. The loud speaker delivered your speech very clearly to all present.—Nogales Chamber of Commerce."

HUGE LOSS DUE TO ACCIDENTS

Los Angeles' total economic loss from accidents for the year 1922 has reached the total of $19,081,800, according to figures compiled yesterday by the Safety Bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Included in this total are all motor vehicle accidents as well as railroad and industrial accidents and the figures compiled show 412 fatalities during the year as the basis of computation.

Actual property damage to automobiles during the year, according to Auto Club estimates, will be $871,245.50, based on the fact that there have been 34,585 automobile accidents in the city during 1922 in which motor cars were damaged. Day to day estimates on the average cost of the accidents continue over a period of several months and the average cost of such accidents amounts to $22.30 each.

Improper Note to Screen Star Charge in Case

Carl C. Mains was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Long yesterday on the charge of sending an obscene letter to Miss Marie Prevost, motion-picture actress, at her address, 272 South Normandie avenue. His bond was fixed at $5000, and the hearing set for January 8. It is declared he wrote a similar letter to Miss Bebe Daniels, also a motion-picture player, some time ago.

Tourist Travel to Ocean Park Making Record

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OCEAN PARK, Dec. 29. — The influx of tourists into this district was much heavier during the months of November and December of this year than last, according to a report from T. C. Peck, passenger agent of the Union Pacific company, received here today.

Four extra sleepers have been added to each train out of Chicago and two have been added to those out of Omaha since December 15. Reports indicate that after January 1 travel will be heavier than it was earlier in the winter. Mr. Peck says several early cold spells and storms caused the heavy influx of tourists.

Outgoing travel over all routes is said to be unusually light.

WIFE SEES NOTHING IN CITY LIFE

Backwoods Woman Leaves Husband Who Refused to Let Her Play With Gas

Modern inventions, such as gas, electricity and the telephone, were too much for his Alabama backwoods wife, Beatrice, although she had "a right smart lot of schoolin'," S. G. Morgan testified before Judge Summerfield in Superior Court yesterday. He was granted a divorce on grounds of desertion.

Morgan stated that both he and his wife were raised in the backwoods of Alabama and had been sweethearts as long as he could remember. Some time ago, he said, he migrated from Alabama to Los Angeles, and later sent for his childhood sweetheart. They were married here.

When they moved into a home of their own, he said, trouble began. His wife couldn't understand how the fire came from the gas jet, what made the phone tinkle and where the light came from. She insisted on playing with the gas jet and flooding the house with the fumes. Morgan said he protested repeatedly, telling his wife that the gas would kill her. She laughed at him, he said.

One night he came home to find the rooms flooded with gas and went to the meter in the basement to turn it off. When he returned to the house his wife told him, he said, that her "Paw" and "Maw" told her not to bow down to any man and that she would leave him unless he turned the gas on again. He refused and she left him, he said.

Sunday Dancing Ban to Rule on New Year's Day

Dancing in all public places must stop promptly at midnight Saturday and must stay "stopped" until the wee hours of Monday morning, Chief of Police Oaks ordered yesterday. The dance hall ordinance will be enforced strictly and impartially over New Year's Day, he declared.

The announcement by Chief Oaks followed a call on the City Council by a delegation of dance hall proprietors led by Fred Solomon. Mr. Solomon, speaking in behalf of the dance hall owners, declared they were ready to comply with the law but asked assurance that cafes and other places of entertainment in the city would do so.

Chief Oaks acting on instructions from the Council issued the order which will prevent dancing in the city except at clubs and homes.

Frosty Letter Introduced in Divorce Trial

Signing herself "Your wife in name only," and addressing him as "Dear sir," Florence wrote her husband, Dwight G. Bishop that a girl was born to her on Good Friday and asked him if he was going to support the child.

Mr. Bishop introduced this note in evidence in his divorce suit before Judge Summerfield in Superior Court yesterday. The case will be resumed February 1.

Mr. Bishop said his wife refused to make her home with him, and declared she would not live with him unless members of her family also were permitted to live there.

CHAPPELL NEW HEAD OF BOARD

Civil Service Officials Deny Intention to Oust Commissioner Berger

C. S. Chappell, a member of the Board of Civil Service Commissioners, was elected president of the board yesterday. He succeeds Charles R. Berger, whose term of office as president had expired. Mr. Chappell is a broker and has been a member of the board about eighteen months.

The commission still lacks full membership, Commissioner Windham of Long Beach having resigned. Mr. Windham is City Manager of Long Beach.

No formal meeting of the Board of Supervisors has been held at which action might have been taken in regard to asking Mr. R. Berger to resign his seat on the board.

Mr. Berger stated he has not been asked to resign, nor was he present at a purported secret meeting Thursday at which the Supervisors are said to have asked him to quit. He declared he has no immediate expectation of resigning. The supervisors individually stated there has been no meeting of the board at which his resignation was discussed.

SEEK BETTER TROLLEY SERVICE TO SCHOOL

The City Council has instructed the Board of Public Utilities to work out a plan with the Los Angeles Railway Company for better service to the new Roosevelt High School, at the intersection of Fouth and Pickett streets. The new school is nearing completion, but it is feared that the present car service will be inadequate for pupils when the school is opened.

MRS. PHILLIPS'S FRIEND QUIZZED

Mrs. Buxton is Detained in Escape Case

Woman Said to Have Been Seen Near Jail

Sheriff's Office Checks Up New Clews

After being questioned yesterday afternoon for more than three hours, Mrs. Peggy Buxton, a former prisoner in the County Jail who was released a few days prior to the escape of Clara Phillips, was ordered held for further quizzing by Undersheriff Biscailuz. He was of the belief that valuable information as to the whereabouts of the hammer slayer might be obtained.

Mrs. Buxton was arrested in Long Beach Thursday night at the request of the Sheriff's office. She had been sought since the detention of Mrs. Beatrice Craig in Casper, Wyo., a few days following the escape of Mrs. Phillips. Mrs. Craig was taken from a train in the Wyoming city in the belief that she was Mrs. Phillips. It was learned at that time that Mrs. Buxton and her husband were acquaintances of a Mr. and Mrs. Craig in Long Beach, and the Sheriff's forces desired to question Mrs. Buxton concerning this acquaintanceship.

At that time it also was stated that Mrs. Buxton had been seen in front of the County Jail the afternoon Madalynne Obenchain was released. Mrs. Phillips escaped some time the same night or early the following morning. Officials were anxious to determine whether Mrs. Buxton's asserted presence near the jail the afternoon previous was a mere coincidence.

Mrs. Buxton was questioned by Undersheriff Biscailus and Deputy Sheriffs Bright and Moodie. All declined to state whether Mrs. Buxton had given them any information of value in the search for Mrs. Phillips, but declared that they desired to question her further.

Mrs. Buxton was arrested on the charge of violating her parole and was held Thursday night in jail at Long Beach awaiting action by the Sheriff. Undersheriff Biscailus, in company with Dep. Sheriff Crowley, went to the beach city yesterday morning and took the prisoner to the Sheriff's office.

PRIVILEGES PROMISED IN ANNEXATION

Freedom in Drilling for Oil on Northeast Tract is Offered by Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 29.—Complete freedom for property owners in the matter of drilling for oil was promised residents of the northeast section by the City Council today. Annexation of this territory will be the subject of a special election to be held January 5. In a formal statement issued today by the Council it was promised that residents of this section, if they vote to become annexed to Long Beach proper, will not be interfered with in the matter of oil-drilling rights nor will they be subject to zoning ordinances as the latter now exist. Representation in the City Council also was promised.

"I feel that the city is meeting the people of the district more than half way in the matter of privileges. We do not want to force the people into the city but we do want to make Long Beach so attractive to them that they will want to become a part of it," explained City Manager Windham today in discussing the coming city election.

Owners of property in the district, if it is annexed, will be permitted to determine for themselves whether they want to drill for oil. There will be no city-made drilling restrictions as they exist within the present city limits. Police and fire protection, garbage and rubbish collection, larger water mains and other advantages will be given the district, it was promised.

Annexation of the territory will increase the population of Long Beach about 15,000 persons.

Whittier Woman Asks Court for Estate Disposal

Mrs. Nannie S. Patten of Whittier filed a petition yesterday in Superior Court for letters of administration to settle the estate of her husband, the late Charles C. Patten.

BEATEN, ASKS $10,000

—We are pleased to refer to this as more than an ordinary Clearance—just what do we mean by this?

—We term it such because it reaches out into the markets, bringing from the manufacturers, the wholesalers, the jobbers, vast quantities of merchandise (the clearance assortments from these many sources.)

—Back of this event is the sincere desire to win friendships and to hold them by providing the desired merchandise—the sort that is in demand at the present time—at prices that will surely meet with your approval.

—We have a high regard for the reputation which the Clearance has earned, and it is our purpose to do everything possible to have it grow in importance with the passing years.

CHANGE OF BASE

The brewer's big horses that they used to sing about at the Billy Sunday meetings are now being used to haul the milk wagon when they have work.

HARD TO EXPLAIN

It seems odd that grown men will sneak up alleys in quest of dubious moonshine when so much sparkling California sunshine is virtually thrust upon them without money and without price.

GETTING TANGLED

There are over 30,000 ordinances in the city of Los Angeles. That is why so many men try to explain their incapacity to remember all the petty details of the Wright Act. When there are so many laws and regulations how can one recall all the paragraphs of a particular one?

CURLING UP

It is announced that in some of the cities of the North and East where snow and ice are plentiful the women are taking to the old Scotch game of curling. We never knew that this was a Scotch game. The girls here have been playing it for ages and they don't need the ice man, at that. Every maid and matron has her pet curling iron and it is likely to be an electric one.

MEN AND MONKEYS

One of the States of the Union is passing a law forbidding the teaching of the theory of evolution in the colleges and academies of the State. A recent church convention of one of the leading denominations passed resolutions setting forth that there was no such thing as evolution—at least as far as man is concerned. William Jennings Bryan makes very emphatic pronouncement that there is no strain of monkey in his family tree.

So that's that.

On the other hand, here come the distinguished gentlemen composing the American Association for the Advancement of Science collectively announcing that there is no proposition in the field of scientific research more substantially supported by proof than the theory of organic evolution. It is as emphatic as the tides. They declare that to bar its study is to revert to that podden spirit which would have sent Galileo to the torture for teaching that the earth turned on its axis.

The scientists assert that evolution is established beyond peradventure and that fresh manifestations of its scope are being daily uncovered. Dr. Darwin did not claim that men were descended from apes, but he did proclaim the principles of evolution and the scientists of today are reasonably unanimous in supporting his contentions. We may not have had gorilla grandfathers, but we might. Other proofs in evolution would suggest the possibility of many things that are improbable. Men are not descended from monkeys, but when one watches a jazz band at work there is vanity in the suspicion.

BRAIN WORKERS

Some of the greatest benefactions given to the world have brought no substantial reward to the bestower. Some middleman is likely to butt in and grab all the money there is in it.

In mechanics an inventor is permitted to patent his discovery and be fully protected therein by world-wide laws. But in chemistry, for instance, there are often discoveries of immense value and importance to the business world, yet neither the professor who unearths the secret nor the science which inspires them may gain financial profit from their application. Both the professor and the science may be embarrassed all their days.

It is hoped to correct this situation and make the professor worthy of his keep. Included in the retinue of the League of Nations is a committee of intellectual co-operation. The idea is to protect the rights of authors and scientific discoverers. Mme. Curie is mentioned as an interesting example of the ill-used scientist. She is the discoverer of radium, which has been put to many uses and out of which many substantial fortunes have been made. She has been honored with medals and decorations, but she has barely money enough to eke out a living. Such minds as hers should be endowed so that they might work on uninterruptedly and with never a thought of where the next meal is coming from.

Outside of this problem of intellectual property or the rights of authors this league committee will consider the compilation of a universal bibliography to include the scientific works in all modern languages. There may also be the publication of an international scientific review and the planning for an international university congress. Prof. R. A. Millikan of the California Technical Institute is a member of this commission and he has distinguished company among his colleagues. His associates include Prof. Bergson of the French Academy, Profs. Einstein, Gilbert, Murray and Mme. Curie.

It is intended that, through international co-operation, the writer, the chemist, the scientist and other pioneers in thought shall be placed in position to draw at least a proportion of the financial benefits derived from or created by their disclosures.

To this proposition no just man may say nay.

INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT

None who reads of the murders committed by the Ku Klux at Mer Rouge can be honestly deceived concerning the menace to government and society of such an organization. The men killed were upright citizens. They had never even been suspected of the commission of any crime.

They were slain because they had the courage to protest against the invisible government of the Ku Klux. They had insisted that none should be punished who had not been lawfully convicted, that none should be judged except in a legally constituted court of law; that no group should be permitted to exercise through terror an autocratic domination over the community.

Members of the Klan who have confessed say they were told by the high officials that they must make an occasional raid, must show themselves in force and discipline whoever opposed them in order that there might be a wholesome fear of their authority.

They gave to their invisible government a visible form by going into politics. The Sheriff and most of the county officials belonged to the Klan. The members were safe from conviction because the Sheriff drew the names of those who were called for jury duty in the criminal court.

When a group of law-abiding citizens in the community refused to obey the dictates of the Klan and sought to bring the night-riders to justice the Klan slew them.

There are other organizations in the country that, like the Ku Klux, seek to replace justice with terror, open courts with secret tribunals. The activities of the Klan do not differ in a wide degree from those of the wrecking crews of some of the labor unions. When the unions assume the right to keep others from doing the work that their members decline to do they become as much of a menace to society as the night-riders of the Ku Klux.

Mob rule, whether resorted to by the Ku Klux, the labor unions, the Reds or any other organized group, is the negation of all law. No nation, no State is self-governed that cannot protect its citizens or subjects against the encroachments of organized minorities.

So-called laws that are enacted under the cover of darkness and that are enforced in secret constitute the worst form of tyranny. If the State of Louisiana is not strong enough to adequately punish the murderous night-riders it becomes the duty of the Federal government to render the necessary assistance. Murder does not cease to be a capital offense because it is committed by members of the wrecking crews of some organization whose sessions are held behind closed and guarded doors.

The principle on which the Ku Klux is organized is so fundamentally vicious that no chapter of such an organization seems able to function very long without resorting to murder and terror to enforce its decrees.

While the alleged leader of the Ku Klux of Louisiana has fled to another State and is fighting extradition, the members of the Klan have circulated a poster warning that, "unless the prosecutions are dropped the moss will be red on every tree in Mer Rouge." Such a challenge to duly-constituted authority cannot be permitted to go unanswered. The case against the Ku Klux and all kindred organizations is that of law against anarchy.

DOUBTING THOMASES

Perhaps the Pharaohs were not so cruel as we have been wont to believe when they slew the purveyors of bad news.

Prosperity is very largely a question of confidence. The farmer will increase his acreage only if he believes that there will be a market for his crops at harvest time. Investors will risk their capital only in enterprises and under governments that they believe to be secure.

Purveyors of evil tidings, prophets of desolation have everywhere interfered with reconstruction since the war ended.

"How shall we stabilize exchange?" came the cry from both England and France. It would be as sensible to query how one shall stabilize the thermometer. For the condition of the national credit depends wholly upon the economic and political conditions of the country involved. Exchange registers the national temperature; it does not regulate it.

Loss of confidence can wreck a bank or a government. Let evil reports once get into circulation, let them receive a general credence and no industry, no government can prosper.

Fortunate were the peoples under the old monarchies who believed that the king could do no wrong. They were convinced that every decree was for the best; and, while their faith endured, there were no panics.

England has been solvent ever since the war; but the pound is just getting back to par. France is equally solvent. The products of the French soil are sufficient to feed the population and to spare. The government is hard pressed financially because the French Deputies have feared the loss of their personal popularity and their sinecures if they levied sufficient taxes to pay the current expenses of the government. The national wealth of France and her colonies is not less than it was in 1914. Why is the French franc, which has a par value of nearly 20 cents, worth less than 8 cents now?

Our foreign trade for the month of November was greater by nearly $100,000,000 than for the same month last year, greater than for any month before the World War. Why do so many still tremble at a mental vision of impending disaster?

For nearly two years Southern California was the single white spot on a somber continent. In a somber world. That was largely due to the fact that we closed our ears to the prophets of disaster and carried on.

Perhaps the old Pharaohs were not so ignorant or so cruel as they have been painted. They may have discovered that confidence is the secret of security. "As a man thinketh, so he is." For four years the peoples of the world have been thinking in terms of disaster.

The world is at peace. Only the politicians are wrangling. If it is not permissible to slay, at least let us ostracize the croaking ravens of distrust.

A STILL ALARM

A woman is in jail for making moonshine in the hills. It seems that a lady can't keep still, after all.

THE HILLS OF HOLLYWOOD

A home in the hills, with plenty of view way and lots of leeway, elbow room, space, no sameness of scenery, no monotony of surroundings, where the road is curved and up and down, always tempting to something more beautiful ahead, where the country rolls away in all directions to green valleys, ocean glimpses, primeval elfin forests—and in the middle distance, never very far away, the roofs and towers and domes and factory chimneys of a great metropolis, pushing itself mile by mile, year by year, out toward the same goal where the hills drop down to the sea.

William Mulholland has conceived a project that, if carried out, will add a new residential district to the suburban wonders of Los Angeles, and with the project is linked the magic name of Hollywood.

The proposed new boulevard will top the ridge of the Hollywood Hills, climb the crest of the Santa Monica Mountains at places reaching an altitude of 2000 feet and by the Topanga Canyon join the paved beach road to Santa Monica.

It is a big project for big men to tackle, able and willing to build fearlessly, for the Los Angeles of the future, in whose progress the hills of Hollywood will figure largely as the Palisades of the Hudson have in the history of New York.

Already Los Angeles is nearly linked with Santa Monica via Hollywood by a chain of solid buildings. The time will come when the hills of Hollywood will be covered with country estates and the proposed Mulholland drive will supply another scenic feature to the many for which Southern California is so justly famed.

Nature has blessed Los Angeles with a number of hill districts, skirting the city from Sycamore Grove, through Eagle Rock and Garvanza, on above Hollywood to the Santa Monica Mountains and down to the sea. Over the ridge of all these hills there should run boulevards similar to the one planned by Mulholland, circling industrial Los Angeles with an endless ring of beautiful country estates and noble homes.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES

An internationally known motion-picture star is fighting for his life in a Los Angeles sanatorium against the liquor and narcotic habits. His downfall is attributed to his friends.

"Protect me from my friends and I'll take care of my enemies," is an old saying, but in no other case is it so applicable as in those of men and women of yielding and too-obliging natures. All our bad habits are learned from our friends and when one develops a weakness for any particular habit it usually is his so-called friends who accelerate him in falling into it until he is lost or in great danger of being lost.

And then how many of those friends shy away from one with a holier-than-thou manner!

The thing which is supposed to elevate human beings above animals is the gift of reason. And yet there isn't one man in a hundred who follows reason in his pet vices. His judgment and nerves—and particularly his stomach—rebel against the first smoke. But he takes it at a friend's invitation. The first drinks taste anything but good to him, but he forces them down to be "one of the boys." And with the major vices it is just the same.

Sincere friendship is one of the most beautiful and helpful things in life. Yet how many great powers have been wasted and great dreams dissipated by those men choose to call friends!

Any man who has liquor in his house nowadays can have plenty of friends. But he cannot do either himself or them any good by choosing his intimates and his life influences from such a bunch.

THE NEW IRELAND

New Ireland expects to make immediate entry into the League of Nations. Ambassadors will also be sent at once to Washington, Rome and Paris. The Free State indicates a purpose to be a world power at once. It takes one leap from pinafores into the trappings of a field marshal. It may not be able to maintain peace at home, but there is a determination to participate in the establishment of world peace. It is thought that the first Irish Ambassador will be T. A. Smiddy, who has been unofficially representing Ireland's interests at Washington for some time and who holds the confidence of the Dublin government. We have been using our literary men for diplomatic posts in the service of Uncle Sam. Why not have a competition in the writing of limericks to decide who shall be the first Ambassador to Ireland?

TIRESOME SUITORS

A Los Angeles young woman is suing a man for damages because he "pestered" her by persisting in visiting her and calling her up on the telephone. The man in the case retorts that he was invited to call and adds that the young woman borrowed money from him.

If the man's latter assertion is true it is quite likely that he did a good deal of pestering. People so often do pester one after one borrows money that it will not be hard for the average man to know just how the young woman felt. A considerable gallery of borrowers is likely to follow the trial with great interest on that account.

But the defendant also asserts that, besides being invited to call in the first place, he was never forbidden the house later. And, if that is true, it is hard to see that the young woman is entitled to anything except a medal for her nerve, even if the suitor did become a pest.

Women inclined to take advantage already seem to have the edge on mere men in breach-of-promise suits, married life and alimony. Now if you can add to that list the chance of obtaining damages from suitors they like a while and then tire of, what chance will the poor men have?

This is no attempt to judge the case in point. That must be done by the court with all the evidence before it. But it does seem sometimes as if mere man were growing tearer and merer in his perquisites and that, if the trend continues, pretty soon somebody will have to start an Equal-Rights-for-Men movement.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

He Climbs Highest who Helps Another Up

Nothing is so sad as the cry, "I am useless!" Happily, none need ever be so.

No matter how humble a man's station in life may be, somebody takes him more or less as an example, and there are few of us but can make our influence worth radiating.

A kind word, a generous act, an encouraging smile, a bit of self-restraint—these are jewels we are all of us rich enough to scatter every day of our lives and which, while enriching and gladdening others, will not diminish our own store, will, in fact, increase our portion of true joy in life.

But a modicum of the finer, nobler things being done in the world are of the spectacular or grand-stand variety.

Most greatness is displayed in ordinary, common, every-day existence, rather than on historic fields or in public heroics.

There is the nobility of patience, the nobility of forgiveness, the nobility of faith in the face of repeated disappointment, the nobility of day-to-day courage and good spirits when all about is black, the nobility of instilling cheerfulness, peace and good will in the hearts of one's fellow-men.

To each of us is given the work of the sower.

And we are derelict in our duty to ourselves and to those with whom we come in contact if we do not make happiness a habit, leave uplifting thoughts and be ever willing and ready to stretch out a supporting arm.

Says the Talmud:

"Happy are those who have many around them, for they are rich in opportunities and may sow plenteously."

Don't get too busy to lend a helping hand—he climbs highest who helps another up.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE TALKING DEALER

I went to Higg the hatter, to buy a Sunday lid; he bored me with his chatter, as merchants seldom did. He talked about the weather, about the crop of rye, and roundly asked me whether I voted wet or dry. He talked about the Kaiser who now in exile dwells, and thought he'd have been wiser to cut out wedding bells. He talked about the graces of females he could name, and spoke about the races which are Tijuana's game. I said, "Oh, Higg the hatter, you send a pain through me, for your remarks are flatter than any spiel should be. I've walked through weary valleys, down roads where autos skid, through dusty streets and alleys, to buy myself a lid. I toiled along the highway, and up the woodland aisle, and through the reeking byway, to get myself a tile. You should be calm and quiet, and place within my reach, a hat that is a riot, a kelly that's a peach. No idle themes should enter the eloquence you throw, but all your talk should center upon that grand chapeau. Then, then you might persuade me to blow five bones or four, but, as it is, you've made me resolve to leave your store."

MEN IN THE NEWS

BY RANDOLPH LEIGH

A Man from Gobi.
A Cloud-catcher.
An Honest Guesser.

The Hindus have a saying that everything eventually returns to its starting point. Harry Chapman Andrews probably never bothered himself about that doctrine, but he has fortified it by leading the expedition which has rediscovered the Gobi Desert region—the original home of the human race.

However, the interest in that event is not due to any worship of antiquities. Geologists, historians, philosophers and others feel a scientific interest in the subject. But the secret to the general interest is in one little word which has recently brought more than one abandoned region into the very forefront of world problems—oil.

Andrews has apparently thrown much light on the early existence of the human race. He has certainly discovered fossil remains which will be of inestimable value to scientists. He has proved that the motor truck is infinitely superior to the camel in traversing one of the most difficult regions on the globe. He has uncovered a strange, gnarled, forgotten civilization in a region which most of us regarded as uninhabited and uninhabitable. He has even shaken hands with the largest man alive today. All of which, of course, is commendable, but not exciting.

But when the details collected by the expedition show that, geologically, the Gobi Desert is strikingly similar to that marvelous reservoir of petroleum which is known as the Mid-Continental field in the United States—then all kinds of men begin to yearn for closer contact with the past.

Indeed, a number of men who were never conspicuous for their desire to return home are now among the most eager to get back to the common home of the human family. However, there has been no suggestion of keeping the old home pile as common property, once the adventurers get there. The same man who discovered that this as a small world, after all, soon made the equally significant discovery that it would be decidedly diminished if it were split 2,000,000,000 ways. Therefore, it is safe to conclude that the human family will not hold share and share alike in any oil which may have stayed in Gobi after the human race moved out.

However, oil does not mirror all of the romance of the modern world. There's George A. Clarke, for instance, a cloud-chaser by profession, who has spent many enchanted years in sky-quests. Not long ago he was thrilled to find that a dapper-shaped cloud which had attracted his attention was actually making a speed of 238 miles an hour—which is not half bad when one stops to consider that the clouds do not exert themselves at all.

Clarke has pursued clouds by airplane, has photographed them and has made innumerable observations regarding them by means of the delicate instruments at his disposal. He has rounded out his work by a book on clouds, which deals with their habits, peculiarities and temperaments—for clouds are decidedly temperamental.

On certain days he and the clouds hold speedway festivals all to themselves—Clarke on a grass-carpeted hillock and the clouds rushing along their course with the wind in wild pursuit.

There are, he finds, clouds that seem to go by like a procession, with lutes and garlands. Still others have about them a haunting likeness to a camel train winding across the sands toward Bagdad.

Others have on them the imprint of the seven seas, and now and then one comes by with the frosted breath of the Arctic upon it. A few clouds bespeak eternal springtime, but for the most part they are speed maniacs, heedless of the gorgeous earth over which they rush and blind to the beauty around them.

Clarke hazards no opinion as to whether the clouds caught their spirit of unrest from the world beneath or imparted the disease to it. He is a scientist and contents himself with recording the facts.

Another English scientist, R. G. K. Lempfert, Great Britain's official weather prophet, has also written a technical book which has an appeal outside his own group.

He begins his "Meteorology" with a confession which will be applauded by the public. The weather man, he says, is not infallible. For one thing he has to base his forecasts on data often far from adequate. For another there are factors which lie at the very basis of that science which have not yet been fully mastered.

Having placed himself in a favorable light by admitting that he is merely a scientific guesser, he proceeds to his main task, which is to interest the public in his subject in such a way as to make it possible for men and women to make the utmost possible use of the data now made available through the weather bureaus. He has found people who are well informed on most subjects almost entirely uninterested in the technique of a science which is easily understood and deals with a problem of vital importance to all.

In his book the story of the World War from the weather man's point of view is charmingly presented. He shows how the great Zeppelin raid of Oct. 19, 1917, failed because the German weather man failed to take account of a strong air current which began rushing down from the north just before the huge fleet set out. Countless other critical moments in the conflict are presented in relation to weather forecasts. Lempfert is frank enough to confess that both sides suffered through failure to properly collect and utilize data bearing on the weather.

It just happens that today marks the seventh anniversary of the coldest day of record, when the temperature dropped to 90 degrees below zero at Verkhoyansk, with terrible reactions upon the morale of the Russian forces.

A FEW THOUGHTS FOR THE SEASON

By the Pocket Philosopher

"Being a member of the complex social organization known as the American commonwealth, I am apparently a very sociable creature and a splendid conformist, but at heart I am a rebel and a strong individualist." How often one hears this expression when he is talking to a fellow-being, man to man—or woman to woman! And with what sympathy one listens and with what pride and confidence he informs his companion that he shares the latter's attitude!

And yet, how much truth is there in such expressions? To just what extent are we really individualists at heart? Is it not, after all, more nearly the truth to admit that the creatures which habit and custom have made of us come nearer to representing our real selves than do those vague individualistic ideals which we sometimes imagine we would like to develop—if society would only let us?

Perhaps, after all, our "second nature" is our best nature, the flower of our past experiences, the sublimated essence of that which once we were, but to which we would probably hesitate to return—even if "society" would offer us the opportunity to go back.

Do we, "in our hearts," really desire to act and speak and think differently from "the common herd"? Is it not a fact that most of us would sooner dare to wear a flaming red necktie at an Irish wake than to dare to even think in a different strain than that of our fellow-beings?

Not only do we act, speak and dress alike, generally speaking, but we think and feel alike—and perhaps it is best for each and all of us that this is so, especially during the happy Christmas season. The only pity of it is that the generous, joyous vibrations that compel us to recognize the glorious unity of humanity, at yuletide, are not continued, by voluntary individual contributions, throughout the year.

In spite of our pretended desire to live according to the dictates of our individualistic selfishness, there is not one of us who would not shrink from retracing our steps along the path over which the evolutionists and the psychoanalysts inform us that we have come.

And this is the one season of the year when every one of us would like our friends and enemies, too, if we have any, to see us as we are, instead of as we seem to be. And "in our hearts" we know that civilization is largely responsible for having made us what we are. And most of us know that we are better, finer, cleaner, more kindly than our best friends believe us to be—because, as a rule, we only reveal to the world that selfish, egotistical "individualism" which we are all too prone to boast of in private and to practice in public—to the detriment of ourselves and of those whom we come in contact with.

ANIMALS MAKE THE LIME

Granite is the lowest rock in the earth's crust. It is the bed rock of the world. It shows no evidence of animal or vegetable life. It is from two to ten times as thick as the united thickness of all the other rocks. It is the parent rock from which all other rocks have been either directly or indirectly derived.

It is true that granite does not contain lime, while limestone does contain that substance, but it furnishes the foundation for animal growth, and animal growth brings lime into existence. It is claimed by scientists that all the lime in the world has, at some time, no doubt, been a part of very many different animals and possibly of human beings also. — (Detroit News.

The Longest Row of Cotton

John L. Hunter, who owns a large farm near Growell, Tex., has just finished picking the longest row of cotton in the world. It has a length of seventy-five miles. To give it this extraordinary length the row was planted in circular form. He made the first big circular row around a 320-acre field, then wound it 'round and 'round until it came to the center. But Hunter found it difficult to get a farm hand to stay with the job.

"There's no place to stop," was their common complaint.—(Kansas City Star.

REMARKABLE FISH

Mr. Powell of Tavarea, Fla., wants his town put on the map, because of a fish they catch there called the bolinski. Mr. Powell writes: "This fish swims backward in order to keep the water out of its eyes. It chews tobacco and we catch them by hitting them over the head with a club when they come to the surface to spit." We think this account must be somewhat exaggerated, but we publish it for what it may be worth. —(Pathfinder.

THIS IS THE DAY

King George III succeeded to the throne of England in the year 1760. His plans for bleeding the colonies led to the final independence of the United States.

The treaty for the Gadsden purchase between the United States and Mexico was signed in the year 1853. It conceded to the United States a strip of land 500 miles long and at its widest 120 across, now forming part of Arizona and New Mexico. The purchase price was $10,000,000.

FATHER TIME'S CHILD DYING

Many Churches Planning Watch Night Programs; Pastors to Preach Appropriate Sermons

Killing time is one of the favorite sports of mortals but tomorrow night, as the clock strikes twelve, time will steal a march on his assassinators, for the Old Year will die a natural death and the glad New Year will stand triumphant in the van of coming days.

Amid the ringing of bells and the sounding of trumpets the year nineteen twenty-two will be lowered into the tomb of the past and the birth of nineteen twenty-three will be hailed with songs, sermons, rallies and love feasts by many church congregations of Los Angeles.

One of the biggest watch night services will be that to be conducted at Trinity Methodist Church, Twelfth and Flower streets, when the members of that church will unite with the congregations of Immanuel Presbyterian and the Westlake Presbyterian churches in a gigantic mass meeting. The musical feature of the evening will be camp meeting songs and plantation melodies, sung by a negro choir of sixty voices. The special speaker will be Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, who will preach on "What the New Year Shall Bring Forth." The hour before midnight will be spent in an old-fashioned love feast.

In the morning, at Trinity, Rev. Bob Shuler will preach on "Quitting the Past," his subject for the evening, preceding the watch night service, being "Tomorrow's World and Why." The Rev. Mr. Shuler announced yesterday his intention to discuss, in the evening sermon, the following questions: "Would Jesus Christ reinstate Arbuckle as the entertainer of American childhood?" and "Where must a Christian stand in a contest between cash and character?"

Dr. Dyer, Rabbi Trattner

A Jewish rabbi and a Christian minister will speak from the same pulpit at a religious service to be conducted tomorrow morning at the Ambassador Hotel Theater. Dr. Frank Dyer, pastor of the Wilshire Congregational Church, invited Rabbi Ernest Trattner, and his congregation of Temple Emmanuel to join in the morning service and the invitation was accepted gladly. The general theme of both speakers will be "Good-by to 1922—Hail to 1923." A watch night communion service will be conducted at the Wilshire Parish Center, 800 Plymouth Boulevard, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Significance of Dreams"

"The Ministers and the Motion Pictures" is the subject of an address to be given by the Rev. William MacCormack tomorrow evening at the Scottish Rite auditorium, headquarters of the congregation of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, pending the completion of their new home of worship. In his evening discourse Dr. MacCormack will explain why he declined to sign the telegram sent to Mr. Hays by many Los Angeles preachers. Dr. MacCormack will preach tomorrow morning on "The Significance of Dreams."

"Seven Deadly Sins"

Manly P. Hall will be the speaker tomorrow at the Church of the People, 932 South Grand avenue. He will speak in the morning on "The Elephant and the Wise Men" and in the evening on "Seven Deadly Sins." A social hour will follow the evening service and the watch night meeting will be featured by a musical program and an address by Mr. Hall. At the Lyceum, 9:30 a.m., Dr. A. E. Gibson will speak on "The All-Pervading." On Thursday at 8 p.m. Maud F. Galigher will address the health class on "What is It All About?"

"The Power Within"

A series of special services has been planned for tomorrow at the Wilshire Methodist Church, beginning at 11 a.m., when Dr. Benjamin Haywood will preach on "Postlude and Prelude of New Year." The watch night service will start at 7:30 p.m., and there will be an intermission of an hour, from 9 to 10 p.m. At 10 o'clock a six-reel picture entitled "The Power Within" will be shown. An impressive prayer and song service will be conducted between 11:30 p.m. and midnight.

Arbuckle and Beecher

In an address on "Love, the Key to Conquest," to be given by Dr. Henry Frank tomorrow morning at Music-Art Auditorium, Dr. Frank will discuss "The Case of Roscoe Arbuckle and of Henry Ward Beecher." The subject for evening is "Christendom Upholding the Christianity of Jesus or of Paul?"

"Money"

"My New Year Wishes for You" is the subject of a sermon to be preached at the Wilshire Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning by Dr. J. A. Eby. At the same hour Dr. Eby will continue his series of sermons to boys and girls on the theme, "Life's Commonest Things," the special topic for tomorrow being "Money." In the evening the annual Christmas musical program will be given.

"Closed Doors"

In preparation for a "Forward Campaign," soon to be launched by members of the Broadway Christian Church, Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of that church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject "Clearing the Deck." The subject for evening is "Closed Doors." After the evening discourse a social hour will be enjoyed, after which the choir will sing the cantata, "The Light of the World." The principal speakers at the watch night service will be Dean Arthur C. Braden of the California School of Christianity and C. R. Hudson, secretary of the Christian Missionary Society of Southern California.

"Cities of Refuge"

The fifth sermon in a series of discourses on "What I Believe and Why" will be preached by Dr. E. E. Helms tomorrow evening at Trinity Auditorium, headquarters of the First Methodist Church. The topic for tomorrow evening is "The Kind of Religion I believe In." At the morning hour the new officers of the Sunday-school will be installed and Dr. Helms will preach on "Cities of Refuge." A feature of the evening program will be the rendition by the choir of anthems from "The Messiah."

First Presbyterian

The passing of the old year will be hailed in sermon and song tomorrow evening at the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. Hugh K. Walker, the pastor, will preach on "The Salvaging of Our Hopes; Facing Backward and Facing Forward." Appropriate music will be rendered by the choir and the great chimes will herald the advent of the New Year. Tomorrow morning Dr. Walker will preach on "The Christmas Interpretation of Calvary."

"Days of Our Years"

"How Can Folks Be Kept from Living Like the Devil in 1923?" That is the subject of a sermon to be preached tomorrow evening by Dr. G. A. Briegleb at the Westlake Presbyterian Church. "There is a way by which true happiness can reign, and unless we find it, it will not be long before America will go the way of Rome and Babylon," said Dr. Briegleb. The topic for the morning sermon is "The Days of Our Years."

First Congregational

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Beach, representatives of the First Congregational Church at Foochow, China, are spending a few days in Los Angeles and will give a series of addresses at the church during the week. The program is as follows: Tuesday, men's meeting; Mr. Beach will speak on "Morals and Civilization of Old China;" Wednesday, cafeteria dinner; subject of address, "Prospects of a Good Government;" Tuesday, all-day meeting for women; addresses will be made by Mr. and Mrs. Beach; Friday, reception for Mrs Beach at the home of Mrs. A. M. White, 1734 Buckingham Road; Saturday, in the morning, Mr. Beach will speak at the church on "China and Moral Balance-wheel of the World."

Divine Power Church

The psychological law of New Year resolutions will be discussed tomorrow morning at the Morosco Theater, headquarters for the Church of Divine Power, when Mrs. Leila Simon Castberg will speak on the subject "The Day of New Beginnings." Sunday school classes will be conducted at 10 a.m. in the balcony of the theater. A song service will begin at 10:40 a.m.

To Discuss Hays

"It has been said that Hays has disgraced the Presbyterian church and that he should be removed from the office of ruling elder because of his reinstatement of Arbuckle. There are differences of opinion on this subject, which I will discuss in my sermon next Sunday evening." These statements were made yesterday by Mr. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church. Dr. Smith also will take up the matter of faith healing in his evening sermon. The Christmas musical programs will be repeated at both services tomorrow.

"Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow"

Dr. James A. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." In the evening he will be assisted in the services by Rev. J. M. Baker of India, who will speak on "The New India and Its Leaders." Baptism will be observed at the morning hour. At 6 p.m. the young people will be given a New Year program.

Dr. Hubbard to Speak

In the absence of Dr. R. A. Torrey, pastor of the Church of the Open Door, Dr. John A. Hubbard, superintendent of men at the Bible Institute, will fill the pulpit of that church tomorrow morning. Dr. Hubbard's subject will be "How to Have a Happy New Year." In the evening the speaker will be Dr. Ralph Atkinson who will preach on "The Inevitable 'How' of 1922 and 1923."

"The Law of Love"

"We Americans have a tendency to crowd our statute books. We need more of that love which is the fulfillment of all laws." That is the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. W. E. McCulloch, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, who will preach tomorrow morning on "The Supreme Law of Love." The subject for evening will be "New Year Resolutions."

Rose Pageant Plans Are Completed; City Awaits New Year's Day

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 29. — Thousands of flags and banners decorate the main streets of Pasadena in readiness for the New Year festivities. The colors are those of Penn State and University of Southern California, who meet in the annual East-West football game in the Rose Bowl. The colors of Penn State are navy blue and white; those of U.S.C. are cardinal red and gold.

"Every possible preparation has been made to make the 1923 Rose Pageant a success," said Grand Marshal Gianetti, who will lead the parade. "Nothing much remains to be done except to line up the floats on New Year's morning. I anticipate that the pageant will surpass all previous records in beauty, size and impressiveness."

The parade will start promptly at 10:45 a.m. It will pass through the main streets of Pasadena, disbanding at Tournament Park. No other entertainment will be given this year except the parade and football game.

Motorist Held to Answer for Death of Child

For trying to "steal the right of way" from another motorist, C. E. McCauley was held to answer a charge of manslaughter yesterday by Police Judge Forbes. Following a collision at the intersection of Eleventh street and Central avenue on the 16th inst. McCauley's car ran across the curb and struck a baby carriage containing Ena Irene Smith, aged 2 years, and another child, it was asserted. The Smith baby was injured fatally.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burton prosecuted the charge against McCauley.

PROCEEDS OF THEFT FOUND

Echoes of the robbery of the Fillmore State Bank at Piru, for which Jenks Harris, ex-film actor, and others were arrested recently, were heard yesterday when Dep. Sheriffs Swesey and Allen returned to the bank $2000 in cash and to the American Railway Express Company $4000 in money orders, part of the proceeds of the robbery.

The cash and money orders were found in Harris's possession, part in his rooms and part concealed in a garage.

ALIENS MADE CITIZENS

Fifteen aliens were granted American citizenship yesterday by U. S. District Judge Tripper. The nationalities were divided as follows: Natives of Great Britain, seven, and one each from Russia, Sweden, Jugo-Slavia, Italy, Finland, Austria, Germany and Poland.

"Please extend my good wishes for a happy New Year to all the customers and friends of the past, thanking them for their patronage, which we hope will continue, and say that an even greater effort to serve them in every way will be made during the coming twelve months." This letter, sent in yesterday by Mr. Vignolo, 177 No. Spring, closed with the postscript that imported Champagne and Cordials (nonalcoholic) could be bought from him for the punch which we serve when ringing the old year out and the new year in, tomorrow.

Taking your own lunch of home-cooked food, which the Sun-Dial Food Shop, 3915 W. 6th street, will prepare for you—is a splendid suggestion if you are planning to attend the Rose Tournament and football game, because huge crowds and small facilities make it next to impossible to get anything to eat. On the way back stop again at the Sun Dial for delicious hot food to take home for the evening dinner. Rest call 587149 NOW and give your order.

If you have friends or relatives who have just come out to California to live or for a short visit take them the first thing to Mora's Grill, 107 W. Market (old Temple Block,) one-half block south of postoffice, there to enjoy to the fullest a real Italian dinner served in numerous courses and of a deliciousness which they defy you to duplicate any place for the $2 they charge.

Ask your dealer for Frederick O'Brien "Wedgewood" White Enamel, flat white paint and varnish when having the kitchen, bathrooms and furniture "rejuvenated." You will be delighted over the results achieved, for these truly excellent paints, enamels and varnishes are extremely reasonable in price and also of highest quality.

If the rooms become filled with cooking odors, a few drops of oil of lavender, placed in a cup of boiling water, will remove all traces.

No need is there for racking one's brain for an idea of what to serve for dessert at any time. Never need you become disturbed, over such a trivial worry. Hughes ice cream never fails to please because it is made in so many flavors and in a large variety of combinations. Watch for the yellow and white sign, a guidepost to Hughes dealers, you know. Now, with tourists and winter visitors flocking into Los Angeles the real facts about the extreme delicious richness of Hughes is a news item to those who are eager to be told the ice cream to buy.

Paper your walls so that they make a quiet background for your pictures and furniture.

If you never had a box of Betty Bolton chocolates, or caramels, not even a teeney weeney taste, you must not put off getting a pound this very day. Good? Well, rather! Pure, thick cream, finest butter, best crystal sugar are just a few reason "why" they excel.

All those years (doubtless) your silver has been an "eyesore" because of being badly in need of replating. Make a resolution today a bit in advance of New Year's to bundle up all the articles, including flat silver, and take them to A. E. Greengard's, 219½ So. Spring (upstairs.) You will never recognize them when finished! Better than new will they be and look like a million dollars!

Coffee was brought in; its enticing odor everyone was aware of, and when the golden liquid was served, of course, some one, unable to suppress his curiosity, said: "Please tell me who sells this wonderful coffee?" Everyone was surprised to hear it came from Long, the Coffee Man, 324 S. Bdwy., cost but 35c a lb., and is roasted fresh daily.

Los Angeles water, because of its hardness, and the oxides, carbonates, sulphates, chlorides, and silica, it contains, needs Cloudy (not ordinary) Ammonia badly to overcome the properties in it that are not good cleansing agents. As it takes only a small quantity of Robrick's Cloudy Ammonia to do the work, a quart bottle from your grocer will last a long time.

There is nothing better than old underwear or stockings for a mop. They may be made dustless (to be used on the floors but not to be used in water) by wringing them from melted paraffine or from a quart of kerosene in which a little linseed oil has been mixed.

Of course, you couldn't keep the house in order much less clean during the past few weeks. Indeed most of us have neglected our homes for months waiting until after the holidays to call in expert men, meaning the Acme Cleaners—who can clean your house regardless of the size, "From Garret to Cellar in one day." Pico 1680 is the phone number.

Most people are satisfied with just "one" good reason for using a particular produce, we'll say. Now, when quantities of the advantages "Frozen Steam" possesses over common ice are calculated, there is no resisting the urge to become customers of the exclusive manufacturers, namely, the Merchants' Ice and Cold Storage Co., who are the only ones possessing the secret of the process by which this wonderful refrigerant is made. Had you known before that "Frozen Steam" is free from heat conductors, namely, mineral, animal and vegetable matter? Being removed, it is difficult for heat to penetrate, thus preventing the rise in temperature observed in ordinary ice—with consequent loss in weight and, naturally, depreciation in value. Wait until you have used "Frozen Steam" one week, say, then all the statements regarding its superiority will be noted and oh, how pleased you are going to be with the results obtained!

The high regard everyone has for the Elite may be judged by this part of conversation overheard when just abreast of two girls, evidently home from college for the holidays. Said one: "Aren't you famishing for a cup of tea and a bite to eat, Colette? Name the place, and I'll make you my guest." The answer was no surprise, and instant "Yes, Cherio, then for the Elite Ma Ange! Such tea, buns and pastries as you dream about." Have you stopped in for tiffin lately? If you haven't, 641 So. Flower, you know.

Among the "amptime" resolutions you will be making here is one best thing resolve to do. Have your quilt renovated and relined by the Western Feather and Down Works, 1307 W. Washington St., whose exceptionally efficient services should be secured by every woman whose coverlets, mattresses or pillows need replacing or renovating. (23253.)

With a large house, big family, and indifferent help, it is most a physical impossibility to have the laundry work done at home. Few homes have the proper facilities and when the rains come, drying clothes is a terrible bore. Why suffer these annoyances?—Why be bothered by such unnecessary trials when such a splendid, reliable, satisfactory laundry as the "Crown" can wash your clothes for less money, do them better, return them in perfect condition, sweet, fresh and beautifully ironed and all you are required to do is have the bundle ready for them on the day which best suits your convenience. Why, such service is most worthy of reward and you will be evincing true common sense when you become a customer of the Crown, beginning next week. Starting the year right, we'll say.

The deficiencies in your home furnishings should be considered now that "Santa's" checks have been received with the advice "To buy what you need badly and want most." Anticipating your desires, W. S. Heaton, in his new larger quarters, 1023 So. Figueroa, right next door to where he was, offers charming Gate-leg tables, strong and well-built and those of the more sturdy type, the combination library table most useful and ornamental, you know, at $24 to $50. Then additional good buys are the Davenport tables which nowhere else can be bought at Mr. Heaton's prices, $28 to $52.50.

Give "real" values and a woman will quickly show her appreciation with staunch patronage. Consequently, Mr. W. S. Heaton's clientele has increased so fast, due to the splendid prices given that he must needs move next door, 1023 So. Figueroa, to larger quarters, where he will welcome all the old friends after today.

Cauliflower is delicious served with mayonnaise dressing.

The New Year approaches although the Christmas candles of Peace and Good Will which have shed their beatific beams upon us all—are still glowing brightly, should you not resolve to do throughout the coming year, all the acts of omission committed during the last twelve months?

Take for instance the water you drink—the best is none too good for you and yours.

Those precious shall tots whose lives are intrusted to your care, whose health is more important than any thing else—should you not take every precaution to guard them against impure water, germs, which are bound to flow through the faucet of the ordinary home?

If your knew how refreshing, how thrist quenching, satisfying and health sustaining Arrowhead pure Mountain Springs water is, not for a second would you hesitate to phone or write, (if living out of the city)—for the immediate delivery of a demijohn. The cost is so insignificant that no one can feel drinking all the Arrowhead they crave an expense.

Do say— and mean it—that you will resolve to begin the use of this famous water, Arrowhead, which is ordered by calling South 331.

"You haven't time to make jams and Orange Marmalade?" Well that fact needn't distress you for "Glen Rosa" is considered better than "home-made" because only the finest fruits are allowed to be used, best sugar as well and undivided attention is given to the making with the result that women everywhere are lavish in their praise of Glen Rosa and when ordering refuse to accept any other brand.

Some of the most interesting and noteworthy features of a "Tricolator" are as follows: made of china, something unheard of before in percolators, brews a most delicious beverage with less than half the coffee required heretofore, and is doubly economical because coffee made in one keeps ever so long, never looses its strength or becomes flat in taste. The Clee Koe Coffee Co., 316 W. Fifth are selling them at the special price of $3.50 complete.

With the frocks of the moment such simple things to fashion and patterns made as easy to follow as a child's game, every woman should own a White sewing machine, for in a very few months it would pay for itself. Indeed the difference in cost between buying the little dress at an exhorbitant price in the exclusive shop and making the same simple creation in a jiffy on your "White" would, in itself, astond you. Have you every been told about the many superior advantages the White possesses, if not, go into the showroom at 917 S. Broadway today. Really you will be quite impressed and the chances are you will realize that to leave without ordering one would be showing a lack of good judgment on your part.

Do you realize that Dad's favorite cookies are beneficial. Less than a week after you have begun to eat them, see if you aren't feeling "day by day in every way" a 100 per cent better. If your grocer hasn't them be sure and phone West 4434 and ask the name of the nearest store selling them.

Every woman with home-cooking problems should speak to a woman who began to use McDonald's Roof Garden Chocolate about a year ago.

Her enthusiasm over this chocolate actually grows instead of diminishing, and she can find more ways of saving time by the use of the powered kind than anyone else, it seems.

Certainly all women should give it a trial, because there is a something different in the taste—a greater richness and milk-chocolate flavor, which truly endears it to those who are seeking the best to serve for drinking, cooking or eating.

Strips of adhesive plaster are sometimes used for labels on cans and bottles.

Whatever in the world would we do without milk! You really couldn't keep house without it—that is to say, you couldn't cook with any degree of skill. Now, as long as there is such an urgent need for milk, let's have the best. A dear little neighbor of mine has been a constant customer of the L. A. Creamery's ever since the company started in business and the health of her family speaks much for this well-known dairy, for she so often laughingly refers to the children as her "milk-fed brood." Indeed, their fondness for milk has made them a sort of walking testimonial for the L. A. Creamery.

New residents will do well to become customers during 1923.

Eight pounds of cranberries and two and a half pounds of sugar make ten tumblers of beautiful, clear jelly.

Will it be a goose for New Year's dinner? Best not run the risk of getting a poor one, for goose is like the proverbial little girl—"When she is good, she is very, very good, but when she's bad she is horrid." Therefore, be reminded that a goose from Young's is certain to be juicy and tender and when cooked will even strengthen your New Year's resolution "to order and buy all your meats throughout the coming year at Young's." You'll never regret that promise!

Singing birds seem to be as much a part of California homes as the furniture. Their tiny songs do much to create a spirit of happiness and good-will toward all.

A lady who has recently returned from India with a large number of those exquisite cashmere "ring" shawls so fashionable at the moment. Perishable they look, because most of them are white, a few possessing narrow borders of softest colors. Naturally one would suppose these fragile-looking wraps would require dry cleaning, but it was a surprise to hear that they are washed with pure soap and water. White King Washing Machine soap in the granule form if you please. "It's better than any soap we had in Bombay and my shawls are much more beautiful since being washed with White King," this little friend tells me. Here is the way you wash cashmere: make your suds of lukewarm water and White King Washing Machine Soap (in granule form.) Submerge the article to be washed, never rub it, just press it through the suds. Take out and rinse in clean, soapy water, using less soap, however, never rinse in clear water, remember, else all the softness will be lost and your shawl feels harsh. White King Washing Machine Soap has acquired new laurels and soon will be in many homes in far-off India when this new booster returns to her distant home.

INCREASE IN WORKERS IN CITY SHOWN

Employment in Los Angeles 13.7 Per Cent Greater Than It Was Year Ago

Employment in Los Angeles has increased 13.7 per cent since November, 1921, according to a report issued yesterday by Walter G. Mathewson, director of the United States Employment Service for the State of California.

"The 103 firms reporting for Los Angeles," states the report, "show 2606 more workers than for Nov. 30, 1921. For the two month period from September 30 to November 30, the same firms show an increase of 577 workers."

Employment in the State as a whole has increased 12 per cent in the year, with Oakland's percentage of 36 per cent increase leading all other cities in the State. According to scattering but representative returns from municipalities and agricultural districts there were 100,266 workers in thirty-seven industries in November, 1922, as against 86,804 in November, 1921. The chemical industry, including oil refining, showed the greatest number of the new men employed, while metal, lumber and timber enterprises followed in the order named.

An increase of 50 per cent was reported by the canning industry, but this is excluded from the final percentages because of its seasonal nature.

Blank Loaded Pistol Used in Cafe Robbery

—Using a revolver loaded with blank cartridges, a bandit last night held up a restaurant at 8095 Sunset Boulevard, in which were a dozen diners, and robbed Mrs. Hilda Goodager, proprietor, of $500 in cash and checks.

As he left the bandit fired one shot, and discharged three more on the sidewalk outside the restaurant. Detectives Hartmeyer and Page, who investigated, were unable to find any bullet marks, and concluded that the bandit had used blank cartridges.

Walking calmly into the restaurant, the bandit ordered Mrs. Goodager to hold up her hands. One of the women diners became hysterical, and pointing his revolver at her, the bandit ordered her to keep quiet.

When he had rifled the cash register, the man raised his revolver and discharged it. Then he ran quickly to an automobile waiting at the curb. As the car started, the bandit leaned from it and fired three shots.

Emulate Ruth, Court Advises, Giving Divorce

Martha Widener was given a divorce and some advice by Judge Summerfield in the Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Widener charged her husband, Barthold Widener, with desertion and failure to provide. She testified that her husband packed up and left her, refusing to tell her where he was going. The court asked Mrs. Widener whether she asked to accompany him. She replied in the negative.

Judge Summerfield then gave the advice: "If your husband is about to desert you," he said, "say to him, like Ruth said to Naomi, 'Whither thou goest, I will go.'"

PUCK CHILDREN GO TO MOTHER

The long fight of Mrs. Aloysia Evan Puck for the custody of her two children was successful yesterday when Judge C. R. Magney filed a decision in the Duluth District Court ordering that the children be returned to their mother in Los Angeles.

The children, Nancy Georgia, aged 12, and Anthony, aged 9 years, have been with their grandmother, Mrs. Marie Puck, since May, 1921. When Anthony Puck, a Duluth architect, who died recently, became seriously ill, the mother sent the children from Los Angeles to visit him. The Pucks had been separated since 1919, when Mrs. Puck instituted divorce proceedings.

Habeas corpus proceedings to force the grandmother to return the children were started on the 1st inst., and since then the grandmother has been endeavoring to convince the court that the mother would not be a fit custodian. However, no charges of cruelty could be brought, and it was testified that the mother was not lacking in love for the children.

The mother lives at 433 East Adams street, Los Angeles.

WAREHOUSE DEDICATED

Barker Brothers Have Banquet For Employees

Coming at the end of a successful year was the formal dedication last night of the new Barker Brothers' warehouse annex at Palmetto and Molino streets.

The new building, which is to be used in connection with the present warehouse, is four stories high and increases by 85,000 square feet the available floor space for storage and carpet workrooms.

Employees from both the retail store and warehouse division of Barker Brothers were present at a reception and dance in honor of the dedication.

The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the firm.

"I am of Athens," proudly declared the favored citizen of ancient Greece. "I am of Los Angeles," is the counterpart expression of today. Why? Read the Midwinter Number of The Times, out January 1.

NEW YEAR BUFFET

G. W. R., city, wants suggestions for the arrangement of her table for New Year's Day. She expects to serve fifty between 10 o'clock in the morning and 4 in the afternoon.

Make a table thirty-six inches high, seventy-two inches long and thirty-six inches wide with wooden horses and three six-foot boards. Cover with a blanket, over the blanket place a strip of oilcloth and cover all with a white table cloth. On the right-hand end place a punch bowl and glasses, next bread and butter sandwiches, a baked ham and a dozen six-inch plates, dozen dessert forks, cold baked turkey, large chicken salad and more plates and forks; have a platter of assorted sandwiches, and on the end place small cakes, coffee urn and cups. Decorate the table with cut glass bowls filled with apples, oranges, nuts and raisins.

FRUIT PUNCH

J. D., Glendale, requests a recipe for a fruit punch to serve New Year's eve. Press or stick half a cup of whole cloves into six lemons like pins in a cushion and let stand for an hour. Place in a bowl one cupful of sugar and grate on to it the rind of the lemons; add four tablespoons of honey, level teaspoon of ground cinnamon, cup of orange juice, juice of the six lemons and two cups of seedless raisins. Place in an ice box for two hours. Strain into a punch bowl over a square of ice, add a dozen sprays of fresh mint and two quarts of ginger ale.

NUT MACAROONS

H. B., City, asks that we publish a recipe for nut macaroons. Beat the white of an egg with two tablespoons of cold water and with a fork work in enough sugar to make a stiff dough. Work in one cup of chopped walnut meats and mould into small even-sized balls. Place two inches apart on a buttered pan and bake in quick oven.

COMBINATION DATE SALAD

E. A. C., Monrovia, wants to know how to make a salad with dates. Peel and cut in thin slives one bunch of white celery and add to it half a pound of seeded and sliced dates and one and a half cup of walnut meats; salt slightly, add the pulp of three grapefruit and a wetting of lemon French dressing. Arrange on lettuce-covered plates and garnish with a tablespoon of cream mayonnaise dressing.

SHRIMP GLIDE

D. L., City, was served with dish of shrimps and green peas at one of the Washington tea rooms and asks that we give her the recipe for making. Place in a double-boiler two tablespoons of butter, melt and stir into it two tablespoons of flour. When well blended add one cup of rich milk, a seasoning of salt and paprika, and one teaspoon of lemon juice. Beat with a wire whip until foamy, then add one and a half cups of cleaned shrimps. Cover and cook four minutes. Stir in half a cup of small, cooked green peas and heat. Serve on squares of buttered toast.

CHICKEN CHILI

W. F. H., Alhambra, wants to know how to prepare chicken chili. Clean and cut two young chickens as for fricassee, cover with hot water and stew until almost done; add one tablespoon of finely-chopped parsley and two chopped onions. Remove the seed from half a pound of dried chili peppers and cover with boiling water; let steam fifteen minutes, drain off the water and rub peppers through a sieve. Add to the stewed chicken and cook thirty minutes. Stir in three tablespoons of butter, a seasoning of salt, and one tablespoon of cornstarch wet with cold water. Let boil and serve in a border of boiled rice.

SPINACH AND EGG SALAD

H. R., city, asks if we will give recipes for spinach and egg salad and a salad made with cottage cheese and cabbage.

For the spinach and egg salad wash and cook four quarts of spinach until tender. Drain dry and chop fine. Stir into it a seasoning of salt and paprika, one tablespoon of lemon juice and one tablespoon of olive oil. Brush eight timbale molds with butter and in the bottom of each place a slice of hard-boiled egg; fill molds with the prepared spinach and set on ice until thoroughly chilled. Unmold on plates covered with equal amounts of water cress and shredded lettuce mixed with a lemon French dressing. Garnish with hard-boiled eggs pressed through a sieve.

WINTON SALAD

Cabbage and cottage cheese salad as made at the Hotel Winton in Cleveland is very popular and is made by mixing two cups of finely chopped white cabbage leaves with one cup of chopped celery, one and a half cups of peeled and chopped apples, three chopped pimentos, two chopped sweet green peppers, three cups of cottage cheese and half a cup of French dressing. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce-covered plates. Cover with a good mayonnaise dressing.

BAKED SUCKLING PIG

J. R., Huntington Park, will serve suckling pig New Year's Eve and asks for directions for preparing it.

The pig should be cleaned and dressed the day it is to be served. Wipe the pig dry inside and out, and stuff with a forcemeat made by mixing four cups of grated bread crumbs with half a pound of finely chopped suet, one tablespoon of finely chopped parsley, one tablespoon of powdered sage, seasoning of salt and black pepper, the beaten yolks of two eggs and two tablespoons of milk. Sew up the pig and place in a baking pan on the bottom of which has been spread one sliced carrot, one chopped onion, one bay leaf, and three stalks of celery. Brush it well on every part with the beaten white of egg. Place in a moderate oven and bake ninety minutes for a three weeks' old pig. If the pig is brushed with egg white it will require no basting and the skin will be crisp.

Add to the drippings two cups of stock, bring to a boil, add the juice of half a lemon and two teaspoons of a good table sauce. Strain and serve in a sauce boat.

MOCK CHERRY PIE

D. S. S., South Pasadena, asks for a recipe for a pie made with raisins and cranberries. This is called a mock cherry pie, and is made by cutting in halves two cups of washed sound cranberries. After cutting place the cranberries in a collander and run cold water through them to remove the seeds. Mix one cup of seedless raisins with three tablespoons of flour, a pinch of salt, and one cup of sugar. Add the well-drained cranberries and place the mixture in a pastry-lined pie pan, cover with pastry, place in a medium-hot oven and bake forty minutes.

Beat to a smooth batter and bake in buttered muffin pans twenty-five minutes in a medium oven.

BEEF ROLLS

F. G. E., Long Beach, wants to know how to prepare stuffed beef rolls. Have the butcher cut one and a half pounds of round steak in very thin slices. Cut the steak in four-inch squares. Mix four tablespoons of washed rice with a pinch of ground cloves, one tablespoon of poultry seasoning, one and a half tablespoons of finely chopped onion, and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Place a tablespoon of the mixture in the center of each beef square, roll up and tie in shape with white string. Heat four tablespoons of beef drippings in a saute pan and brown the rolls in it. Stir in three tablespoons of flour and brown; add three cups of water, bring to a boil, cover and let simmer for one and a half hours. Place rolls on a hot platter and around the edge place a border of boiled rice. Pour over all the sauce and sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

Bake in moderate oven thirty minutes, or until set. Cool before serving.

SUPREME SAUCE

A. N. F., city, asks us to give a sauce for boiled chicken. Place two tablespoons of butter and four level tablespoo of flour in a saucepan, stir until well blended; then stir in gradually two cups of the stock that the chicken was boiled in. Boil up, add one small onion stuck with one whole clove, half a bay leaf, and let simmer gently for fifteen minutes. Skim well and add, one tablespoon at a time, six tablespoons of butter, the slightly beaten yolk of one egg, and the juice of half a lemon. Beat well and strain through sieve.

COLD CAPER SAUCE

O. E. M., city, would like a recipe for a cold caper sauce to be served with jellied chicken. Rub a cold bowl with a clove of garlic, remove the garlic after pressing out all of its juice and place in the bowl the yolks of two eggs, one teaspoon of tarragon vinegar, and one teaspoon of dry mustard; stir smooth and add half a cup of olive oil and three tablespoons of cider vinegar, a little at a time, and stir until thick and smooth. Add one teaspoon of sugar, one-third of a teaspoon of paprika, one teaspoon of salt and two tablespoons of chopped capers.

CHOCOLATE PIE

R. S., Bakersfield, has had bad luck with her chocolate pies, and asks us to give her a recipe. Beat into two eggs two cups of sugar, four tablespoons of creamed butter, one cup of grated chocolate and one cup of cream. Place the mixture in a double boiler and stir over a slow fire until thick and smooth. Remove from the fire and stir in four tablespoons of butter, one tablespoon at a time. Pour into a baked pie shell, cover with meringue and brown in a slow oven.

PHILADELPHIA SCRAPPLE

F. K. L., Long Beach, asks if we can give the recipe for genuine Philadelphia scrapple. We have given this recipe before, but as it was given more than a year ago we will repeat it. Have the butcher clean and cut in quarters a young pig's head. Remove brains any eyes. Place in a kettle, cover with boiling water and cook until the meat leaves the bones. Let stand until cold. Remove the grease. Remove all bones from the meat and chop the meat into small pieces. Strain the liquor and add the meat. Bring to a boil and stir in corn meal gradually, until it makes a good thick mush. Season with black pepper, salt and powdered sage. Place the mixture in greased bread pans and stand in a cold place twenty-four hours. To cook cut in slices, roll in corn meal and fry in hot fat. Serve hot with slices of fried apples.

FRUIT CANDIES

E. S. M., Fresno, requests that we give her recipes for fruit candies. There are two very good candies made with California dried figs and nuts that are better and more wholesome for children than rich chocolates. They are California nuggets and California fig rolls.

CALIFORNIA NUGGETS

Put through the fine knife of the meat chopper one cup of dried figs, one cup of seeded raisins, half a cup of walnut meats and half a cup of blanched almonds. Mix well and roll in balls, and roll balls in powdered sugar, or dip in melted chocolate.

CALIFORNIA FIG ROLLS

Butter a square layer cake tin and spread over the bottom in an even layer one and a half cups of finely chopped walnut meats. Place in a saucepan one cup of brown sugar, four tablespoons of water, and four tablespoons of corn syrup, bring to a boil until it will form a soft ball when a little is dropped in cold water. Pour over the finely chopped walnut meats. Remove the stems from three-quarters of a pound of dried figs and put through the fine knife of the meat chopper; roll the fig meat in a cylinder one and a half inches in diameter. When the syrup on the walnut meats starts to set, roll the fig roll on it so as to thoroughly cover all over. Set on waxed paper to harden. Cut in slices with a wet knife.

How to test your drinking water--
Prof. Gilbert Ellis Bailey Ph.D.
University of Southern California

FOUR THOUSAND YEARS AGO

The Chinese found that by a very simple alum test, the purity of their drinking water could be determined. A small quantity of alum added to the water should show an immediate and interesting reaction. If the water is an unusually hard water, a milky cloud will instantly form in the water and a white precipitate fall to the bottom of the vessel. If the water is soft and contains a small quantity of mineral, a slight milky cloud will form. If the water is distilled, the alum will remain inert, no reaction of any kind taking place. This test is simple and interesting—try it!

Those waters which are slightly alkaline and carry the salts which are the normal constituents of the blood are the most beneficial. The blood is alkaline normally and contains ten grains per gallon of mineralsArrowhead Indian Spring Water is alkaline and contains from nine to eleven grains of minerals per gallon. Drop a crystal of alum into a glass of Arrowhead Water and a slight milky cloud will form, showing the presence of these alkaline salts. These are the salts that maintain the alkalinity of the blood. If the blood becomes acid, disease is sure to follow.

Distilled water can instantly be detected by the use of alum. If no milky cloud forms when alum is added, the water has undoubtedly been distilled. Distilled water contains no mineral whatsoever.

Arrowhead Springs Company manufactures a pure distilled water (Beverly Club Water) and recommends that it be used under the direction of a physician. Distilled water should only be used as a medicine. Beverly Club Water is NOT a by-product of ice, but is distilled specially for drinking and medicinal use.

Extremely hard waters react readily to alum and show a very heavy cloud, large quantities of mineral being precipitated to the bottom of the vessel within a few minutes after the alum is added. Extremely hard waters should be avoided, as they contain mineral salts in greater abundance than the mineral salts contained in the blood.

The United States Dispensatory recommends for daily use for drinking water, a soft, alkaline spring water issuing from a strata where the prevailing rock formation is granite. Arrowhead Indian Spring Water is just such a water. The Spring is surrounded by 1800 acres of Arrowhead property and is absolutely protected from contamination by over one million acres of U. S. Angeles Forest Reserve. No water in the city is as free from bacteria, so well protected against pollution, so pure, attractive, sparkling and wholesome. The water is placed in sterilized bottles, carefully sealed, and when delivered to you carries a positive guarantee of purity.

For general drinking purposes, use Arrowhead Indian Spring Water; for medicinal use order Beverly Club Distilled Water.

AID ASKED FOR WORTHY POOR

Salvation Army in Need of Funds for Charities

Many Cases of Destitution Need Attention

Distribution of milk among the undernourished children of the poor in Los Angeles is one of the most important phases of the rehabilitation campaign which the Salvation Army of this city is conducting. It is a work that requires the year-around attention of the army and the drain on funds provided for relief measures is heavy, but the results achieved, according to Brig. C. R. Boyd, head of the army here, are so far-reaching and effective that they have won the commendation of all workers in the interest of social welfare.

Support of the rehabilitation campaign started by Brig. Boyd is coming from representatives of all phases of life within the city. Many persons have been impressed with the daily recital of authentic cases of destitution as reported by Brig. Boyd through the columns of The Times and their donations have gone into the fund which will be used exclusively for rehabilitation purposes. At least $5000 is needed to care for the cases now listed, and those desiring to contribute may reach Brig. Boyd at Salvation Army headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

MANY NEED AID

New cases in which immediate assistance is needed to reclaim families, victims of misfortune through no fault of their own, are described by army officials as follows:

Case No. 42 concerns three venerable sisters who have a trying time attempting to convince folks that they are still able to work. About all the sisters can do is earn enough money to pay the rent. They have been assisted by the army for several weeks.

Case No. 43 concerns a family of five, the head of which is in jail in a neighboring county. The mother has been using a business education to earn food and shelter for her three children but with cares of the household has been unable to work enough to earn all that is needed and the relief department of the Salvation Army has had to furnish considerable aid.

Case No. 44 concerns a feeble little lady, whose greatest fault is age. She peddles odds and ends, but is forced to accept rent money from friends and groceries and other articles from the Salvation Army, which found her struggling for existence more than a year ago.

YOUNG FATHER HELPLESS

Case No. 45 concerns a man 33 years old who has a wife and a 5-year-old child. The young man's back has been broken. He has a keen mind and is of a scholarly nature, but is held back through lack of funds with which to obtain instruction. He needs an instructor, a typewriter, books, tools and chemical and mechanical apparatus.

Case No. 47 concerns a family of four children, in age from 6 months to 6 years, a mother and father. The mother has tuberculosis and abdominal disease. Surgical skill might save her life, but she cannot have an operation performed in the present condition of the household. The father, a laborer, earns only enough to inadequately care for his children.

SURVEY OF CHANGES IS COMPLETED

Proposed Alterations at Federal Building Will Relieve Congestion

A survey of the proposed changes in the interior of the Federal building was completed yesterday by Supervising Architect Newman, representing the United States Treasury Department.

The changes are made necessary by the appointment of an additional United States District Judge, soon to be announced. The new courtroom and judge's chambers will occupy the space on the fourth floor now used by U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke, who will remove to a suite on the fifth floor.

The alterations will be started on February 1, the sum of $20,000 having been made available for the purpose. At the same time, the recently-vacated second floor will be fitted for the Internal Revenue offices, now located in various parts of the building.

Space for the Federal offices has become congested in the past few years, and the changes necessary for the accommodation make the crowded conditions more apparent. A small room formerly used as a witness room is no longer available and Judges Bledsoe and Trippet have been compelled to order benches placed in the hall for the accommodation of the crowds who attend trials.

JAP COLONY ON WAY TO MEXICO

tural enterprises on a large scale and employ Mexican labor, just as the American and European ranchmen do. In fact, the Japanese farmers in California today employ relatively few of their own countrymen as laborers, using Mexicans, negroes, Hindus and Syrians.

The last Federal census shows that in 1920 in California there were 5152 farms under Japanese management, with a total acreage of 361,276. The census figures on population are inaccurate because of the great difficulties confronted in polling the Japanese, but it is admitted generally that there are some 100,000 of them in California and Arizona. In the latter State, however, few are farm operators.

LEASES ALL END

Under the provisions of the California law all land leases held by Japanese expire on Jan. 1, 1923. Heretofore, they had been permitted to lease for periods of three years, but all pending leases were cut short by the California statute.

There is no precedent of the present Mexican government to indicate what the attitude will be toward a Japanese colony on such a colossal scale. Japan recently sent an ambassador to Mexico City, and the relations between the two governments will permit formal discussion of the matter.

The States of Sinaloa and Nayarit are in the military zone commanded by Gen. Angel Flores, who is responsible for the irrigation project around Culiacan, and other public works. It is probable that the attitude of Gen. Flores in the matter will bear much weight with President Obregon, unless some definite policy has been established by the Federal government toward colonization by orientals. The expulsion of the Chinese from Sonora and Sinaloa was largely due to a local outcry but was accomplished with the aid of the Federal government upon the recommendations of the governors of those States.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks because of the Lubitsch matter the situation was quite the reverse.

Sunday Alan M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, who arrives here tonight, is to be filmed with Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. Later with them he will make an inspection of the Santa Monica Boulevard studio, at which the Pickford-Fairbanks pictures are made.

Work on the script of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" is nearing completion, it is stated. The construction of the sets to be used in filming the photoplay will be begun shortly after the first of the year. The actual filming is scheduled to commence about the middle of next month, it has been learned.

At the Ambassador last night, through the medium of an interpreter, Mr. Lubitsch stated that during the war he was on the stage in Berlin and that he never was a member of any branch of the German military forces.

OWSLEY TO ACT IN FILM SKETCH

banks will head the Hollywood Citizens' Welcoming Committee and will appear at the stadium in person. Mayor Cryer will do honors for Los Angeles. The Legion's welcome will be extended in a speech by Harold D. Ferguson, past commander of Hollywood Post, and will be replied to by Commander Owsley. Following this there will be a concert by Hollywood Post Band.

WILL TOUR CITY

The auto tour will be in charge of Harry C. Huntington, executive committeeman of Sunshine Post, and will carry the visiting Commander and his party to points of interest throughout the city.

Morgan Keaton, department of California adjutant, will arrive from state headquarters in San Francisco this morning and will accompany Commander Owsley during his visit as well as on his tour through the State.

What Los Angeles industry had a pay roll of $30,000,000 this year? The Midwinter Number of The Times, out January 1, tells this and many other important things.

COUNTY CLERK CUPID AIDE

Official Smooths Path of Prospective Brides and Grooms With License Information

A new marriage license will be issued by County Clerk Lampton beginning next Tuesday. It differs from the present combined license and certificate in that it is printed instead of engraved and is smaller than its predecessor. There is no legal authority for the return of the license and certificate to the wedded couple and for that reason after the license has been recorded in the Recorder's office, it will be filed and retained by the Recorder, thereby avoiding the expense of copying it.

Attached, however, to the license and original certificate is a copy of the certificate of the same size in script, handsomely engraved and bordered. This will be handed to the contracting parties after the ceremony to be retained by them as evidence of the marriage.

The back of the new license contains printed instructions for the guidance of the person solemnizing the marriage and the Bureau of Vital Statistics form of certificate of marriage to be used by the Recorder for recording the facts stated in the original.

The following information for prospective brides and grooms has been issued by Mr. Lampton:

SOLD AT COURTHOUSE

License to marry in Los Angeles county may be obtained by either residents or nonresidents at the office of the County Clerk, in the Courthouse, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., any week day excepting Saturday, when the closing hour is 12 o'clock noon. Licenses are issued nowhere else in the county except for parties physically incapable of appearing at the office, and at no time outside of the hours mentioned except in the judgment of the County Clerk the reason be urgent or the purpose charitable.

Males must be of the age of 21 years or over; females 18 years or over; provided, however, that males under 21 and over 18 and females under 18 and over 16 may procure license by presenting sworn consent of parent or guardian.

By the law of California a marriage license may not be issued to blood relatives closer than cousins, neither to imbeciles or insane persons, or anyone under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug; nor may a license be issued authorizing the marriage of a white person with a negro, mulatto or Mongolian.

Persons divorced in this State cannot obtain a license until after the entry in the County Clerk's office of the final decree of divorce.

Both parties must appear before the County Clerk and swear to the truth of facts given in application. Anyone swearing falsely may be prosecuted and punished according to statute.

A marriage license may be obtained without any delay and the parties may marry at any time thereafter. Our license is good only in Los Angeles county.

To be legally married a marriage ceremony must be performed. One ceremony is sufficient. If marriage by a priest or minister is desired, parties need not also go to a judge or justice. This office cannot aid in selecting the person to perform the ceremony except that the license clerk will, upon request, give access to denominational lists of ministers, priests and rabbis also a list of magistrates, with addresses and telephone numbers.

WARNING ISSUED

Applicants are warned that before leaving the building or premises persons may attempt to take or direct them to those whose only occupation is marrying people for money, dividing their profits with agents or assistants lying in wait on the outside.

To the record of the issuance of a marriage license being by law a public record, the County Clerk cannot withhold same from publicity.

The fee for a marriage license is $2. No gratuities are accepted, because against the best interests of public service, besides an ordinance of the Board of Supervisors. There is no legal fee for performing a marriage ceremony, whatever is paid thereafter is a gift.

Immediately after the ceremony the parties will be handed by the person performing it a certificate of their marriage, which they are to keep. If this is overlooked request should be made for same.

running as high as approximately 500 per cent.

Should a majority of the contract holders decide to continue their monthly payments, it is estimated that the average contract will mature in approximately fifty months, while a considerable proportion, it is said, will not mature before approximately 100 months—eight years and four months. A majority of contracts are for $1000 each.

There has been considerable diminution in business written by the so-called 3 per cent companies, it is said, and it is understood that a checking up of business done by the suspended convertible interest concern showed that the company wrote only forty-nine contracts furing the last sixty days.

STATE STEPS IN

The so-called 3 per cent loan companies organized in California more than six months ago, under simple trust agreements, and for a time proposed to operate without supervision from any State agency.

Following an investigation by Commissioner Daugherty, however, and an opinion by the Attorney-General that such enterprises were subject to the Corporate Securities Act, all loan companies proposing to do business under the "Texas plan" were placed under authority of the Corporation Commissioner and rigid regulations were made as to the manner of operation..

One of the fundamental rulings of the State required the companies to raise their interest rate from 3 per cent to a minimum of 4 per cent; an expense fund was created by requiring deposit of $10 out of each $25 fee collected; a reserve fund of $25,000 was required as further protection to contract-holders, and each officer of the company whose duties required him to handle company funds was required to obtain $50,000 bond.

Mr. Daugherty's regulations also provided for the contingency of a company passing a peak in business and reaching a stage of decline in which "a reasonable margin of safety" could not be assured investors. This stage, it is asserted, was reached by the Convertible Interest Company a short time ago.

OPINIONS UPHELD

Frank H. True, former City Councilman, is president of the California Convertible Interest Company. Other officers are James E. Hall, vice-president; G. W. Lull, secretary; A. A. Kraft, treasurer.

Failure of the "3 per cent" plan to result in financial profit for the promoters, it is said, is accepted as confirmation of the opinion of experts who analyzed the plan when the matter first came before the Corporation Department.

It is understood that Prof. William Leslie, actuary, who worked out details designed to protect the investing public; D. P. Goodwin, chief deputy in the Corporation Commissioner's office, and H. W. Moore, chief auditor, were satisfied that the plan agreed upon with Commissioner Daugherty safeguarded the public, but that it would prove impractical from the promoters' standpoint.

CHAMBER HEAD RADIOS PLEA

Christmas party, but is designed for use after the Yuletide celebration is over and the people have settled down to their normal activities. It is being raised with the thought that while Christmas has been a day of cheer in many cheerless homes, there will be other cheerless days to come. The committee in charge of dispensing the fund will distribute it wisely among worthy organizations, where there is a guarantee that every dollar will do full duty.

"Municipalities are coming to learn that system and order are needed in all community business and that our social institutions, being an important part of the community, should be administered with all the skill and efficiency possible. It is the aim of The Times, in raising this fund, to make it large enough to meet all needs. This is a large order and will call for a generous response on the part of our population. It is hoped that the response will be so generous that during the coming year there will be no worthy charity cases unrelieved."

COMMENDS 'TIMES' FUND IN SPEECH

Rabbi Magnin Tells Rotary Club of Good Work Being Promoted

Commending The Times Charities Fund as one of the greatest and best movements started in 1922, Dr. Edgar F. Magnin, rabbi of Congregation B'nai B'rith, in an address before the Rotary Club at the Alexandria Hotel yesterday, informed his audience that "poverty and sickness do not wait until Christmas to attack their victims."

"Hunger and destitution always may be found in any great city in every month of the year," said Dr. Magnin. "Misfortune may come to any of us, at any moment—and who can tell but that you or I will be in need of assistance before another year shall have passed? Death and disease, fires, accidents and financial crashes occur in May, June and July just as they do at the Yuletide season.

"I am strong for The Times Charities Fund and I want all you Rotarians to support it," said the speaker. "The feeding and clothing of the poor at Christmas time is commendable and the kindly spirit manifested at this season by our prosperous citizens is most laudable, but let us not forget that one turkey dinner a year is not sufficient to reconcile an unfortunate family to 364 days of semi-starvation."

In his report on the cost of the International Rotary convention, Carl Rosenberg said that the entire entertainment had cost approximately $66,000 but that it had not cost the people of Los Angeles a single penny, since the funds were derived from the registrations. When all accounts are settled, said Dr. Rosenberg, the local club will have come out about $6000 to the good.

HUBBY FELL FROM GRACE BY SMOKING

That Was Bad, but Wife Left When He Started on Coca Cola

"All she harped on was that her husband smoked a cigar, drank coca cola and would not go to church on Sundays," said the father of James Leon Stamp, testifying as a witness in the divorce suit of the son against Mildred E. Stamp before Judge Summerfield yesterday.

The father declared he had tried to reason with his daughter-in-law but without success. Rev. James Robertson of Downey testified he had failed to reconcile the couple.

Because of her husband's "vices," Mrs. Stamp declared she would not live with him. They were married May 17, 1919, and separated Dec. 25, 1920. The first domestic cloud arose one Sunday when Mr. Stamp said he would take his bride to church. He was delayed and did not go. Mrs. Stamp packed her suit case and told hom she was going to quit. After reasoning with her, she changed her mind, but insisted:

"You will have to be at church every Sunday or I will leave you."

MOONSHINE CAVE HAS REAL STILL

Hundred-Gallon Plant is Found by Detectives; Arrest Three

The confusing details of how a "reg'lar Kentucky" still in a moonshiners' cavern was discovered by Detectives Box and Level of the Lincoln-Heights station early yesterday morning are set forth in sequence as follows:

Close on the trail of a trailer which had been stolen, the detectives found a picture postcard [illegible] sealed a similarity in names and aroused their suspicions. Driving eight miles up Bouquet Canyon they saw a light in a cabin. It was 2 a.m., a time when all respectable lights should be out. They investigated further and discovered the still.

Nobody but a detective could understand the connection as set forth, so Detective Box will explain it in his own words:

"We stopped Earl Coffrin and his wife Loretta on San Fernando Road and questioned them about the stolen trailer. In Coffrin's automobile we found a postcard addressed to a man named Kincaid at Saugus. Coffrin's explanations about himself were not satisfactory, so we inquired for Kincaid along the way.

"You will have to be at church every Sunday or I will leave you."

"We were told there was such a man up Bouquet Canyon. Finally we saw a light [illegible] and went in. The place was named [illegible] knew the Coffrin [illegible] custody. In fact [illegible] ers. Things [illegible] We obtained a [illegible] searched the [illegible] rock ledge in [illegible] found a still of [illegible] ty. So we arrested [illegible] rin, Mrs. Coffrin and [illegible] on charges of violating the Volstead Act."

"It's very simple [illegible] to understand it," said [illegible] Claude Collins, [illegible] coln-Heights police officer [illegible] missed after a [illegible] over a woman, [illegible] two men escaped.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The marked strength of today's stock market was generally construed as an indication of the financial community's optimism concerning the industrial and business outlook for the next year. Bidding up of stocks was accomplished in the face of a heavy volume of cash sales resorted to in order to establish tax losses, higher call-money rates and the restriction of out-of-town business by the crippled wire service resulting from the storm.

Speculators for the advance paid little attention to outside news developments, although buying of railroad shares undoubtedly was influenced, in part, by the better November earnings statements and the record breaking car loadings for this season of the year. The apparent hitch in the Lausanne peace negotiations because of the inability off the Turks and British to agree on the disposition of the Mosul oil fields failed to materially affect either the foreign exchanges, which fluctuated irregularly within narrow limits, or the wheat market, which was inclined to ease.

A brisk rise in the steel shares in the final dealings was due to a run-in off the short interests, particularly in the independent issues, and fresh buying based in steadily improving conditions in the industry. Crucible Bethlehem B, Replogle, Midvale, Republican common and preferred, Gulf States and U. S. Steel common all closed 1 3-8 to 4 points higher.

Equipments were less active and moved within a narrower range than yesterday, Baldwin, American Locomotive and American Car improving fractionally and General Electric closing 1 1-8 higher.

Oil shares were in good demand. Activity and strength of California Petroleum, which scored a net gain of 3 points, accompanied unconfirmed reports of its possible absorption by Pan-American or Standard Oil of California. General Asphalt gained 2 3-8. Producers and Refiners 1 7-8; Pacific Oil 1¼ and Standard Oil of California 1 3-8. Sinclair moved up more than a point on rumors of higher dividends.

Lehigh Valley and Norfolk and Western each up 2 points, led the advance in railroad shares, other strong spots in which were Atlantic Coast Line, Atchison preferred, Erie first preferred, St. Paul common and preferred and Chicago and Northwestern, all up a point or more. Considerable interest was aroused in railroad circles by the publication of statistics showing that the average monthly traffic on the Panama Canal increased from 525,573 tons in 1921 to 1,278,096 in 1922. The principal railroad systems affected by this water competition are the Canadian Pacific, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific.

There were a number of strong specialities.

Woolworth jumped 4 points in response to reports of record-breaking Christmas sales. North American advanced 4 1-4 points in speculative expectation of an early increase in dividends. Consolidated Gas stock benefited by the expiration tomorrow of rights to the new stock, many speculative holders of the old stock selling the same and buying the rights because the latter could be carried without interest. Endicott-Johnson established a peak price on reports of a stock dividend early next year. Studebaker, selling ex-dividend 25 per cent in stock, sold between 110½ and 114 7-8, closing at the top figure for a net gain of more than 3 points.

Demand sterling got down below $4.64 for a slight fractional loss, but French, Italian, Belgian and German rates showed slight improvement. Holland and Norway remittances dropped 10 points each.

Call money opened at 5 per cent, advanced to 5½ and thence to 6 where it closed, heavy withdrawals by the government and private institutions causing the firmer tone. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, with business quiet.

Day's total sales, 1,042,000 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 99.34; net gain, 1.17; high, 1922, 103.43; low, 78.59. Twenty railroads averaged 85.79 (ex-dividend 13;) net gain, 1.10; high, 1922, 93.99; low, 73.43.

MISS AMERICA LEADS LOCAL SPEED BOATS TO TAPE IN HARBOR RAC

CLUB LAURELS ANNEXED BY GAR WOOD'S ENTRY

Miss Detroit Cops Second Place; Garbutt's Mystery Springs Surprise With a Third

The Miss America, Gar Wood owner, won the first heat of the Gar Wood championship race yesterday afternoon at the Los Angeles Harbor. Her time for the thirty miles was an average speed of fifty and thirty-five hundredths miles per hour. The Garbutt-owned Mystery won third place, while the Miss Detroit came in second.

The race was marred by a serious accident just before the start when the Miss Cecila, Cecil De Mille's entry in the race, caught on fire and was completely destroyed. In taking a few practice turns about the course the Cecila was knocking off some fast time when one of her carburetors backfired and ignited gasoline on the planking of the hull. In a few seconds the whole boat was a mass of flames and in a few more minutes the craft sank, not, however, before De Mille, driver, and Feer, mechanic, jumped overboard. Both men received minor burns, but in jumping, Mr. Feer became entangled in his jacket and was picked up in a drowning condition.

Promptly at 11 o'clock five boats slid across the starting line in close formation. The Miss Detroit, driven by Charles F. Chapman, editor and skipper of Miss Detroit, led the boats to the tape. Close behind him came Frank Garbutt's Mystery, Joe Fellow's, Fellow IV, W. W. Padden's Hurricane II, and then the Frank-owned Lucky Strike. Gar Wood, due to a misunderstanding of the course, got his Miss America away to a bad start. This mistake put him a lap in the rear at the start.

MISS AMERICA LEADS

A few minutes after the start the Miss America took the lead with her sister ship a close second. Mystery followed for several laps but gradually the other two boats drew away until before the eighth lap the two leaders had lapped the field with the exception of the Mystery. On the last lap the Mystery was passed, putting her in third place.

The winner's time was somewhat of a disappointment as far as times were concerned. The Miss America, capable of almost eighty miles an hour, and the Miss Detroit a few miles slower, were expected to step away from the rest of the boats and show some fast time. Although winning the race, the Miss America made only five-tenths of a mile faster than fifty miles per hour. The local Mystery put up a fine race for second and forced the Wood boats to the limit. The fastest lap was turned by the Miss America, which made the three miles in 7:01.

FAIL TO START

Two of the entries, the Lincoln and the Hurricane III, failed to start. The Lincoln at the last minute developed engine trouble and was not able to start, and the Hurricane II, just out of the shop, was held out so as to be a sure starter in the B. H. Dyas trophy race.

The two Wood boats were without a doubt the best boats, but the Mystery showed up remarkably well against such high-class competition. Having undergone a slight change of motor and a change in the hull, she developed a great burst of speed and easily topped the Hurricane II, which a few weeks ago captured the Pacific Coast fast time mark.

Today the races start at the same times and with all the drivers acquainted with the course much faster time should be made.

JOSEPHS HANGS IT ON DUFFY

Eastern Lad Gets Judges' Eyes at Stadium; Crowd Yells Disapproval

BY ED O'MALLEY

Oakland Jimmy Duffy lost the decision to Jack Josephs at the Holly stadium last night in one of the most gripping mitt mixes ever brought off in Los Angeles. The packed house took unkindly to the verdict and was not backward in voicing its chagrin. Taking everything by and large, it looked as if a draw was the worst Duffy should have gotten. However, he resorted to unfair tactics at times, even going so far as to attempt to throw Josephs to the canvas by wrestling stunts.

Josephs stood right up to the Oakland lad at all times and was ever willing to swap punches with him. Jimmy was hardly at his best, his usually good right missing the mark a number of times. The lads fought at a terrific clip throughout, hardly a breathing moment bobbing up during hostilities. Duffy had the first round on points and also a shade in the second.

In the third, however, Josephs let loose some fisticuffs himself, especially about the middle of the session when he one-twoed Jimmy, staggering him. The last session was a humdinger with both lads fighting furiously. Toward the end Duffy finally connected with his right to the jaw, staggering Jack. The crowd rose to its feet with expectancy but Josephs came back with a rattle, milling Jimmy to a standstill. Duffy mussed up his man a great deal in the last session and had him bleeding from the mouth when the gong sounded.

Dandy Dick Griffin scored a clean-cut knockout over Teddy Silva in the semi-wind-up. The end came in the third round. Dick had rushed his man to the ropes. Teddy fell against them with his arms wide apart.

Quicker than a shot, Dick let go a murderous right, clean to the button and down went Teddy, taking the count of eight, when the gong sounded. He tried to come back for the final round, but Referee Blake refused to let the bout go on, and gave the fight to Griffin. Teddy had the better of the milling up to the time of the sleep producer.

The other bouts resulted as follows: Jimmy Dunning beat Al Guillot; Red Uhlan whipped Ray Johnson; Willie O'Brien put it on George Siray; Bennie Marks had it on Young Kayanan, and Sailor Buell caught the judges' eyes in his bout with Harry Carey.

WALLACE AND LAYMAN TO FIGHT AT LYCEUM

The Lyceum Athletic Club has lined up a first-class card of bouts to be staged at their gymnasium tonight. Promoter Dick Donald has signed Otto Wallace of Milwaukee and Joe Layman of Los Angeles for the main event. Wallace has met Lew Tendler and all the best lightweights in the East and is a rough mauler, and can always be depended upon to give the fans a run. Layman is one of the best boys developed in Los Angeles in many years.

Sailor Victola of the U.S.S. Mississippi and Jack Burns, a local boy, meet in the semiwind-up. Victola has boxed draws with Ad Rubidoux, Pete Herman and many other good boys, while Burns has met and defeated some of the best bantams on the Coast.

Benny Shannon and Dummy Weller will meet in the special events.

Other bouts are:

Harry Beecher vs. Coetty Diest, 128 pounds. Jack Grande vs. Herb Miller, 145 pounds. Mike Fuller vs. Ad Selby, 128 pounds.

JACK DEMPSEY GIVEN ANOTHER BOUT OFFER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. — Jack Dempsey got another offer today to fight the winner of the Dick Smith-Joe Beckett bout, which will be held in London shortly. The offer came from Charley Rose, manager of the Crystal Palace to Jack Kearns, offering the champion $300,000 for his piece if he will consent to engage the victor of that bout. It looks like a soft place for the champion and it would not be surprising if Jack gave that offer a hug.

Why Andy Kerr Can't Sleep

Introducing "Tiny" Hewitt, Pitt Fullback

By the above picture nobody, or even anybody, would be inclined to think that the gent pictured was one of the "most line-plunging fools" in the country. Around Hewitt is built the Pittsburg offense and he is the Cards' greatest worry. If the Stanford line can stop Hewitt in his line plunges, when Pittsburg and Stanford meet in their big clash today at Palo Alto, Andy Kerr figures the Cards have a chance to win. If the Cardinals do stop Hewitt, something which no eleven in the East could do, today's struggle should be a good one. Hewitt weighs 213 pounds and is a fast hombre for his weight.

Big Crowd to See Squads in Snappy Games

A large crowd is expected to see the Los Angeles White Sox and Red Oldham's All-Stars clash in the first of a three-game series at the White Sox Park today. Last week the same squads met in three tilts, with the Sox taking the series, two games to one, after some of the best baseball seen here this winter.

"Deacon" Jones, former Oakland twirler, will be on the mound for the Stars today against Linder of the Sox. These two pitchers engaged in a hot mound duel last Saturday that finally ended in a win for the Stars. Both pitchers always chuck sterling ball and today's battle should be well worth seeing.

Tomorrow Oldham, famous Detroit mound man, will twirl against Mendes in what should be a wonderful battle. Last Sunday Mendes pitched his team into a 2-to-1 win over Oldham, but Oldham wanted another chance, so the two will meet again tomorrow. Thurston will oppose Curry in the New Year's game. Hannah will catch for the Stars.

East and West to Meet on Gridiron Tod

CARDS IN CLASH WITH PITTSBURG

Palo Alto Will be Scene of Fray This Afternoon

Panthers Made Favorites to Trim Stanford Team

Westerners' Line Ready for Attacks of Hewitt

BY JOE PUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PALO ALTO, Dec. 29.—Before the vulgar gaze of a vast throng of cash customers, the spotlight will be played here tomorrow upon the back yard squabble in the Warner family. Head Coach Glenn Warner will send his Pittsburg Panthers against Advisory Coach Glenn Warner's Stanford Cardinals with Little Andy Kerr, who has directly fathered the local eleven throughout the season, standing small chance of getting anything but a bit of reflected glory of the mess.

Both teams are apparently in the best of condition, although each will be without the services of a star performer. Pittsburg must play without Capt. Tommy Holleran, whose broken pinion is scarcely ready for use, and ex-Capt. Art Wilcox will almost certainly view the struggle from the side lines as far as Stanford is concerned. The injury to the Cardinal halfback's neck has not shown the proper response to treatment and he has been ordered to stay out to avoid permanent injury.

LIKELY WINNER

The Pittsburg team is generally conceded hereabouts as the likely winner of the family quarrel. The Panthers, according to Walter Eckersall, were probably the strongest team in the East at the close of the season and they are undoubtedly an aggregation of tremendous power. In their final workout today on the practice field they went at full speed while the Cardinals, who worked in the stadium this afternoon, likewise seemed in perfect condition.

Aside from Pittsburg's greater experience, Stanford's lack of a "punch" would give the shade to the easterners. Although the Cards have shown themselves to be an unusually powerful defense aggregation, they have never shown ability to get together on a sustained attack even against weak teams in early practice games. If Stanford scores it will probably be by means of Mr. Cuddeback's educated toe.

Chief interest centers on the ability of the Stanford line to withstand the attack of Hewitt, the 204-pound fullback from the steel city. The field is soggy and it is generally thought that the game will be a series of terrific line plays in which the Pittsburgers will attempt to pulverize the Stanford front rank. The Cardinals believe that they can stop Hewitt just as they stopped Morrison of California and the players have great hopes of possible victory.

NOVEL POSSIBILITIES

The situation in which Pop Warner finds himself is one full of novel possibilities. As Pittsburg coach he is facing a team which he has coached by proxy all season, one which uses a system of play supposedly laid down by him. It is a situation where his right hand isn't supposed to know what his left hand is doing and vice versa. Incidentally, Pop is sure to be the hero of the occasion, no matter who wins, and Andy Kerr, who has been responsible for Stanford's showing this season, doesn't stand to get much credit if he wins but will doubtless be blamed if he loses.

Prospects for a good crowd are bright. There are enough coaches and scouts in town to make a respectable crowd all by themselves, and interest in the game has been considerably heightened by the unexpectedly strong showing of Gonzaga against West Virginia. Just what Gonzaga's showing against West Virginia under one set of conditions has to do with Stanford's showing against Pittsburg under another set of conditions is not quite clear, but anyhow Stanford stock has taken quite a rise since Christmas day.

Trojan Front

BY CLIFTON B. HERD,
U.S.C. Advisory Coach

"Gus" Henderson drove his twenty-five Trojans fast and hard in yesterday's workout. "Hobo" Kincaid went at his work like a colt in the pasture—speed and dash and concentration were his middle name. Kincaid is the most reliable, all-around back on Henderson's squad, particularly at taking out his man or men, on offense, and backing up the line and covering on passes on the defense.

FINE SPIRIT

I cannot help but comment on the splendid spirit that runs high through the Trojan squad. The recent unanimous election of "Chet" Dolly as captain for the 1923 Trojan varsity reflects this spirit. Admitting "Chet's" popularity from the start, yet men on the squad in other fraternities than "Chet's," thought only for the best of the varsity, so they elected the man they knew would make the best leader. This spirit insists that the team and U.S.C. come first, and this spirit is what makes the men adhere strictly to Henderson's every request as to training. This spirit carries with it the great fighting heart that never knows defeat. We all look to see this spirit carry the Trojans to victory on January 1.

One more day of practice and Henderson's men will rest over Sunday. Henderson has expressed his satisfaction as to their condition physically and mentally, and he has no worries at all except when he remembers something about a couple of dozen Nittany Lions, lying in wait for his Trojans down at the Raymond.

Gus really has two worries and they are "Chet" Dolly, and the weather. Whether to play, or not to play Dolly, that is the question. There is no doubt that the boy's leg is far from being right, and, though he never complains, yet in the daily workouts he favors it unconsciously. Should "Chet" not play, no one will regret it more than Henderson and the coaching staff, but the future must be looked to, and we must have the Long Beach boy in Al shape for 1923.

BAKER LOOKS GOOD

"Bullet" Baker was rarin' to go yesterday afternoon. He kept talking to himself, and eleven Penn-State players, while running through signals. As the time draws near for the Nittany Lion battle, Baker grows harder and harder—also better and better. "Gus" has ordered a keg of nails for him and his playful backfield teammates at the training table.

Last night at the Maryland the entire squad, with a few friends and guests of the team, had dinner in the grill, and a high-class entertainment was furnished by professional talent, much to the satisfaction of all hands. The varsity quartet, known as the "sour" quartet, composed of "Kentuck" Plythian, basso, Tony Wayahn, second tenor; "Bubbles" Boice, tenor, and "Ukulele" Freeman, baritone, tried to sing, but were overruled by a popular vote. Here are a crowd of men, who play hard and work hard on the gridiron, and who play hard, relax and enjoy life off the field of play.

PLAYERS ARE IMPATIENT

Henderson is to be congratulated on the manner in which he keeps up the spirit and morale of his men. The way they feel now, January 1 cannot come too soon, and every man who doesn't start will wish the man who beat him for his position all the luck in the world, and his next wish will be that he, himself, will get into the fray and have a chance to tackle fast, elusive and charging Nittany Lions.

GRID MENTORS LIKE ANGELES VISTA CLUB

Wednesday afternoon Gene Mahoney, George Costello and Voyle Brennen, well-known grid coaches around Los Angeles, went out to the Angeles Vista Golf Club for a little round of play. They rented clubs and went out to dig up the turf. Thursday they came back for more, and yesterday they appeared with sets of brand-new clubs.

According to the gentlemen in question, the attraction of the course was such that they could not forbear a second trip, and the third time they were bitten by the now famous "golf bug."

Lion Sector

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Pursuing the Nittany Lions yesterday, one needed a flock of houn' dawgs. It was more difficult than treeing a possum.

If they are as elusive on Monday as they were yesterday, the Trojans will have a hard time laying a glove on them. Some time during the day Penn State dragged its panapoly and paraphernalia out of the Rose Bowl and vanished a la Clara. Also they were reported in almost in as many places as Clara, and most of the tips proved just as punk.

MANY RUMORS

One rumor had them practicing at the Pasadena Golf Club and another at the Pasadena High School grounds. Still another had them training at old Tournament Park. The only sign of training activities there were some young roses being trained to climb a new wire trellis. No excitement in that. His school grounds deserted, and golf course littered up with gentlemen in knee pants chasing white balls across the topography of California. This was majestic, but not exciting, except for the gentlemen in knee pants. Not a football player in sight.

Rather a cold trail was then taken up which led to Patterson Field, Occidental College, whither it seems, Brother Bezdek and his men had gone for prayer and meditation. If they have any great sorrow, they wanted to be alone with it. Also, they desired to [illegible] practice in private for added touch of gloss for New Year's. Bezdek is now putting on the final touches, and applying the varnish, so to speak.

However, it was possible by one means and another to witness this star chamber session of the easterners. In the earlier part of the practice, the eleven was in charge of Trainer Joe Martin.

IN GOLF GARB

It was reported that Bezdek was out calling on the Trojans incognito. But an hour later, Hugo appeared arrayed in all the glory of a golf suit. Rather an effective disguise, which left one in doubt as to whether he had been trailing the Trojans or merely trailing a golf ball. Mr. Bezdek, being of the low, underslung type of athlete, with enormous shoulders and the neck of a bison, looked very spiffy in sawed-off tweeds. One could reflect on how cute he would look playing lawn tennis with a rhinoceros wearing white flannel trousers. A stranger seeing Mr. Bezdek enter the park remarked that never before had he seen an elephant wearing rompers. That much for the pulsance of Hugo's personal appearance in golfing togs.

Frankly, after seeing the Penn Staters in action, I know less about them than I thought I did. Their workout was far from impressive. More than likely they are holding a lot of stuff under cover. They shape up splendidly in appearance. They are plenty heavy and robust, and no doubt normally fast. But yesterday there was a lack of snap to their work. First they were sent up and down the field in 10-yard sprints, and this seemed to be a real effort for some of the men. Whether this effort was real or stimulated, is a question. However, Bezdek, having coached on the Coast, it seems hardly conceivable to allow his men to go stale on his hands, although of course no coach or trainer can wholly nullify the effects which climate may have on a group of athletes. A cold or a rainy day will be in favor of the Lions. If it is a fairly warm day they are liable to "tire out" in the third or fourth quarter. This latter statement is based on their appearance in action yesterday. Perhaps, they simply were working under wraps.

COMBAT PASS

Much of the time was devoted to combatting the Trojan form of forward pass. The second eleven executed this with the first team on the defensive. A majority of these passes which might have been completed, were covered, but more of them didn't need to be covered because so poorly executed or the absence of anybody to receive them. This feature of the practice must have been phoney. Even the second-string men are not the novices that these passes would indicate.

Bedenk was back at guard, but did his work rather conservatively, not placing his injured shoulder in unnecessary jeopardy. Also, W. Hamilton was at center in lieu of Capt. Bents. Not much was seen of Mike Palm in action, but this bird is right out of the original football mold. You can tell that at a look. Wilson, Hufford and Lefferty were the other backfield men. This quartet will cause some trouble.

Joe Rafferty was present for a time, and handed out a line of hot dope. He predicts a great and close struggle because both teams are fitted out with Spalding equipment. This, he says, makes it an even bet. After all, that probably is about as reliable as any other dope.

TROJANS HAVE EDGE

The best punter and drop-kicker I saw on the field was a fat boy in store clothes. He was booting that pigskin with great distance and fine precision. He is a Penn State freshman who will be in the line-up next season, but has not

Filipino Takes Decision After Furious Battle

Flyweight Champ Appears Throughout Tilt

Crowd Kept on Toes From Start to Finish

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, went out of his class and defeated Terry Martin, former bantamweight, in a fifteen-round contest at the Square Garden. The Filipino received the judge's decision after a bout that kept the crowd on their toes from start to finish.

Villa took the aggressive from the start, boring in and practically cyclonic fashion, and found Martin willing to trade punches. The Provincetown boy landed several hard lefts to the head in the first round, but was driven to the ropes in the second round by the Filipino launches a terrific attack. Both mixed freely in the third, Villa sending Martin to the mat on his heels once with a hard left hook.

MIX FURIOUSLY

Villa hammered Martin around the ring in the fourth, opening a cut on his rival's nose. The Filipino was sent sprawling to the mat with a left swing that missed his jaw. Martin repeated this performance at Villa's body in the fifth. The sixth was a slam-bang affair, both mixing furiously with Villa finally landing effectively with a left hook to Martin's head.

Both swings were even in the seventh, but in the eighth Martin apparently had Villa at his mercy. He landed several hard rights and hooks to the head. However, Villa came back strong, however, and at the end of the round and fought severely about the ring. Both were about even in the seventh, with an exchange in the eighth.

Martin forced Villa to the ropes with a terrific attack in the tenth, but the Filipino slugger landed his opponent on the body and rocked Martin with a stiff left jab. Villa was the aggressor throughout the eleventh, neither of the boys scoring effectively in these rounds.

VILLA ...

Villa smashed his opponent to the head in the twelfth. Martin partly evened matters with a left swing, but was peppered his right eye in the fourteenth, closing the eye. Martin's stiff body blows in the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds, however, failed to faze Villa, who was the aggressor throughout the fifteen rounds, landing his left to the head and body at will. Villa was the aggressor throughout most of the bout.

FLEET STAGES SEMI-FIN

Semi-finals in the Pacific Coast boxing and wrestling tournament were staged last night at the Pacific Coast Club, the U.S.S. New Mexico being the guests of honor. Fifteen bouts were on the program, with a decision in each instance of 3000 bluejackets.

Fisher of the New Mexico and Ashmore of the Canopus fought up the best bout of the evening. Weighing in at 125 pounds, the fought like tigers to the finish, Fisher got the decision.

Of eight bouts four were decided on fault. The results were: Connecticut, decision over Mississippi, 115 pounds; somewhere between 30,000 to 40,000 is expected. Tennessee, defeated Pennsylvania, 115 pounds; Texas, defeated by Tennessee, 115 pounds; Arizona, defeated by Texas, 125 pounds; May, California, defeated by Arizona, 125 pounds; Snyder, Mississippi, defeated by Rollins, Texas, 135 pounds; Tennessee, 147 pounds, defeated by Connecticut, knocked out by Tennessee, 158 pounds; Arizona, 158 pounds, defeated by Arizona, 175 pounds.

In the wrestling matches, Arizona, three Gonzaga men, Arizona, 125 pounds, threw Nault, New Mexico, in 5 minutes 24 seconds. Arizona, 135 pounds; Sheehan, Arizona, threw Nault, New Mexico, in 5 minutes 54 seconds. Arizona, 145 pounds; Campbell, New Mexico, from Parsells, Pennsylvania, in 5 minutes. Weight, 158 pounds; Wilkan, California, won from Millspaugh, in 9 minutes. Weight, 175. Mullikan also from Mississippi, in 4 minutes 30 seconds.

The fleet championship bouts will be held aboard the [illegible] on January 31.

ROOSEVELT BOXING RULES

Jim Corbett Swings a New Code Named for Great American; Expert Advocates Trial

BY DE WITT VAN COURT

Jim Corbett has written a set of boxing rules that are to be known as the Roosevelt Rules. Jim has attempted to cover every possible thing that may possibly occur during a boxing contest, also some things covering the actions of the referees and seconds. I believe there is no man living today as competent to compile a set of boxing rules as Corbett. No boxer in the history of boxing has made as deep a study of the art of boxing.

Every move of the feet, hands and head has been studied separately by him and aside from that, Corbett was a fine wrestler in his younger days, having wrestled many times with some of the greatest wrestlers of his time during his gymnasium practice. This knowledge made him a master at close quarters and in the clinches. Corbett never made it a practice to clinch, but he never was hit in a breakaway and could block the strongest man from doing him any damage when it came to protecting himself.

SURE MASTER

A perfect master of the art of self-defense. Jim's rules have deviated a little from the Marquis of Queensberry rules. He has simply added some things that many have been trying to do for many years, in their endeavor to better the game, and trying to give the boxing fans something that will satisfy them. Everybody seems to be up in the air over the interpretation of the rules.

It is not new rules we need so much, but referees who thoroughly understand Queensberry rules and who have the courage to enforce them as they were intended to be. The greatest detriment to boxing today is the eternal clinching by most of the present-day boxers. There is nothing in the rules that permit clinching at any time or for any purposes.

HOLDING FORBIDDEN

Holding with either or both hands of the arms or gloves, around the neck or body comes under this same ruling. But how many referees make a constant practice of allowing these things without disqualifying a contestant. There is absolutely no possibility of bettering the standard of boxing until these things are eliminated entirely and at all times and under all circumstances.

The present generation of boxing fans fail to understand the value of this particular point. It has been suggested by some referees that a fine for clinching might be a good remedy. A disqualification is the only sure cure. Why not try it regardless of what the comments might be? It is surely worth it to the game.

MUST RETURN

Another point that well might be enforced as to compel a boxer to return to his corner after he has knocked his opponent down. This is another rule that is seldom enforced. Nothing much is thought of one boxer standing over another until the man on his feet takes some unfair advantage before the boxer down has a fair chance to regain his boxing attitude. Then there is always a terrible howl from the crowd. If the rule was enforced to the letter, an unfair advantage could never possibly occur.

Jim also lays some stress on the conduct of the seconds in the boxer's corner. This is a very fine rule. What is more disgusting to sit and listen to some loud mouth second offering some silly advice to him man. This and other actions during the minute's rest could well be eliminated both for the pleasure of the audience and benefit of the boxer.

SWING SPONGE

How often do we see some excited seconds scrambling into the ring and through the ropes, dousing a contestant with a wet sponge, then giving him a shower bath as soon as he sits in his chair; then choking him with a bottle of water before he regains his breath, rubbing his legs, arms and ears and many other silly grand-stand useless things that all go to excite and tire the man who often needs a quiet minute's rest.

Corbett's rules should be given a fair trial, but it is doubtful if any improvement can be made in the old Marquis of Queensberry rules pertaining to the actual boxing part.

SANTEL LIKES OUTDOOR LIFE

Crack Matman is Strong on Nature Stuff

Says Mountain Climbing is Best Training

Will Wrestle Pergantos at Philharmonic

Ad Santel, light-heavyweight champion of the world, is a great advocate of outdoor living. He spends much time each year hunting, fishing and camping, both in the mountains and at the seashore. He claims that tramping over the mountains is the greatest training an athlete can have. He credits his many victories on the mat to the outdoor training that he has had in the past. He is planning a trip for next season to shoot big game in the Canadian Rockies, having been up there two years ago on an extended hunting trip.

TO SHOW EFFECTS

Ad will show us the effects of his training next Thursday night at the Philharmonic Auditorium, when he takes on Louis Pergantos, the Greek light-heavyweight champion, who is said by those who have been watching him work out at a local gymnasium, to be exceptionally clever on the mat, and although lacking in years of experience, he makes up in physical stature.

There will be several good preliminaries and, according to the enthusiastic crowd that attended the last card at the Auditorium, there should be a full house this time—with the ladies invited.

LEWIS AND TAFALAS TO TANGLE UP

Strangler in Title Mat Bout at Hollywood Next Thursday Night

Umberto Revere, the grand-opera singer and wrestling promoter, started something this time by signing up Strangler Lewis to appear in defense of his title before Los Angeles fans.

The wrestling public around these parts, ever since it was rumored that the Strangler was soon to meet Jack Dempsey in a mixed match, has been wondering just what Lewis possesses to even think of such a match with the world's champion socker. As an opponent Revere has selected Demetrius Tafalas, a Greek champion and the world's strongest man. They will meet at the Hollywood American Legion arena on January 10.

A double main event of wrestling is the show Revere is to stage and will be the first of several such exhibitions, in which the best wrestling talent of the world is to appear.

The winner of the Lewis-Tafalas affair will be matched with Stecher and the affair also will be held at Hollywood. The double main event stuff ought to satisfy the most rabid fan. Two well-known gougers, Jim Londos and Angelo Taramascki, have been matched.

Both matmen always give plenty of action and know their stuff. They have been dangerous rivals for the title for some time. The winner will challenge the winner of the Lewis-Tafalas match.

ANGELENOS GO SOUTH FOR RACES

Special Train to Carry Tijuana Turf Fans Across Border

More than 500 local sports and enthusiasts bent on taking in the big Sunday-New Year's racing card at Tijuana have reserved seats on the special Santa Fe train that will leave here at 8:30 tomorrow morning. The train will leave San Diego on the return trip at 7 o'clock Monday night.

Hundreds of other turfites will make the jaunt in their own machines and on the motor stages. The highway is in perfect shape, as the repairs which necessitated a mean detour near Capistrano have been completed and the road opened to traffic.

Big feature events for both Sunday and Monday have been arranged by President Coffroth of the Jockey Club. A sprint handicap will be the star number on an eight-race Sabbath card, and the annual running of the New Year's handicap will top the list on the first day of 1923. Many of the best horses in winter training have been entered in the latter, and an added purse of $2500 has been hung up for the winner.

The Ross colors achieved another handicap victory yesterday at Tijuana when the speedy Feylance, packing top weight of 117 pounds, won handily over the mile route in the feature event. Supercargo got off to a bad start, but made up much ground. The race settled down to a contest between these two, Feylance having a length and a half to the good at the wind-up.

Jockey M. Fator registered three more victories today, the winning mounts being F. G. Corleym, Athanna and Little Beach.

Yesterday's results follow:

First race, five and one-half furlongs: Little Pointer, 108 (Long) won; Harry Badder, 116 (D. Hurn) second; Thirty-seven, 104 (M. Fator) third. Time—1:06.

Second race, five and one-half furlongs: F. G. Corley, 108 (M. Fator) won; Nag, 111 (Thomas) second; Kimono, 115 (Pyrtle) third. Time—1:06.

Third race, five and one-half furlongs: Athanna, 104 (M. Fator) won; Ehrobie, 105 (Dugan) second; Sir Lemuel, 110 (Peland) third. Time—1:06.

Fourth race, one mile and one-sixteenth: By Right, 105 (Thomas) won; Walter Dust, 113 (D. Hurn) second; Delph, 116 (Clever) third. Time—1:47 4-5.

Fifth race, one mile: Feylance, 117 (Clever) won; Supercargo, 111 (E. Fator) second; Allenbo, 99 (Long) third. Time—1:40 4-5.

Sixth race, six furlongs: Little Beach, 104 (M. Fator) won; Grace E. 109 (Dugan) second; Mollie Burns, 104 (Martin) third. Time—1:14.

Seventh race, six furlongs: Athanna, 105 (Long) won; Sea Dust, 106 (Thomas) second; July Fly, 113 (Atwell) third. Time—1:14 2-5.

Triple-A Clubs in Six Games on Diamonds

Entering on their eleventh and next to the last week of scheduled play, twelve Triple-A League clubs will clash in six red-hot contests on Southern California diamonds tomorrow. Sawtelle's battling squad, which is leading the Shell Oil nine by a scant half game, will tackle the dangerous Hammond Lumber Company aggregation in the Sawtelle Park in the feature game of the day.

Shorty Fiester's second-place Oilers will attempt to overhaul the leaders by taking the Rose Room Dancers down the line, something that is liable to give them a lot of trouble before the day ends.

The Standard Oil squad and the Cos-Haas crowd hook up in mortal combat at Tournament Park. This game is expected to draw a large crowd. At San Pedro the Standard-Murphys and the San Pedro Merchants will provide the amusement. The Santa Fe Reds journey to Ventura to take on the Elks there. In the other contest the Huntington Beach Merchants entertain the El Segundo bat wielders at Huntington Beach.

After Sunday's games the clubs will start playing the postponed struggles. When the postponed games are all over with the twelfth and final round of tilts will be played and the winner of the pennant will be known.

Sierra Club Plans Doings for Week-end

More than fifty members of the San Francisco Bay section of the Sierra Club are due to arrive here this morning on the Owl from the northern city for a celebration which is being planned by the local branch of the hiking club, according to Phil S. Bernays of the local division.

After a sight-seeing trip around the city, luncheon will be served this noon at the Beverly Hills Hotel. C. J. Fox, local chairman of the club, and Col. John D. White, superintendent of the Sequoia National Forest and the General Grant National Park, will address the guests, after which the Douglas Fairbanks home will be visited. The evening will be taken up with a banquet at the Ebell Club.

A hike from the top of Mt. Lowe to the top of Mt. San Gabriel has been planned for tomorrow, and a visit to "Robin Hood" for tomorrow night. For the first time in the history of the club a float will be entered in the Tournament of Roses parade by the local chapter in honor of the visitors. After watching the great spectacle Monday morning the visitors will attend the East-West football game in the afternoon before starting for home on the Owl.

REPORT FROM LION SECTOR

yet had his measure taken for a uniform.

Everything considered, the Trojans probably have an edge, but never get the idea that Bezdek's birds don't know a lot more football than they are showing. They have had a longer and harder schedule than the Trojans, and therefore must have picked up more football on the season's play. Five of Penn State's games were just about like U.S.C. playing California five times. Hence, that much for one day of football exploration and research.

SPORTSMEN PLAN LAST DRIVE ON SQUIRREL

With the season on tree squirrels closing on New Year's Eve the local nimrods are planning for their last attack on the only animals which have not been bagged in any quantities this season. According to Pete Peterson of the B. H. Dyas Company, many local hunters have been getting their guns and other accessories into condition for the last shoot, as it is believed that the recent snows in the mountains have driven some of the gray-tailed beauties to the foothills.

Duck and quail season close simultaneously on January 15, thus narrowing the field down to rabbits. Reports have it that there are plenty of fat quail in the valleys in, and around Los Angeles county and many hunters plan New Year's Day trips to their haunts. Large quantities of ducks are reported all through Imperial Valley

TROJANS AIM TO HOLD LADY LUCK

There's no need to get excited, this is not in a literal sense at all, but figuratively speaking they would give a great deal to know that the suits which they are to wear will hold for them as much luck on next Monday afternoon as they have held in the past season. Due to this superstition the members of the football team of the University of Southern California appealed to Gloomy Gus Henderson to allow them to wear the somewhat tattered suits which have served so well in the past. The result was that the gloomy mentor perscribed the old Cardinal and Gold jerseys for his team and all is well in the camp of the local school. Penn State's men will don the dark blue shirts of their college when they meet the local lads in the great East-West game at Pasadena Monday.

The Bootlegger's Bad Ways and Big Profits

The lazy and dreamy old Nassau that in other days traded in sponges and tropical fruits, is today a busy commercial center. The sponge-baths are now used as the small craft of the smugglers to reach the South Atlantic coast of the United States, while vessels of all sizes that range from sea-going tugs to a converted Spanish battle-cruiser, carry the cargoes of rum to New York and the New England coast. In the bar-rooms, at the dining-tables, in the lobbies and on the porches of the hotels and boarding-houses at Nassau, the capital city of the Bahama Islands, the bootleggers and whisky smugglers "talk of their plans, tell of their profits and laugh at Uncle Sam." There, according to Frank K. Dolan, who went to the Bahamas to study the rum-runners' methods for the New York Daily News, "a man is either 'right' or 'queer'." If a stranger is suspected of being "queer"—thought to be a revenue officer, a detective, or some one likely to interfere with the rum-smugglers' operations—"he is curtly told to leave town, and in some instances blackjacked and beaten."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, December 30th, there is an informative and interesting account of the methods and operations of the whisky smugglers.

MAY BAR OUT BENTON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Pitcher Rube Benton, recently purchased by the Cincinnati Nationals from St. Paul, will be barred from baseball if investigation reveals he was involved in the crooked world's series of 1919, Commissioner Landis announced tonight. Commissioner Landis is investigating reports that Benton won a large sum of money betting on a tip that Cincinnati would win the series.

Benton called on the commissioner yesterday to inquire into his status and was told there was nothing in the commissioner's records at this time to prevent him from playing in organized baseball.

The commissioner, however, has started investigation of reports that Benton had knowledge of the "fixing" of the 1919 world's series and when informed tonight that President Heydler of the National League had taken steps to bar Benton as an undesirable, the commissioner said he would continue his inquiry and probably would have a full report ready before the 1923 season opens.
